SEAS' FREEDOM STAND IS TAKEN BY MACDONALD

British Premier Designate Would Settle Issue Prior to Disarming Parley.

CHANGE IS PLANNED IN HISTORIC POLICY

Comment of Labor Leader Shows Agreement With Views of Borah.

COOPERATION OF U. S. WILL BE REQUESTED

Initiation of New Negotiations Will Alter Naval Treaty Program of Hoover.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Ramsay MacDonald's Anglo-American policy on peace and naval limitations is to be along such broad guage lines that the program of the Hoover administration for naval reductions may have to materially altered to fit the new situation.

The British premier, according to cable dispatches reaching here yesterday, will insist upon settlement of the problem of freedom of the seas as the necessary and logical fundamental move toward bringing about real naval reduction, and, at the same time, the new premier dismisses the cruiser problem, which involves the Gibson formula for measuring relative fighting strength of navies, as "rather subsidiary."

Thus Ramsay MacDonald assumes a leadership of his own in the matter of naval reductions which forecasts unwillingness to take the cruiser problem or the Gibson formula seriously, but asserts readiness to accord 100 per cent indorsement to the Borah-Walsh resolution, passed in the last cruiser bill, calling upon the President to arrange for a conference on freedom of the seas.

Agrees With Senator Borah.

Apparently Ramsay MacDonald and Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, see eye to eye in the sort of naval reduction program which the British premier is determined to work for. Both regard freedom of the seas as absolutely essential to any real naval reduction. Both regard any and all other moves as beside the point and evasive of the real issue.

Senator Borah yesterday expressed himself frankly on the subject and made it clear that he believes it futile to discuss other phases of naval reductions until the freedom of the seas question has been settled.

"In my opinion," said Senator Borah, "there will be no real reduction of armaments until there is a complete understanding between the maritime powers as to the use of the seas.

"At the present time the sea is a lawless carpet. If a neutral ship puts out from one of her ports there is no assurance whatever that she may not be seized in case war breaks out anywhere.

"Navies to Protect Commerce."

"So long as powerful commercial nations have no security for their commerce except force, they will build great navies."

President Hoover is to be informed of the new British Premier's freedom of the seas program in the near future, and it is understood that Ramsay MacDonald will ask the cooperation of the Government of the United States in a joint effort to make freedom of the seas an actuality. The fact that the Congress here has voted overwhelmingly in favor of such a conference and has requested the President to call such a conference, prior to 1931 if practicable, makes it probable that the Hoover administration will give immediate consideration to Ramsay MacDonald's suggestion.

Ambassador Gibson, at the last Geneva conference of the preparatory commission of the League of Nations, did not mention freedom of the seas, despite the action by the American Congress. Before Mr. Gibson left Washington for Geneva it had been decided not to bring that matter up.

British Policy Is Reversed.

The reason is understood to have been a fear—probably justified—that the British government would not welcome such a move and that British opposition to freedom of the seas might jeopardize the discussions at the Geneva meeting.

The action of Ramsay MacDonald puts an entirely new light on the picture. The deliberations at Geneva, centering around the Gibson formula, were considered important, and freedom of the seas was regarded as a matter which could not even be discussed. Now freedom of the seas may be the all-important matter, and discussion of the Gibson formula may be regarded by Ramsay MacDonald as a subsidiary matter which need not consume British attention.

The British premier takes the position that the cruiser problem, which wrecked the Geneva conference and which brought forth the suggested Gibson formula, will adjust itself if freedom of the seas is made an actual-

British Ambassador Will Refuse to Sign Requests for Liquor

Embassy Looms as Diplomatic Dry Spot When Sir Esme Informs Members of Staff That Henceforward Approval Will Not Be Given for Shipments of Alcoholic Beverages.

The British Embassy loomed as one of the dry spots of the Capital yesterday when it became known that Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador, had informed members of the embassy staff that from now on he will refuse to sign requests for shipments of alcoholic liquors.

This virtually means that as soon as supplies now on hand in the cellars of British diplomats are exhausted, the British envoy will in fact have fulfilled the promise he made recently in a letter to James T. Carter, prohibitionist of Lynchburg, Va., that he would surrender the well-recognized diplomatic privilege of importing alcoholic liquors should the United States intimate a desire to cancel the privilege.

In fact, by waiving the diplomatic privilege of his own accord before receiving any intimation, formal or informal, that the Hoover administration desires diplomats to forego their rights of importing wines, he has gone a long step further than his promise to the Virginia prohibition leader called for.

The ordinary course followed by Washington diplomats when they wish to restock their cellars with choice vintages from their own lands is to inform the State Department that a shipment is expected by such and such a boat arriving, say, in Baltimore on a given day. The State Department in turn informs the Treasury Department, which issues instructions to the customs authorities to pass the shipment on to a representative of the embassy in question, who will come armed with the proper credentials.

The crates, carefully guarded, are then loaded on a truck and, with the diplomat perched atop, are hurried to his chancery in Washington, where distribution is made to the members of the staff, according to the orders they have placed.

The hitch is that the original request to the State Department must be signed by the chief of mission desiring the shipment passed, in the case of the British Embassy, Sir Esme Howard. Should he refuse to make the request he is perfectly within his rights, it is explained, as much so, for instance, as if he should request the members of his staff to stay away from a certain club—a situation which has frequently

SUCCESSOR'S NAME READY FOR SENATE

ORIGINALLY CHOSEN BY COOLIDGE IN 1926

Work Has Gained Approval of Officials as Well as Congress Leaders.

Carl T. Schuneman has submitted his resignation as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of public buildings and miscellaneous, according to information obtained last night, and it is understood President Hoover is ready to send the name of his successor to the Senate for confirmation.

For the last year Mr. Schuneman has been in charge of the Federal building program, probably the most comprehensive ever undertaken, and gained the commendation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon as well as former President Coolidge and leaders of the Senate and House.

Mr. Schuneman was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in December, 1928, by President Coolidge, to succeed Assistant Secretary McKenzie Moss, who resigned to become a judge of the Court of Claims.

Before Secretary Mellon gave Schuneman control of the Federal building program he was in charge of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the office of the supervising architect, the public

Treasury Surplus Increase Expected

Experts Believe That Taxes Will Raise Total to $200,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

With only 25 days remaining of the 1929 fiscal year, Treasury experts who have predicted there would be a surplus of at least $100,000,000 in the Government revenues this year are looking to the June income tax payments to double that figure.

For the fiscal year to date there is a deficit of $158,766,958, as total expenditures have amounted to $3,440,983,135, while receipts have aggregated $3,282,216,176, but if the June income tax payments approximate those of March, when the total was $86,000,000 above that for March, 1928, the deficit will be more than wiped out.

Income tax payments in June last year totaled $458,102,000, a decrease of $57,000,000 over March of the previous year. Treasury experts expect that the decrease will be smaller this year, due to the greater individual prosperity in 1928, but point out that even with the same decrease the payments would total $544,000,000 which would leave a surplus of $185,000,000.

FARM BILL HARMONY REPORTED BY M'NARY

Fate of Representation Measure Hangs Upon Southern Stand.

TAMMANY AID LOSS FELT IN DIXIE RANKS

Senator Simmons Scores Raskob, Demanding Resignation of "Wet Republican."

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover's extra session of Congress, trying to get off the rocks with its farm bill, struck a serious snag yesterday when the House leaders, after a series of conferences, admitted inability to work out any plan that would bring order out of the chaos created by the reapportionment bill.

This time it is the lower branch, well advertised as the administration's model of efficiency, that has gone to pieces. Perhaps it has been working too hard, or too efficiently. At any rate, the break is not in twain but into four or more pieces.

Just as Senator McNary, chairman of the Senate agriculture committee, was announcing the agreement of the conferees on the farm bill with the debenture eliminated, Majority Leader Tilson, of the House, was expressing serious apprehension that the reapportionment bill would be defeated.

He recognizes the underlying forces behind the alien exclusion and Tinkham amendments as those that want the bill defeated. There were conferences of the House leaders throughout the day, while the House stood in recess, but in the end they decided to let nature take its course today.

Southerners Are Frightened.

Whether the reapportionment will be defeated depends upon whether the Southerners have been sufficiently frightened by the turn of events to withdraw from the effort to exclude aliens from the census count. The general belief is that if this amendment stays in the bill the Tinkham amendment denying the South representation for its non-voting colored population will also remain.

The House leaders considered a plan of bringing in a rule calling for a vote on the two amendments combined, thus hoping to kill them off but concluded that they did not have the majority vote to adopt such a rule.

The Southerners are justifiably frightened but there is some question as to whether they might not go ahead in the realization that the bill would never pass with the two amendments in it. Although the South would break about even on representation under the reapportionment plan, some States losing one or more members in the House but others gaining a like number, there is no reason to believe that as a section it is enamored of the bill.

Tammany Loss Is Felt.

The Tinkham amendment put them in the most serious predicament they have been in in years and yet they brought it on themselves. Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, was the mainspring of the movement to exclude the aliens, and his State is in nowise affected by the reapportionment.

Aside from those forces in the House that are cannily working to defeat the bill there were any number of members yesterday who said they voted for the Tinkman amendment to put the South in its place. The Southerners were getting too cocky, it was declared.

For the first time since the Civil War they found themselves without the aid of Tammany on a question of this kind, aid that has been quite helpful many times.

Tammany was primarily actuated, of course, because of the alien exclusion

PURDUE ATHLETES SUBSIDIZED, CHARGE

Coach of Indiana School Declares That He Can Prove Professionalism.

BIG TEN IS IN TURMOIL

Chicago, Ill., June 5 (A.P.).—Another bomb was tossed into the already shell-shocked Western Conference today.

Coach Everett Case, who turns out State championship basket ball teams for Frankfort, Ind., High School, hurled the projectile by charging and offering to prove to Maj. John L. Griffith, conference athletic commissioner, that Purdue, like Iowa, is guilty of proselyting and subsidizing athletes.

Commissioner Griffith immediately requested Coach Case to bare his charges to him tomorrow and Case consented.

Coach Case filed his charges today after he had been accused, presumably by Purdue, of receiving teacher's credits from Iowa in return for inducing two of his basket ball stars, Doyal Plunkett and Bob Spradling, to matriculate at Iowa. Angered by this accusation, Case charged that Ward (Piggy) Lambert, Purdue basket ball coach, brought up the question because he refused to aid Lambert in proselyting.

"I can tell Commissioner Griffith many interesting things about professionalism at Purdue, and I will tomorrow," Coach Case said. "Iowa is not the only guilty school in the Big Ten and I'll prove my charges with concrete evidence and witnesses tomorrow."

The Frankfort School Board, after hearing Case's charges, backed him and suggested his conference with Griffith.

President Edward C. Elliott, of Purdue, and Nelson Kellogg, director of athletics, said while they did not believe any one connected with the university was guilty of proselyting or paying athletes, they would welcome an investigation of Case's charges.

"If Case has any charges against Purdue he is invited to make them before proper authorities of the conference," President Eliott said.

Coming within a day after a special conference faculty committee refused to restore Iowa to good standing because of similar charges, Case's charges created another turmoil in the Big Ten, one which threatens to reach every

MT. VESUVIUS' LAVA INCREASES IN SPEED

VOLUME IS DIMINISHING

Naples, Italy, June 5 (A.P.).—The molten lava which has been moving down the sides of Mount Vesuvius since Monday like an inexorable fate diminished in volume today. Some observers, however, said that the streams had increased their speed.

An official bulletin tonight said that the flow, which was investing the villages of Barre and Pagani outside Terzigno, had decreased, but it was still sufficient to throw thousands of the inhabitants of the countryside into a panic.

Terzigno, which is a flourishing town, was nearly surrounded by streams of liquid, burning rock. More than a hundred dwellings already have been destroyed and hundreds more still are threatened.

The first injuries to human beings were recorded when a number of students ventured near the crater of the volcano and were showered with a sudden eruption of rocks. The students fled to the Vesuvian Observatory, but some fell on the rocky ground in their haste and were slightly hurt. They were treated at the observatory.

Nearly all villages within reach of the long lava arms of the volcano have been evacuated, soldiers aiding the inhabitants to convey belongings to safety. As the inhabitants retired they sang hymns and prayed that God would avert the wrath of Vesuvius.

Although the Vesuvius Observatory communique said that the lava flow was diminishing, observers asserted that it had increased its speed to 1,500 feet an hour. The lava stream which had been headed toward the Campitello woods, causing a belief that it would pass by habitations, changed its course and destroyed a number of houses in the suburbs of Terzigno.

Crater's Edge, Vesuvius, June 5 (A.P.).—The explosive activities of the eruptive cone of Mount Vesuvius increased in liveliness and in quantities of material emitted tonight. Tremendous barrages of rocks were bombarding the walls of the great crater.

HOOVER PAVES WAY FOR PUBLIC CENTER

$3,000,000 Estimate on Land Purchase Given House Through Bureau.

AIRPORT HOLDS INTEREST

President Hoover, through the Bureau of the Budget, sent to the House yesterday an estimate of $3,000,000 for Washington's Municipal Center, thus paving the way for adoption of the Simmons resolution appropriating that sum.

It is expected that the House will act on the resolution this week or early next week and send it to the Senate. No opposition is expected in that body.

The $3,000,000 will be used to purchase the four squares as a site for the buildings that are to house the various activities of the municipal government. The area is bounded by Third and Sixth streets, Pennsylvania avenue, Indiana avenue and Louisiana avenue.

With the Simmons resolution virtually assured of adoption, friends of the District at the Capitol yesterday turned their thoughts to Washington's proposed airport. In the drive to clear the way for the municipal center legislation, the resolution to start work on the airport was temporarily forgotten.

Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, chairman of the Congressional Airport Commission, plans today to confer with officials of the Bu-

Two Nearly Drown When They Are Pinned in Sinking Ship.

An officer and three enlisted men of the Naval Air Station at Anacostia narrowly escaped death at 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the giant Sikoraky plane they were testing crashed and partially submerged in the Potomac River about 250 yards south of the station.

The fliers, all of whom were uninjured, were Lieut. Stephen W. Calloway at the controls; Charles Kidder, aviation chief machinist's mate; C. F. Travis second-class seaman, and J. A. de Gague, aviation machinist's mate, third class.

Their rescue was effected dramatically by members of the Hains Point Aviation Co., who staved off a possible tragic aftermath when they rushed to the plane in a speedboat and took off the men in less than two minutes after the craft tumbled over. They were landed at the wharf of the Naval Air Station at about the same time two rescue boats from that base were shoving off after news of the aviators' plight had been received there.

The accident occurred while Lieut. Calloway, after flying the craft at racing speed over the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers on its first routine flight after arrival Tuesday, was attempting to take off from the water directly opposite Hains Point close to the shore.

The plane speeded into the swells in the wake of a passing river steamer, spectators at Hains Point declared, and the crash occurred a few moments later as it headed toward shore. The craft then began to sink rapidly and the four men, wholly unprepared for the accident, began scrambling for the fuselage door. Travis and De Gague

Five Crushed to Death In Virginia Mine Tragedy

Norton, Va., June 5 (A.P.).—Five men were crushed to death near Wise, Va., today, a slab of slate breaking loose from the roof of the Halcon Mine, in which they were working, and falling on them.

The dead were Fred Hylton, of Wise; Robert Hall, of Ramsey; Coddie Gibson, of near Wise; Allen Stidham, of Ramsey, and Carroll Miller, of Hurricane.

POPE PIUS CRITICIZES MUSSOLINI SPEECHES

NEW RIFT IS DEPLORED

Vatican City, June 5 (A.P.).—Pope Pius XI, in an open letter to Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of State, today admitted that he frankly was displeased with several statements in speeches made by Premier Mussolini on the Lateran treaties before the Italian Chamber and Senate.

The Duce's speeches in question were delivered May 13 in the Chamber of Deputies and May 25 in the Senate, and urged the ratification of the Lateran accords drawn up between the Italian government and the Vatican.

His holiness replied to both these speeches in an open letter to Cardinal Gasparri, which was published tonight in the Osservatore Romano, finding in them "worse than heretical expressions as to the very essence of Christianity and Catholicism."

The pontiff deplored the rift in the understanding between the Fascist government and the Holy See, which had come after such laborious discussions. He termed it "an unwelcome and dolorous interruption."

He concluded, however, that peace between Italy and the Holy See would last because of his own faith in the fidelity and the good will of men, but above all because of his "greater faith in the help of God."

The Pope reasserted the primordial claim of the Catholic Church to supervise the education of youth and the church's preeminence in Italy as the state religion.

He stoutly defended the church from any imputation of encroaching upon the legitimate sovereignty of the state, but insisted that the church's rights must be scrupulously respected.

Taking up statements by Premier Mussolini about liberty of conscience and full liberty for discussion, the Pope said this was a delicate question, but

Derby Lottery Ticket Nets Clerk $675,000

South African Is Holder of Lucky Number in British Race Sweepstakes—Others Throughout World Enriched Overnight.

London, June 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Fortunes were dumped into the laps of the poor and obscure this afternoon on rain-swept Epsom Downs when Trigo, an Irish horse and himself an obscure "outsider," came in first on the slippery course and approximately $50,000,000 was won and lost in bets and sweepstakes on the 2½-minute annual Derby. The race itself was tame, but the unexpected twists in its lottery aftermath were exciting enough to thrill the most jaded.

There were three main sweepstakes, the Calcutta, with three first prizes of $675,000 each; the London Stock Exchange, with two first prizes of $625,000 each, and the Baltic, in which the total first place money was about $500,000. How great an upset was the outcome of the Derby is apparent in that odds on Trigo were 33 to 1 and holders of his tickets were not heard of before the race, while the horses that followed him in ahead of the favorites further scattered the dope to the four winds.

Tonight a cable was received from South Africa indicating that B. Butler, a young clerk on the staff of Amalgamated Motors, Ltd., up-country in Oudtshoorn Cape province, has the whole of Trigo's ticket in the Calcutta sweep. If so, he is rich for life and probably still is ignorant of his luck unless the tidings have been borne to him by the radio.

Mrs. Kathleen McGrath, of Dublin, widowed mother of four small children, holds a Trigo ticket in the Baltic sweeps that will net her $125,000 and was listening in on the radio when the news was flashed to all parts of the world. Mrs. P. Chapman, of Bouremouth, another widow, drew Trigo in the Stock Exchange sweep but sold a half interest to her nephew, Julian Cahn. Nottingham sportsman, whose faith in the Irish colt, backed by $2,500 paid to his aunt, will bring him more than $300,000.

The owner of Trigo, William Barnett, bought an eighth of one of the tickets on his horse in the Stock Exchange Sweepstakes for $1,000 and will collect in return $80,000. George L. Brill, a young Leeds tailor who drew one of the second prizes in the Calcutta sweep with a ticket on Walter Gay, got a day off from his boss, came to London and

Youth, Who Killed Father In Sister's Defense, Freed

Members of Family Testify Parent Flung Chair at Little Girl When Son Felled Him With Stick; Touching Scene Marks Reunion of Children in Court

Special to The Washington Post.

Stuart, Va., June 5.—Pleading that he defended his sister from an attack by their father, Albert Radford 19 years old, yesterday won his freedom on a charge of manslaughter, when the jury in circuit court returned a verdict of acquittal. The father, Monroe Radford, was killed when the son struck him on the head with a piece of stove wood at the family's home in the mountain district of Patrick County.

There was a touching scene in the courtroom as the jury was being sworn in when young Radford and the sister, 7 years old, were reunited. Immediately following the jury's verdict Radford, his mother, two younger brothers and the sister started back to their home in the hills.

Evidence at the trial was presented by members of the little family group, all of whom defended the action of the boy. They testified that Monroe Radford, the father, had been drinking on the day of the tragedy and that previous to the attack by his son, had thrown a chair at the little girl.

When the father followed this by charging across the room, as though bent on continuing the assault, the 19-year-old boy went into action and felled his father with the stick. Death resulted from the blow and the youth was arrested and charged with manslaughter.

Counsel for the State held that the boy used excessive force in the blow which he struck. Judge Turner Clement, who presided at the trial, refused to allow the 7-year-old sister to testify, holding that her answer to the question of whether or not she understood the nature of an oath was unsatisfactory.

Fanaticism Blinds Dry Law Question, Says Wickersham

Crime Commission Will Not Overemphasize Its Study.

New Haven, Conn., June 5 (A.P.).—Asserting that the prohibition question has been so blinded by partisanship as to have thrown rationality completely overboard for exaggeration and fanaticism, George W. Wickersham, head of President Hoover's new law enforcement commission, in an interview here tonight, added that it is the duty of the commission to study the question with complete impartiality and to discover where the truth lies.

"Most people seem to believe," he said, "that the commission will devote itself almost entirely to a consideration of the enforcement of prohibition. It is characteristic of the over-emphasis on this question that people should think so. However, there are many amendment but it still feels keenly the way the South treated its presidential candidate, those States that did not bolt him delivering greatly reduced majorities.

Simmons Assails Raskob.

Yet despite their predicament and loss of Tammany's assistance, the Southerners continued to turn down invitations for Chairman Raskob's party to Jouett Shouse, the head of his new party headquarters here. Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, called for Raskob's resignation, asserting that the party should not be flaunting a Republican and a wet at its head.

There will be enough senators and members of the House in attendance, however, it is insisted, to make the party a success. About the only ones to whom invitations had been extended in other than a purely perfunctory manner who will not attend are Senators Glass and Swanson, of Virginia, the latter of whom has a speaking engagement, and Senator George, of Georgia.

There is nothing the President can do in the reapportionment situation. The issue is along sectional rather than party lines. House leaders expect to see an effort today of those against the bill to strike out everything except the provision authorizing the census, and as the efficient House would have it, turning the census patronage over to it.

The farm bill agreement will be first reported to the House. Presumably it will be disposed of in short order and then it will go to the Senate, where the question of how long it will remain is problematical.

Alexandria Church Damaged by Fire

Valuable Furnishings of St. Mary's Ruined After Lightning Hits.

Lightning struck the St. Mary's Catholic Church, on South Royal street, in Alexandria, about 8 o'clock last night and started a fire which caused damage estimated at between $20,000 and $25,000.

The marble altar, with its costly furnishings, many valuable oil paintings, pews, walls and floors were scorched by the flames, tarnished by smoke and drenched by water which was poured on the flames by three fire companies for more than an hour.

St. Mary's was erected shortly after the Civil War by Alexandria Catholics on a site bought from the Presbyterian Meeting House.

Dawes to be Honored By Oxford University

Oxford, England, June 5 (A.P.).—Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador designate from the United States; Marquis Merry del Val, the Spanish Ambassador, and the Egyptian prime minister will receive the degree of doctor of civil law from Oxford University on June 26.

The University Gazette, in making this announcement today, said that the recipients would be guests of the chancellor, Viscount Grey, at luncheon. It was stated that the same honor had been proposed for Frank B. Kellogg, author of the international pact for renunciation of war, but he was unable to attend this year.

Open-Car Conductor Is Injured in Collision

Eugene R. Forsythe, 39 years old, a conductor on a Washington Railway & Electric Co. open air street car, was injured late yesterday afternoon when an automobile struck the street car at New Jersey avenue and C street northwest.

Forsythe was treated at Casualty Hospital for a crushed chest and fractured skull. Clarence Silver, 1534 E street southeast, was said by police to have been operating the automobile.

Mrs. Wiggs was found unconscious in her room by Mrs. Antonio Scuderi, of the same address.

Illinois Senate Kills Dry Law Repeal Bill

Springfield, Ill., June 5 (A.P.).—By a vote of 28 to 21, the State Senate tonight killed a bill that would have repealed the State prohibition enforcement law, subject to referendum. The measure previously had passed the House.

DEBENTURE DEFEAT NOW SEEMS CERTAIN

Conferees Eliminate Farm Bill Feature Which President Vigorously Opposed.

(United Press.)

Final victory for President Hoover on farm relief seemed assured yesterday when conferees completed three weeks of work by eliminating the debenture plan which the President has fought so vigorously. The agreement was reached when three senators who opposed the debenture plan, but who stood for it on the Senate's mandate, yielded.

Administration leaders expressed confidence yesterday that they have the necessary few changes of votes to defeat the debenture in the Senate when the conference report is presented the last of the week. It was approved before, 47 to 44, when 13 Western Republicans joined Democrats. Only two changes would be necessary.

Debenture proponents claim there has not been a single change in their ranks. The test will come when Senator Norris, of Nebraska, demands a vote on the debenture upon presentation of the conference report.

Because of the pressure being brought by the administration with the argument that debenture supporters are holding up farm relief by insistence upon the plan, it appeared probable the debenture would be defeated when the test comes.

The conference report will not be presented to the House until tomorrow because of the necessity of examination of the revised measure for possible errors today. House approval is expected quickly, since the debenture is not an issue. The report probably will get to the Senate late tomorrow, but action there may be delayed for a day or two.

Chairman McNary of the Senate agriculture committee and Senators Capper, of Kansas, and Ransdell, of Louisiana, were Senate conferees who voted against the debenture yesterday. Ransdell is a Democrat, the others Republicans. Norris and Smith, of South Carolina, voted for the debenture. All House conferees have opposed it, chiefly because of pressure from Western Republican members who do not want to go on record.

The measure as finally approved in conference will be known as "the agricultural marketing act." A Senate provision giving stabilization corporations the right to act as merchandizing agencies as well as buying agencies was adopted. Expenses of the proposed Federal Farm Board were raised to $1,500,000, as the Senate provided.

The theory of the administration measure was preserved. The board will have nine members to be appointed by the President, with confirmation by the Senate. Salaries will be $12,000 a year.

Anti-Smith Meeting Call Issued by Lyon

Chairman of Eighth District Fixes Convention at Roanoke.

A call to anti-Smith Democrats to be present June 18, at Roanoke, Va., to consider candidates for governor and attorney general, was issued Tuesday by Frank Lyon, of McLean, Va., chairman of the Eighth Congressional District committee.

"As you are probably aware," Lyon said in his call, addressed to anti-Smith Democrats in his district, "the undersigned, at the Lynchburg conference of anti-Smith Democrats in February, was elected chairman of a committee of ten, one from each congressional district of Virginia, to provide for the holding of a convention of anti-Smith Democrats."

The call is made, Lyon points out, "to those Democrats who are not satisfied with the leadership of Messrs. Glass, Swanson, Byrd, Pollard, Mapp, Page and those of the same type who, in 1928, supported Gov. Smith for President of the United States, whose candidacy so shocked the Nation that he received the smallest electoral vote ever recorded."

RACE IS NARROWING FOR HOOVER POSTS

SUPPORTERS FALLING OFF

With the retirement of Chairman Hubert Work, that inner group of zealous workers that elected President Hoover has now apparently narrowed down to the survival of the fittest.

One by one persons who either spent the campaign close in Hoover's private councils or rent the countryside with their eulogies have dropped away. First there was Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, who made more than 200 speeches asserting that Mr. Hoover was the farmers' best friend and then in the Senate a few weeks ago blatantly acknowledged his disappointment.

He was followed by Senator Borah, and there is reason to believe that the Idaho Senator's defection is to be more pronounced in a few days.

In succession Col. William J. Donovan, Col. Horace Mann and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt have withdrawn from the official fireside.

Always Welcome at Lunch.

One and all they are welcomed at the White House for luncheon or dinner almost any time; but thwarted ambitions, disappointments, and the general keenness of the race have caused them to step out of the official picture.

Indeed, only four of the crowd remains. They will compete for the final honors, so to speak, and it is a question who will emerge victorious.

Walter Newton, of the White House secretariat, is holding his own, hotfooting it between the executive offices and Capitol Hill as he does, going out of nights and mixing with the right kind of people, and generally about as active as anyone who ever came down the pike.

Secretary of War Good has not been much heard of since becoming a Cabinet member, and on appearances would seem to be at a political disadvantage, but no one who knows him doubts that his sage counsel is ever at the President's ear.

Brown Strengthens Hold in South.

Quietly and seemingly alone, Postmaster General Brown has gone out in his practical way to build up a Southern organization for 1932, undoubtedly for Mr. Hoover's use in the first instance and maybe for himself as Vice President.

But he has made a debacle out of Mr. Hoover's idealistic Southern situation. With one exception, he has turned his back on the original Hoover workers who were massed in these States under Col. Mann, and has recognized groups set up as blinds by the forces that Mr. Hoover originally intended to disown. And with this one exception, instead of the Republicans building up a strong organization in the various States, there has developed more factionalism than ever before. The exception is Florida, where order has been fairly established in spite of Mr. Brown.

Texas and Virginia have, of course, not come under his wing.

There was nothing in the day's development to change the first conclusion that Dr. Work's withdrawal, while not in a huff of any sort, was influenced by a general weariness with the way things were going, together with the philosophy that, after all, he was getting too old to worry about them.

Decline Cabinet Posts.

There was an authoritative statement that he had been offered either the postmaster generalship or another Cabinet place, and declined. There is no reason to believe that this is not true.

Another story that was given considerable credence was that he disapproved of the policy of sending Cabinet members out to attack the Senate. This, of course, was not serious enough to provoke his resignation, but it is entirely possible that in his practical way the doctor disapproved of the attacks on the Senate.

Representative Fort, of New Jersey more vigorous and younger, and used to seeing the big stick wielded in the House, is said to be the author of the plan.

Whoever the plan belongs to, the first attack delivered by Secretary of the Navy Adams has done no good. It has been explained by administration explainers that it could have possibly done no harm in that the only senators who would take offense are the Progressives and Democrats, who are against the administration anyhow.

Attack Increases Resentment.

But it has done this harm. It has heightened their resentment. It has, to cite a case in point, increased their determination for the debenture in the farm bill. There may be a break in their ranks after a while, but the debenture proposal is in for a good delay because of their attitude.

There is considerable speculation concerning Work's successor, but inasmuch as it is two months or more off before he retires it is doubtful if the President has given it much thought. And speculation today runs the hazard of further eliminations that may come as the race for the place at the right hand of the throne enters its final phase.

Washington Couple to Wed.

Raymond C. Cushwa, 25 years old, an attorney, of 1601 Park road, and Miss Mary C. Hayes, 29 years old, 3121 Mount Pleasant street, yesterday obtained a marriage license in New York City and announced they would be married today at the Church of St. Francis of Assisi by the Rev. Gabriel Naugel.

DRY KILLING VERDICT IS EXPECTED TODAY

Fired at Tires of Automobile, Deputy Swears at Trial for Student Death.

TESTIMONY IS FINISHED

Abingdon, Va., June 5 (A.P.).—The case of J. W. Crowe, Washington County deputy sheriff, on trial here charged with the murder of J. W. Hendrick, 16, Emory and Henry College student, will be in the hands of the jury tomorrow afternoon.

All testimony was completed this afternoon and after three and one-half hours' of argument behind closed doors, instructions were read to the jury and court was suspended until tomorrow, at which time four hours' argument before the jury is scheduled.

Three rebuttal witnesses for the State testified during the afternoon that Crowe's reputation for veracity in the community was bad, while five witnesses placed on the stand by the defense, testified that Crowe was known for truthfulness.

The defendant himself related the events of the night of May 6, when young Kendrick was killed, and his part in the firing on an automobile on the highway, just before the defense rested its case at noon today. The Commonwealth charges that shots fired by Crowe, W. D. Worley, another deputy, and James McReynolds, a policeman, caused the death of Kendrick, alleged to have been riding with Paul Phelps and Sterling Dutton.

All three officers were indicted for murder.

Printing Office Employe Loses $137 at Gun Point

George Lamb, 55 years old, a clerk in the Government Printing Office, reported to police of the Tenth Precinct last night that he had been held up at the point of a pistol by a white man in an alley near his home at 1827 Monroe street northwest and robbed of $137 in cash and jewelry.

Lamb said the robber, whose description he furnished police, had tried to get him not to report the incident by offering to pawn the watch, the most valuable of the articles taken, and send his victim the ticket that he might redeem it.

Glass Declares He Criticized Coolidge

Asserts Remarks on Stock Speculation Were Not Directed at Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, said yesterday that in his discussion Tuesday of the "President of the United States who literally jumped into the stock pit," he was referring to former President Coolidge, not to President Hoover.

"President Hoover has said nothing about the stock market and I was making no reference to him," Senator Glass explained.

In his condemnation Tuesday in the Senate of stock market speculations, Senator Glass declared: "We not only do not see protests, but we saw the unprecedented and extraordinary spectacle of a high official of the Federal Government deprecating any criticism of this riot of stock gambling and saying that it was not an unhealthy symptom."

Later he said, "The person who talked that way was the President of the United States, who literally jumped into the stock pit and said there was nothing to be apprehended from this riot of $6,000,000,000 of credits in stock gambling."

CROWD FOR DARROW IN WET-DRY DEBATE

Hissing, Booing Throng Taunts Dr. Wilson and Cheers Opponent.

MANY ISSUES DISCUSSED

A hissing, booing, shrieking and otherwise uproariously noisy crowd that filled the Washington Auditorium last night heard Clarence Darrow and Dr. Clarence True Wilson caustically pass divergent judgment on prohibition.

Scheduled as a debate on the subject, "Resolved, That Prohibition Is Right in Principle, a Success in Practice, and Should Be Enforced," the spirited speakers finally put on trial Christianity, President Hoover, Congress, national prosperity, the oil scandals, personal freedom and a score or more other dead and live issues.

An enthralled throng frequently gave vent to its partisan feelings in cheers and applause, strengthened many times from the floor by remarks personally vindictive or by taunts that occasionally prompted equally personal retorts from the stage. A half-dozen times men stood up from the crowd to hurl denials or challenging thrusts at Dr. Wilson as he rhetorically volleyed question after question at his opposition.

Darrow Is Early Favorite.

Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, as presiding officer in the no-decision debate, introduced Dr. Wilson as an eminent prohibitionist and as secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Darrow as one of the Nation's greatest attorneys and a foe of the liquor laws.

The tremendous and prolonged ovation given the noted lawyer and the manner in which his sallies and broadsides of devastating mirth-provoking ridicule early stamped him as the favorite. Dr. Wilson subsequently acknowledged this apparent fact during his vitrolic attacks on law violators.

The crowd went into action without a moment's delay when a din of shouts and jeers greeted the announcement of Senator Barkley that Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, had "become suddenly ill" and was unable to appear against Darrow as slated, Dr. Wilson having agreed to substitute at the last moment.

"I'm very strongly against prohibition because I like to take a drink and because I want to mind my own business," Darrow shouted. "I object to any organization of preachers or other highbinders getting together and telling me what I can't do. As long as I live I'm going to live my own life and to choose my own religion. If I want to, without interfering with the rights of my fellow-man. We propose to mind our own business and we propose to make you mind yours, if you have any."

What of Other Amendments?

"The Eighteenth amendment is the only one you are worrying about. What's become of the sixteenth, the fourteenth and the fifteenth?"

Dr. Wilson made an impassioned plea to give prohibition the same chance for success given liquor during its legalized existence of approximately 140 years in the Nation. He vigorously maintained that "Uncle Sam has gone out of the liquor traffic forever" and that the prosperity of the past ten years is due virtually entirely to prohibition. He declared that prohibition was never claimed to take the place of God or the church or that it would bring the millennium, but that it has wrought the moral miracle of the twentieth century in outlawing liquor.

"We've had ten years of prohibition, mostly under the wets. Prohibition has given us the greatest clean-up in American politics of any single movement in the history of our country. It has eliminated the liquor traffic. It was intended to annihilate the license system, and it has ended the system.

"I do not wish to claim for it a thing that it does not do. It has not dried up the sources of supply. It has not stopped all the drinking or the selling or the bootlegging. It has not stopped the poisoning of our people or even all of the drunkenness."

Turpin Has 1,070 Lead In Pennsylvania Race

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 5 (A.P.).—With the vote of one ward yet to be counted, C. Murray Turpin, Republican candidate for Congress from the Twelfth District, tonight had a majority of 1,070 over Sarah Casey, Democrat and Labor. The total vote was: Turpin, 32,147; Casey, 31,077.

The vote missing is that of the Second District, Thirteenth Ward. On the count made by the election board Tuesday night, Turpin had 291 and Casey 120. Just as the vote count was completed, however, outsiders broke into the booth, destroyed papers and carried off some of the ballots. The board today gave names of the crowd's leaders to the court. Democrats had the ballot box in this district impounded. Republicans today had the boxes in several other wards impounded.

Acting Warden Succeeds Snook at Atlanta Prison

(Associated Press.)

A. C. Aderholdt, acting warden at the Atlanta Federal Prison, has been named warden succeeding John Snook, who resigned recently.

Aderholdt's promotion was in line with the policy of Attorney General Mitchell to advance those in the service whenever possible. Aderholdt has been in prison administration work for 22 years, being deputy warden at Atlanta before Snook quit, following disagreements with Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General.

Mystery Surrounds Fate Of Steamer With 700

Tokyo, June 6 (Thursday) (A. P.). A mystery developed today regarding the Japanese steamer Ugo Maru which yesterday was reported afire off the coast of Kamchatka with the fate of her crew and 700 passengers uncertain. Russian sources deny that the vessel was in any way endangered.

The newspaper Jiji Shimpo had a dispatch from Sapporo which transmitted advices from Vladivostok to the effect that Russian authorities at the latter city declared the Ugo Maru had arrived at her destination on schedule. This word was said to have reached Vladivostok by wireless from the manager of the Kamchatka fishing grounds.

The owner of the vessel at Kobe said he had received no report of any mishap to his boat. The Soviet fishing trust representatives at Kobe and Hakodate were likewise without news.

The vessel was chartered to convey about 700 Russian fisher folk, many of them women, to the fishing grounds off Kamchatka.

WHEELER ATTACKS COTTON'S APPROVAL

COMPLAINTS GET ACTION

(Associated Press.)

Reconsideration of the confirmation of Joseph P. Cotton, New York attorney, as Undersecretary of State, was demanded late yesterday in the Senate by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana.

The nomination, approved early in the day in open session, without debate or roll call, was replaced on the Senate calendar by Wheeler's motion.

Senator Wheeler said he wanted time to study some complaints which he had heard against the nominee. Cotton's nomination was confirmed on motion of Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, at the very outset of the session yesterday.

It is understood that complaints were made to the foreign relations committee against Cotton because of his connection with the law firm of William G. McAdoo, when it received a retainer from Edward L. Doheny, California oil man, who was tried for conspiracy against the Government with Albert B. Fall.

New Daughter Is Born To Tito Schipa, Tenor

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—What does an Italian say when it's a girl? "Bravissima!"

From Tito Schipa, opera star, now singing in Florence, Italy, came the following cable today to his managers in New York: I have another girl. Bravissima!"

The baby was born last night at the Schipa home in Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Schipa cabled her husband: "Not Tito, jr., tenor, but Giuliana, coloratura soprano, arrived last night. All well."

Rotary Committee Heads Are Chosen

District Governors Appoint C. C. McCullough and D. A. Adams to New Posts.

Dallas, Tex., June 5 (A.P.).—Chairmen of two major committees of Rotary International were announced today prior to adjournment of the annual assembly of Rotary's 73 district governors from all parts of the world.

M. Eugene Newsom, recently chosen international president, announced Crawford C. McCullough, of Fort William, Ontario, as chairman of the Silver Jubilee convention of Rotary at Chicago next year. McCullough was president of Rotary in 1921-1922.

Donald A. Adams, New Haven, Conn., international president in 1925-1926, was named chairman of the aims and objects committee. The members of this committee also were announced as Robert L. Hill, Columbia, Mo.; Herbert Harris, Whittier, California; G. T. Quernsey, Independence, Kans., and Clinton P. Anderson, Albuquerque, N. Mex.

The first meeting of the new board of directors was set for Chicago, July 3, at which time a secretary and publicity man for the year will be named. The district governors remained over from last week's convention of the Rotary organization to complete their work.

Lindberghs Are in Peril If Boat's Name Is Blank

Boston, June 5 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh may know all the dangers of aviation, but there are dangers on the sea which Coast Guard officials say he has overlooked. Lindbergh and his bride have been reported cruising about the waters of Cape Cod in a cabin cruiser, the Mouette. He was reported to have covered the boat's name with canvas in order to outwit those who might interrupt his honeymoon.

Coast Guard boats on the watch for rumrunners list boats with covered names under two headings, rumrunners or pirates. The officials pointed out that the Coast Guardsmen always give a ship the opportunity of identifying itself, but the covering of a boat's name is not always a safe procedure and hesitancy in answering might lead to shots being fired.

Detroit Customs Director Resigns

C. D. Ferguson Quits After Being Under Fire Because of Rum Smuggling.

(Associated Press.)

Carey D. Ferguson has resigned as collector of customs at Detroit.

The resignation was announced yesterday by Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Ferguson, who has served since 1923, was in charge of the office at the time 21 of the border patrol were indicted for conspiring with bootleggers to permit liquor to be smuggled into this country.

It had been said at the Treasury that Ferguson apparently was unable to stop the illegal entry or rum across the Detroit River. The border patrol was taken from Ferguson's control in April and placed under a special agent, since which time Treasury officials said the work of the patrol has improved.

Well-Dressed Man of 2029 Sight Worth Waiting to See

New York Clothier Turns Prophet and Paints Vision of Sartorial Splendor Century Hence That Would Be Jail Offense Today; Spectrum Will Have Rival.

New York, June 5 (U.P.) — Almost every costume the American man of the year 2029 will wear would land him in jail if he appeared in it now, it was solemnly predicted today by a New York clothier in a speech at the corner-stone laying of a new Broadway clothing store building.

As he smacked the trowel against the stone John David, the clothier in question, had a vision and revealed what the grandsons of the present generation of flaming youth would consider nifty.

When they play golf, he said, they will wear a sort of hooded union suit. A fashionable gentleman's street attire a hundred years hence will raise the moral problem of just how far above the knee the pants line ought to come. And at night, when he dresses up to go to the theater with the little woman, he will look like a Louis XIV courtier freed from every inhibition.

Waving his trowel, the corner-stone layer went into further details of his dream.

"Men's legs will be bare from the ankle to the knee," he said. "Wide shorts will take the place of trousers for everyday business wear. Coats will disappear, being replaced by a combination jacket and shirt, open at the neck like a polo shirt. All material will be porous or mesh woven. Hats will be extremely light."

And on the feet—

"On the feet will be sandals, colored brightly."

But that is merely daytime apparel. At night—

"Formal dress will consist of silk or satin breeches with a black or dark blue cutaway coat, the somberness being relieved by a waistcoat of gay color to suit the wearer's taste. The shoes—of course—will be buckled."

The vision of David extended even to flying togs.

"No special costume will be employed for aviation," he continued, "because flying machines will be so perfected that one may come down from the air as unruffled as if stepping out of the dressing room. However, the brilliant plumage of birds will be rivaled as to color."

Start of Ocean Hop Will Be Broadcast

Coast Guard Plane Plans to Report on Race for an Hour.

Old Orchard, Me., June 5 (A.P.).—Radio listeners the nation over will be able to hear a first-hand account of the first hour of the flight of the Yellow Bird and the Green Flash to Europe, according to plans announced today. Lewis A. Yancey, navigator of the Green Flash, American plane which will head for Rome, said that the Coast Guard planned to set up a portable short wave receiving set on the beach. This set will pick up the radio phone account from the Coast Guard amphibian which will accompany the fliers for the first hour or more.

A powerful loud speaker will be attached and the microphones of the company which will broadcast the take-off over nation-wide hook-up will be placed before it.

Stolen Car Found By Toursit Guide

Overhears Man Relating Theft, Then Sights Machine.

A Washington tourist guide, Jack Rowles, who overheard a man relating the theft of his automobile, yesterday led police to the trail of the automobile and the man who is alleged to have stolen it.

Rowles was taking a party of sightseers out of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing yesterday afternoon when he heard George H. Heavem, of 2722 Maple avenue, Altoona, Pa., speak of the theft. Heavem said that he had stopped at the bureau to park his automobile, and had been told by a young colored man that he would have to park on the other side of the street. The car was missing when he returned from the bureau.

En route to Mount Vernon Rowles spotted the license number of the stolen automobile. He called police, who arrested James Washington, colored, 19 years old, 722 First street southwest, on a charge of grand larceny. Washington told Detective Sergeant Frank M. Alligood, who arrested him, that two white men had asked him to drive the car. Washington said that he had borrowed the operator's permit which was in his possession, Alligood reported. Washington was held last night at the First Precinct.

Edison Memorial Stamps Are Bought By Thousands

Great Crowd Flocks to Menlo Park on Fiftieth Anniversary of Electric Bulb to Attend Opening of Sale; Child Mails Master Die to Inventor, in Florida.

Menlo Park, N. J., June 5 (A.P.).—The postoffice in the cottage of Postmaster James F. Shepard in this small borough today did more business than it would normally do in 30 years.

The natives of this community, which consists of not more than 35 houses, stood around in wonderment as thousands of persons from all over the United States swarmed in and around the postoffice to purchase some of the new Edison electric light fiftieth anniversary memorial stamps.

During the first half hour of the public sale more than $1,000 worth of stamps were sold. It was expected that when the postoffice closed tonight all of the stamps would have been sold.

May Ann Peins, 2-year-old daughter of Rudolph Peins, one of Edison's pioneers, mailed the first three stamps to Thomas A. Edison, President Hoover and Henry Ford. The first package mailed with the new stamps was sent to Mr. Edison at Fort Myers, Fla., and contained the master die of the stamp.

One of the first purchasers of stamps was William Bogan, of Metuchen, 70 years old, who was one of the original Edison men of 50 years ago. Bogan was a glass-blower, and exhausted the air from the third lamp made, which proved successful.

This afternoon a celebration took place on the little park in which stands the monument erected last year to mark the site of the Edison workshops of 1879 and the house in which the inventor lived while conducting his experiments.

The inventor's son, Charles, was kept busy throughout the day autographing post cards.

School children of Raritan Township sang a song written for the occasion by George M. Cohan. Later they laid a huge wreath of peonies, in the shape of a bulb, on the Edison monument.

The celebration today was one of the events in the golden jubilee of light, which will last until October 21, the actual date of the perfection of the incandescent bulb.

MACDONALD BEGINS TO FORM MINISTRY

Submits Names of Principal Members to King; May Fill Dual Post.

DOCTORS AT CONFERENCE

London, June 5 (A.P.).—Ramsay MacDonald, for the second time Labor prime minister of England, accepted today from King George at Windsor Castle the mission to form a new government, and submitted the names of the principal members of his cabinet to his majesty.

Announcement of the Labor ministry is expected Friday or Saturday. The filling of the minor cabinet posts usually takes a few days after the principal portfolios have been allotted.

Rumor continued busy with these today in political circles, but nothing is known definitely. One report tonight said that Premier MacDonald himself would take the ministry of foreign affairs, considering the Labor foreign policy to be the corner stone for success of his second government.

The actual ceremony of Mr. MacDonald's visit to the king today was as simple and as short as that in which Stanley Baldwin yesterday resigned his high office. There was one difference, for his majesty was able today to receive Mr. MacDonald sitting up in a chair, whereas he had accepted Mr. Baldwin's resignation from his sickbed.

Three Physicians Present.

The three physicians who have attended his majesty were present during Mr. MacDonald's interview. The new Labor premier spent a little more than an hour in the castle, chatting with officials of the household, and drove away with Lord Dawson of Penn.

He returned to London to consult with principal Labor party leaders.

It is understood that the resigning Conservative ministers will surrender their seals of office to the king at Windsor Castle on Friday.

Members of the new ministry were expected to attend on Saturday at the castle to receive the seals at the hands of his majesty in person, this being a function in which only the king is entitled to act.

MacDonald to Take Rest.

When Mr. MacDonald has completed his government he will probably go to his Scottish home at Lossiemouth for a few days of restful quiet in the country.

While Mr. MacDonald was consulting with the king on the formation of the new government, it was announced that the Labor party executive committee had decided to open at once "a great victory and thanksgiving fund" to commemorate Labor's success at the general election.

The coming session of Parliament will begin June 25 with the swearing in of the members. No business will be transacted, however, until after July 1, and the session will last only a few weeks.

The Labor party's main legislative program will not be presented until the autumn session.

Brittania to "Rule Seas" No More, Britten Says

(Associated Press.)

The Old World slogan that "Brittania Rules the Seas" must become a thing of the past, declared Chairman Britten, of the House naval committee, yesterday, as he predicted a naval limitation conference, sponsored by the English Labor government, might result in success.

"The American people," he said, "are ready for a naval equality agreement and are equally ready to build up an actual equality with England on the seas if necessary."

Britten asserted that conferences called by President Coolidge "failed because of too much military strategy and too little common sense; too much suspicion and distrust and too little real desire for disarmament."

NEW CLEWS SOUGHT IN CLOSET MURDER

Police Await Arrival Aboard Ship of Alleged Slayer of Mrs. Patty.

FINGERPRINTS ARE TAKEN

Los Angeles, Calif., June 5 (A.P.).—While police in San Francisco awaited the arrival there of the steamer Admiral Benson to take into custody William L. Tallman, a passenger, Los Angeles authorities continued to round up evidence which they alleged will prove that he was the slayer of Mrs. Virginia Patty, whose body was found hanging in an apartment house closet here yesterday.

Tallman, 24 years old, radio operator of Oakland, was arrested on the Admiral Benson yesterday afternoon and confined to his stateroom at the request of Los Angeles police. He insisted he was innocent.

The manager of the apartment house where the comely 28-year-old titian haired wife of Frank Patty, Portland, Oreg., broker, was found slain, identified a photograph of Tallman as that of the man who rented the apartment. Finger prints in the apartment were photographed to compare with those of Tallman.

The radio operator was due to arrive in San Francisco tonight. He will be returned to Los Angeles on the first train. Police said they did not believe that Patty, the husband, had any connection with the crime. He had returned from a business trip to Portland day before yesterday and was conducting a search for his wife when notified of her death. Upon learning of the tragedy, he collapsed.

Police said Tallman and Mrs. Patty had known each other for some time and a close friendship had sprung up between them. Jealousy was the alleged motive of the killing, as it was declared Mrs. Patty planned to break her relations with Tallman.

SEAS' FREEDOM HELD ISSUE BY MACDONALD

ity. According to yesterday's dispatches the British prime minister's position is set forth as follows:

Premier's Opinion Related.

"He attaches much more importance to settlement of freedom of the seas issue, thereby differing from Sir Austen Chamberlain. The prime minister designate appears to believe that discussion of freedom of the seas may shape a new policy, based on the American suggestion that England and America, in view of the Kellogg pact, consider the situation as one which excludes the possibility of war between the two nations."

In his campaign Ramsay MacDonald wrote the following declaration in support of his freedom of the seas policy:

"This is preeminently an Anglo-American problem and, until it is removed from the field of dispute, Anglo-American cooperation in world affairs can not be securely founded."

In connection with his Anglo-American policy, the British premier also has given advance intimation that he will initiate with President Hoover a discussion of interallied debts. The Anglo-American debt agreement has been a heavy burden on the British taxpayers. The premier, in an interview with the correspondent of Le Petit Parisien, says:

"Upon the debt question as well as that of disarmament we expect to enter immediately into relations with President Hoover and work with him in close contact and full cooperation."

NAVAL GRADUATION BALL IS BRILLIANT

DIPLOMAS GIVEN TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 5.—Festivities preceding commencement day at the Naval Academy came to a brilliant climax tonight with the farewell ball in Dahlgren Hall in honor of the graduates, at which the class of 1930 were hosts. A physical drill under infantry arms was the feature of this morning's program. The entire regiment participated in the dress parade this afternoon, when the prizes for excellence in the professional branches and awards for honors won in athletics during the academic year were presented.

Meanwhile the "June week" throng was greatly augmented by the arrival of hundreds of visitors from every State, attracted chiefly by the farewell ball and the commencement finals tomorrow morning. Every incoming trolley lines brings scores of visitors, and many others have, and still are, making the trip by automobile. Traffic conditions already are serous. This is particularly true in the east and northern sections of the city adjacent to the Naval Reservation.

Notables Will Be Guests.

This has been a day for keen enthusiasm and expectancy for the 239 members of the senior class, who will be the center of attraction at the commencement ceremonies in Dahlgren Hall tomorrow beginning at 10:30 in the morning. The exercises will be held in the presence of a brilliant assemblage of naval personages, headed by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Associate Justice Pierce Butler, of the United States Supreme Court, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, a number of departmental chiefs from Washington and other officers of high rank in the naval service.

Secretary Adams will deliver the principal address to the graduates and award diplomas. Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robinson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, will preside and also address the graduates.

Admiral and Mrs. Robinson will entertain a large party of official guests at luncheon followed by a series of events traditional in the history of the institution. The graduates will execute the serpentine dance as their voices ring out in "No More Rivers to Cross," at the same time tossing their caps into the air, then to be "thrown out of Bancroft Hall" by the new first-class men, while the plebes will make a grand descent on the sacred precincts of "lovers' lane," the privileges of which are denied them during their first year, and the youngsters will come into customs all their own.

Admiral Is Dinner Host.

Secretary Adams, accompanied by Mrs. Adams, and his aid, Capt. George F. Neal, arrived this afternoon in time for the dress parade and presentation of prizes for professional and athletic excellence. They remained over for the farewell ball as guests of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Robinson, who gave a dinner in their honor, others at table including Capt. and Mrs. John N. Newton, Capt. and Mrs. Albert T. Church, Capt. Sydney K. Evans, the latter of whom is soon to be relieved of duties as chaplain of the academy and will be promoted to chief of the chaplain's corps with headquarters in Washington, and Midshipman Richard C. Drum Hunt, jr., of Pennsylvania, president of the second class, who afterwards assisted Mrs. Robinson in receiving the ball guests.

Spacious Dahlgren Hall, commonly known as the Armory Building, was resplendent in light and color, varicolored bunting, potted plants, cut flowers and flags forming the decorations. The full complement of the Academy Band, directed by Lieut. H. J. Peterman, bandmaster, played for the dancing, which began at 9 o'clock and continued until midnight. The floor was crowded. Debutantes and other girls from Washington, Baltimore, and other nearby points, were conspicuous in the big throng.

One Washington boy figured in the prize awards at dress parade today. He is George H. Wales, jr., who received a dress sword presented by the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution for excellence in practical seamanship. Numerous other awards were made by Secretary Adams making most of the presentations.

COMMITTEES NAMED IN SENATE ON TARIFF

Smoot Heads Sub Group Which Will Have Charge of Sugar and Chemicals.

HEARINGS BEGIN JUNE 12

(Associated Press.)

The Senate finance committee yesterday completed organization of the four subcommittees which will begin public hearings next week on the House tariff bill. The hearings will start June 12 and end July 10.

Three Republicans and two Democrats will serve on each subcommittee to take testimony on from three to five of the fifteen rate sections of the bill. A majority member will act as chairman as each of the fifteen schedules are taken up.

Chairman Smoot, who will head the subcommittee on sugar and chemicals, announced the full committee would open hearings June 12 by hearing witnesses on the valuation of foreign goods for the levying of ad valorem duties. The following day the subcommittees will get into action, hearing witnesses on chemicals, oil and paints; sugar and its manufactures, cotton manufactures and papers and books.

The subcommittees will sit six hours daily, from 9:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., and from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Senators Smoot, of Utah; Edge, New Jersey, and Reed, Pennsylvania, Republicans, and King, Utah, and Barkley, Kentucky, Democrats, will comprise the subcommittee on chemicals, oils and paints, earths, earthenware and glassware, metals and manufacturers thereof. Smoot will serve as chairman while chemicals are under consideration; edge in charge of earths, and Reed in charge of metals.

Senators Smoot, Shortridge, California, and Watson, Indiana, Republicans, and Harrison, Mississippi, and Connally, Texas, Democrats, constitute the subcommittee on sugar, tobacco, agriculture and spirits. Smoot will have charge of the sugar schedule, with Shortridge supervising the hearings on tobacco and spirits and Watson in charge of the agriculture section.

Senators Bingham, Connecticut; Greene, Vermont and Sackett, Kentucky, Republicans, and George, Georgia, and Simmons, North Carolina, Democrats, will make up the subcommittee on cotton, flax, hemp and jute; wool, silk and rayon. Bingham will have charge of the cotton and wool schedules; Green the flax, hemp and jute, and Sackett the silk and rayon.

The schedules touching papers and books, sundries, and wood will be given to a subcommittee comprising Senators Deneen, Illinois; Keyes, New Hampshire, and Couzens, Michigan, Republicans, and Walsh, Massachusetts, and Thomas, Oklahoma, Democrats. Deneen will have charge of papers and books; Keyes of sundries, and Couzens of wood.

The free list will be handled by the full committee, which will meet from time to time to take testimony on this as well as administrative provisions in addition to valuation.

WICKERSHAM FINDS DRY ISSUE BLINDED

other important questions which we must investigate."

He said he was doubtful of the efficiency of the solution of the prohibition problem set forth by Judge F. C. Hoyt, of New York, winner of the $25,000 Hearst temperance prize. Judge Hoyt suggested a repeal of the Volstead act, the legalization of fermented malt, and brewed beverages, and the continued prohibition of distilled liquor.

"The trouble is," Wickersham said, "that before prohibition was tried even moderate measures to suppress the liquor evil were tried. But the liquor men can not be trusted.

"I am quite sure that prohibition adherents may have gone too far. They have become so obsessed with the one idea of enforcing the prohibition law, they have exaggerated its importance in their own minds out of all proportion to its actual significance.

"The drug traffic will be another problem for us. A great many people say, and with considerable authority, that the use of drugs has shown a marked increase as a result of prohibition."

Lamenting the lost power of the church over the people, Mr. Wickersham asserted that the sacerdotal office can no longer impose or impress any but the unlettered, or the intellectually indolent.

President Hoover's national commission on law observance and enforcement will start its two-year task this morning, tackling prohibition first by calling high Government officials to testify in secret session.

Nine of the eleven commissioners will be on hand for the opening executive session, Judges McCormick and Kenyon being absent. Chairman George W. Wickersham came here from New York last night, his investigating commission already divided into equal divisions on the cause and cure of crime, ready to start actual investigation.

The personnel of today's witnesses has not been disclosed, but it is expected that Seymour Lowman and J. M. Doran, of the prohibition unit, will be among the first to give their views on prohibition.

REPARATIONS REPORT SIGNING IS IMMINENT

Only French and English Texts May Receive Names of Delegates.

DRAFT IS MADE SHORTER

Paris, June 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The final report of the committee of experts, whose members, after nearly four months of arduous deliberations, have reached their momentous accord on a definite reparations settlement, will be signed Friday.

Most of the American delegation, including Owen D. Young, who acted as chairman throughout the Paris reparations parleys, Thomas W. Lamont and Thomas N. Perkins, will be homeward bound Saturday on the Aquitania. J. P. Morgan left Paris several days ago.

The original text of the Young plan, embodying the schedule of annuities which Germany is to pay in liquidation of her war obligations, is in English. It is being boiled down today, as it is considered too long, and French and German translations of it are being made. Probably only the French and English texts will be signed by the delegates of the seven nations participating in the conference, as the German text may not be complete by Friday.

U. S. Claims in Final Draft.

All American claims against Germany remain in the final draft, the army of occupation claim and the mixed claims extending over 52 years, whereas the claims of all of Germany's other creditors, except those to be applied to war debt coverage, will end at the thirty-seventh year. After that year all payments until the fifty-eighth will go through the bank for international settlements into the United States Treasury.

As the annuities stand in the final report they average $473,541,000 after service on the Dawes loan is covered. France will receive an average of $247,489,000 annually, more than two-thirds of this amount going to cover her war debts and the remainder for actual reparations.

Great Britain is to receive $99,567,000 annually, to be applied almost entirely to war debt coverage.

Italy will receive an average annual payment of $50,260,000, practically all war debt coverage.

Belgium Gets $27,000,000.

Belgium's annual average receipts from the settlement will be $27,393,000. Jugoslavia is next on the list with $19,056,000 as her annual share.

The United States comes next with an average of $15,721,000. In addition, as previously stated, Washington will receive $9,528,000 annually from the thirty-seventh to the fifty-second year to cover the remainder of unsatisfied claims which were called to the attention of the experts at the time the 10 per cent reduction in the army of occupation costs was made.

reau of the Budget and determine whether they will approve of an estimate of $500,000 for the airport.

The resolution which the commission has approved appropriates this sum for the purchase of land or options on land, if the money is made available now, according to Senator Bingham, it will be possible to acquire the land at a price much below what will be asked a year from now.

EDUCATION PARLEY OPENS TOMORROW

3 PHASES WILL BE TOPICS

(Associated Press.)

An advisory committee on education appointed yesterday by Secretary Wilbur is to meet here tomorrow to inaugurate a study of the relations of the National Government to education.

The committee, which is composed of 46 representatives of educational institutions and of organizations interested in education from every section of the country, has been divided by the Interior Secretary into three sections. Federal activities in education will be studied by the first, Federal grants to colleges by the second, and Federal grants to schools of less than college grade by the third.

Secretary Wilbur named Charles R. Mann, director of the American Council of Education, as general chairman of the entire committee. J. W. Crabtree, secretary of the National Education Association, will serve as general secretary.

Evidence pertaining to the three phases of the inquiry will be presented to the committee at the opening session, after which the respective groups will meet, each to tackle its phase. As defined by Secretary Wilbur, the aim is to return recommendations as to a future educational program by the Federal Government.

List of Educators.

The group to consider the activities of the Federal Government is composed of James E. Russell, president of the American Adult Education Association; S. P. Capen, chancellor of the University of Buffalo; W. M. Davidson, superintendent of schools, Pittsburgh; Frank P. Graves, commissioner of education for New York; J. C. Merriam, president of the Carnegie Institute of Washington; W. E. Willoughby, Institute of Government Research, Washington; W. S. Thayer, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore; Lois H. Meek, secretary of the American Association of University Women, Washington; Lita Bane, department of home economics, University of Wisconsin; George D. Strayer, head of the department of administration, Columbia University; Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, Washington; Walton L. Crocker, chairman of the educational committee, United States Chamber of Commerce; the Rev. George Johnson, secretary, Catholic Education Association, Washington, and Mrs. F. P. Bagley, of Boston, Mass.

The group to study subsidies to colleges is composed of Lotus D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota; James R. Angell, president of Yale University; Harry W. Chase, president of the University of North Carolina; George H. Denny, president of the University of Alabama; Edward C. Elliott, president of Purdue University; Uel W. Lamkin, president of the National Education Association; Cloyd H. Marvin, president of George Washington University; W. P. Morgan, of Western Illinois State Teachers College; the Right Rev. Edward A. Pace, vice chancellor of Catholic University, Washington; D. W. Springer, secretary Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Allied Institutions, Washington; Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College; George F. Zook, president of the University of Akron; Miss Lida Lee Towl, Teachers College of Maryland, and Dr. E. P. Cubberly, Stanford University.

Group on Subsidies.

Those who have been asked to study subsidies for schools of less than college grade and to make suggestions for future policy are Frank Cody, president department of superintendence of the National Education Association; J. B. Edmonson, president of the national committee on research in secondary education; Charles H. Judd, director of the school of education, University of Chicago; Mrs. F. M. N. Marrs, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers; A. B. Meredith, commissioner of education for Connecticut; Carl H. Milam, secretary American Library Association; W. B. Munroe, Harvard University, Cambridge; W. F. Russell, dean of teachers' college, Columbia University; Guy E. Snaveley, secretary of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; T. E. Finegan, educational director Eastman Kodak Co.; Mrs. L. W. Hughes, of Arlington, Tenn.; Mrs. Edith B. Joynes, president of the department of classroom teachers, Norfolk, Va.; Miss Agnes M. Samuelson, State superintendent of public instruction for Iowa; Director R. L. Cooley, Milwaukee vocational school committee, and Maurice Bisgyer, secretary of the National Association of Jewish Community Center Secretaries, Washington.

Black Art Pervades City As Famed Magicians Meet

Keys to Lima, Ohio, Are Turned Into White Rabbit as Mayor Prepares to Present Them to Visiting Prestidigitators; Secrecy Surrounds Opening Session.

Lima, Ohio, June 5 (U.P.).—When Mayor John A. Harley started to present the keys of the city to the 2,000 visiting members of the Mystical Brotherhood of Hat-Borrowers here today, he discovered they had been turned into a large white rabbit—the keys, not the visitors.

But Mayor Harley, instead of being surprised, was disappointed.

"Last year it was a full-grown panther," he complained. "I'm afraid the International Brotherhood of Magicians is losing its prowess."

Lima's streets were filled with strange caravans from which issued tweets, squawks, grunts and sawdust. They came from India, on the east, and Clay Center, Kans., on the west. No time was lost in turning the city into one big theater. Streets were packed tightly with little groups. Empty storerooms blossomed into black art shops, where deft-fingered magicians performed.

The Elks Home, headquarters of the convention, was a place of mystery today. Secrecy surrounded the first session held there. It was said, however, the delegates discussed nothing more exciting than future officers.

All police were on duty today to aid with the 2-mile-long parade. Boy Scouts assisted in the heavy traffic.

"The Great Thurston" is here. "The Great Durbin," president of the brotherhood, is here, as is "The Great Dr. Choy," of China; "The Great Don Carlos," Spanish court magician, and other world-famous sleight-of-hand experts.

Probably one of the greatest is Zelmo, who, they say, should be elected treasurer of the organization. Before a popeyed throng Zelmo took a half-dollar and proceeded to change it into a whole handful. He easily could eliminate the $3 annual dues.

CASSLER BOY DENIES HE AIDED IN MURDER

Intensive Questioning Fails to Break Down Story in Soutar Killing.

MOTHER'S HEARING IS SET

Valparaiso, Ind., June 5 (A.P.).—Eddie Cassler, 19-year-old Chicago boy, withstood five hours of intensive questioning by authorities here today and remained firm in his assertion that he knew nothing about the murder of Miss Cameola Soutar, for which his mother, Mrs. Catherine Cassler, stands accused.

The questioning, begun at the old, abandoned Cassler home in Hebron, Ind., was continued at the spot where Miss Soutar's body, shot through the heart, was found last week, and ended on side roads in the vicinity with officials urging him to "tell the truth."

Coroner E. H. Miller tonight said the only important point obtained from young Cassler was that he had been caught telling numerous lies. The authorities held the theory that Cassler aided his mother in hiding Miss Soutar's body.

The coroner placed particular stress on Cassler's assertions that he never before had been in the swamp lands where Miss Soutar's body was discovered. Confronted by August Kuenniger, farmer of the neighborhood, who said he had seen Cassler in that vicinity several years ago, Cassler said: "That man is a liar."

On another occasion he declared he would rather "take the hot seat" (the electric chair) himself than tell on his mother if he knew that she had committed the crime.

A black stocking, found near the scene of the body-hiding place, was shown the boy. He was asked if it belonged to Mrs. Cassler. He answered that he did not know. Coroner Miller then wanted to know if the stocking could be used as a "gag," and Cassler replied he supposed "it could."

A hearing for Mrs. Cassler is scheduled for Friday afternoon in the court of G. E. Bornholt, justice of the peace. At that time an affidavit charging her with murder either will be dismissed or she will be bound over to the grand jury.

In Chicago officials arrested Lawrence Coleman, 33, for questioning in connection with the case. Coleman's arrest resulted from a tip that he was a friend of the slain girl and could shed some light on the killing.

Police said Coleman was intoxicated and unable to talk when arrested.

Flags Will Be Formed By 2,000 Schoolgirls

Two thousand Washington schoolgirls, dressed in costumes of red, white and blue and massed to form two huge human flags, will participate in the vesper flag services of the United States Flag Association, which will be held on the west steps of the Capitol next Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

The forming of the human flags by the school children is under the direction of Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest, of the department of drama and pageantry of the Washington public schools.

Burglars Saw Skylight Bars and Loot Store

Sawing through iron bars across a skylight, burglars early yesterday entered the People's Drug Store at 1142 Connecticut avenue northwest and stole a quantity of morphine, cocaine, iodine, whisky, safety razors and cigarette lighters.

Dr. John E. Donaldson, manager of the store, told police a total of $290 worth of goods were taken.

"Sherwood" Is Now Under Rehearsal

Production at Sylvan Theater on June 20 Will Be Elaborate.

Rehearsals are progressing for the presentation of "Sherwood," by Alfred Noyes, in the Sylvan Theater, on the Monument Grounds, Thursday, June 20, under the auspices of the Community Drama Guild, of Washington. J. Milnor Dorey, executive secretary of the Progressive Education Association, is director of the production.

The musical score for "Sherwood" will be played by the Marine Band, Capt. Taylor Branson conducting. Choral numbers will be sung by a choir, and dances will be under the direction of Caroline McKinley. More than a hundred persons from dramatic associations of the Capital are in the cast.

Marie Moore Forrest, Sibyl Baker, Elizabeth Pritchard and Harold Snyder are assisting in the preparations for the performance. Alexis Maney is chairman of the committee on costumes, and Leland H. Cole is in charge of properties. The public will be welcome at the presentation.

Charity Board Named By Oldest Inhabitants

A committee to request the Community Chest supervisors to find means to aid certain needy families was appointed when the Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia held its regular monthly meeting last night in the old firehouse at Nineteenth and H streets northwest. The cause was a letter from the Associated Charities asking the Oldest Inhabitants to pay the back debts of a deserted wife, Mrs. Forbes, which debts the charities, although supporting the the woman, could not assume.

After the business meeting, the "good old days" in Washington, when street car rides for 3 cents and amateur editors agitated for District of Columbia suffrage, were discussed by Charles W. Darr, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Woman's Ribs Broken In Collision of Autos

Mrs. Luella M. Sayward, 43 years old, of 1319 Vermont avenue northwest, was injured yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which she was riding, said by police to have been operated by Alton T. Law, 1319 Vermont avenue northwest, was in collision with another automobile at New Jersey avenue and K streets northwest.

Mrs. Sayward was taken to Emergency Hospital, where she was treated by Dr. I. Butkoski for bruises to her right side and several fractured ribs.

CONGRESS TIPPLING BARED BY ROBSION

Some Members Occasionally "Take Nip," He Tells W. C. T. U.

DISTRICT DRIER, IS CLAIM

During a discussion of "Law Enforcement" at the quarterly convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of the District of Columbia yesterday, Representative John M. Robsion, of Kentucky, admitted there are members of Congress who "take a nip for old-time's sake or some other sake," while Leo A. Rover, United States attorney for the District, asserted that the liquor and night club situations are improved, due to padlock measures.

Representative Robsion's statement came while he was declaring that no law can be properly enforced until the so-called "good citizen" took it upon himself to observe it.

Rover dealt with the gambling and liquor situation in the District, and bemoaned the fact that a shortage of judges prevents additional action against gambling and gamblers in the city. He also brought into his discussion the fact that in 98 per cent of the cases where paid informers were used, these informers failed to appear when the case was called for trial, thereby handicapping the prosecution.

The convention of the W. C. T. U. organizations of the District was held in the Sherwood Presbyterian Church, Twenty-second street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, with morning and afternoon sessions.

Chaplain C. A. Oliver, of Walter Reed Hospital, was one of the speakers on the program. The Rev. Walter F. Eagleson, pastor of the Sherwood Church, delivered an address of welcome, while the Rev. Richard M. Edwards, of Brookland Methodist Episcopal Church, was another speaker.

Need for younger women in the W. C. T. U. to carry one the work which has been started and to continue the battle against those who are opposing the Volstead act was cited by Mrs. E. M. Gustafson, who responded to the address of welcome.

Mrs. N. M. Pollock, president, called the meeting to order. Reports were heard from the following: Mrs. George A. Rose, Mrs. H. E. Rogers, Mrs. M. C. Bennett, Mrs. Edna Proctor, Mrs. Howard Webster and Mrs. Charles Montgomery. Mrs. George G. Selbold led a salute to the flag, while Mrs. Myrtle C. MacSpeiden-Fretwell led the song service.

Pharmaceutist Is Found Dead; Autopsy Ordered

Edgar B. Allen, 54-year-old pharmaceutist, was found dead yesterday morning in the Hotel Inn, 610 Ninth street northwest, where he has resided for the last three years. Death is believed by his friends at the hotel to have been caused by natural causes, but Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, after viewing the body, ordered it sent to the morgue, where an autopsy will be performed this morning.

Allen was connected with Bernstein's drug store, 1920 Seventh street northwest, and formerly was with the Peoples Drug Stores, Inc. Before coming to Washington a number of years ago, he was proprietor of a pharmacy in Norfolk, Va., which is now operated by his widow. Allen was a native of Norfolk.

Brown Urges Parallel Parking.

Parallel, instead of angle parking, on Pennsylvania avenue, between Seventeenth and Nineteenth streets northwest, was urged yesterday by Inspector E. W. Brown, of the Traffic Bureau, in a memorandum to William H. Harland, traffic director. Brown has made the recommendation before. He says that the change would give more room for traffic, speed it up and be a measure of increased safety.

seated in the rear, managed to escape the death trap, while Lieut. Callaway and Kidder, in the bow, almost drowned before they could crawl through a narrow opening into the fuselage and rise to the surface.

The four men, wallowing in the water, held on grimly to the tail of the plane as the heavy motors and weighty forward compartment slowly began drawing the jutting end lower into the water as it settled. The rescue boat reached the scene while the men, burdened in their heavy flying suits, clung precariously to the fragile island of canvas.

The rescuers included Monte de la Vega, in charge of the Hains' Point air terminal, and Sam Houlton, R. W. Berry, John Moore, T. Jones, and also W. D. Cunningham, who last week escaped injuries in a crash at Hoover Field.

Lieut. Callaway, 34 years old and a native of Bismarck, N. Dak., is one of the best known test pilots in the Navy. He entered aviation work in 1910 in California when he began building his own machines of the pusher type. He enlisted in the Navy the day after the United States entered the World War and served on the U. S. S. Huntington, a seaplane carrier, remaining there until September, 1917, when he was transferred to the Naval Air Station at Rockaway, L. I., and thence to Minneapolis as ground school instructor.

After qualifying as a naval aviator at Pensacola, Fla., he went on inactive duty in 1919 to enter commercial flying, returning to the service in June, 1920. He has been on duty at the Naval Air Station at Anacostia on the Flight Test Board.

Kidder is plane captain for the plane flown by Lieut. Adolph Soucek in his efforts to establish new altitude records for the Navy.

Life Insurance as a Business Stabilizer

A NEW use for Life Insurance has been developed by a number of far-sighted partnerships and close corporations. Here is a possible example:

The X Company, a manufacturing concern in which three men hold the stock, takes out insurance on each of their lives in an amount equal to the worth of the stock held by each. An Insurance Trust Agreement is made providing that should any of them die his stock must be purchased from his estate by the Trustee with the proceeds of the Life Insurance money, at the price determined at the last annual meeting. The stock is then to be divided among the surviving members in proportion to their stock holdings.

The advantages of this arrangement will be further explained by our Trust Officer or your life underwriter.

45 RAYON STRIKERS WILL APPEAL CASE

Penalties of 10 Days in Jail and $10 to $50 Fines Are Given for Picketing.

GUARD USE HELD LEGAL

Johnson City, Tenn., June 5 (A.P.).—Appeal will be taken in the conviction of 45 former textile workers on charges growing out of alleged efforts to obstruct the reopening of rayon mills after the recent strike at Elizabethton, Tenn. The outcome of the joint trial had been anticipated as a ruling on the legality of Tennessee's law sanctioning picketing.

Penalties of ten days in jail and fines ranging from $50 to $10 were imposed yesterday by Judge S. E. Miller in Chancery Court here. Defense attorneys immediately announced they would carry the case to the State Supreme Court.

In his decision, Judge Miller said "the defendant's understanding of peaceful picketing repeated from the witness stand does not square itself with any definition of peaceful picketing sanctioned by law.

"There can be no such thing as peaceful picketing," the judge continued, "no more than there can be chaste vulgarity or peaceful mobbing, or lawful lynching. * * * To constitute intimidation is not necessary that there should be any direct threat. Still less, any action of violence. It is enough if mere attitude assumed by the defendant is intimidation."

Charges of intimidation and violation of any injunction prohibiting interference with operations at the Bemberg and Glanzstoff rayon plants originally were lodged against the strikers in connection with picketing activities during efforts of plant officials to reopen the mills after a strike of 5,500 workers April 15.

Later they were charged with contempt of court.

The use of National Guardsmen in patrol duty at the plants was legal, Judge Miller ruled, in that the guardsmen were properly called as State police. Labor leaders have urged an investigation into the legality of use of the troops, and Secretary of War Good has announced that inquiry will be made into the use of military equipment in the strike area.

Mrs. Ella Hertle Dies at Her Home

Society Leader Succumbs on Historic River Estate; Burial in Chicago.

Mrs. Ella Daughaday Hertle, 54 years old, well-known society woman of Washington, Chicago and Virginia, died yesterday at her home at Gunston Hall-on-the-Potomac, the historic George Mason estate and one of the show places of the South.

Her body will be sent to Chicago today. Funeral services will be held at Rosehill Cemetery at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Mrs. Hertle was a native of the Illinois city. She is survived by her husband, Louis Hertle, who was with her when she died, and relatives in Chicago.

Gunston Hall has been the scene of many lavish entertainments by Mr. and Mrs. Hertle. During the World War, when numerous special foreign missions were sent to this country, it offered a retreat where many secret and important diplomatic conferences were held. Mrs. Hertle usually spent the winter months at the Willard Hotel here and was popular in Capital society.

G. C. BRADFORD TO BE BURIED

Funeral Services for Sportsman Set for Tomorrow.

Funeral services of Granville C. Bradford, Washington sportsman and real estate operator, who died suddenly Tuesday night at Walter Reed Hospital, will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning from Tabler's Funeral Home, 928 M street northwest. Interment will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Mr. Bradford, about 38 years old, maintained real estate offices in the Investment Building, and made his home at 1437 Spring road northwest. Last Friday he became ill, and was taken to the tubercular ward of the hospital, where he sank rapidly. He was a World War veteran.

He was sued for divorce in 1924 by his first wife, Betty Burch, a former Follies girl, who named as corespondent Mrs. Freda Ramsay, who was declared by hospital attendants to have been at his bedside when he died.

MRS. W. T. BAGGETT DIES.

Former Resident of Capital Succumbs at Daughter's Home in North.

Mrs. William T. Baggett, who before her marriage was Miss Nellie Rose, of Memphis, Tenn., died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George F. Mitchell, of Dongon Hill, Staten Island, N. Y., after a long illness.

Mrs. Baggett was well known in Washington. She lived in this city for more than 20 years. Her husband, an attorney, died several years ago. Mrs. Baggett was a member of the Colonial Dames and the D. A. R. Funeral services will be held from the home of the daughter.

Former Admiral of Fleet, Sir Cecil Burney, Is Dead

Career of Noted British Sailor Dated Back to Egyptian War.

ADMIRAL SIR CECIL BURNEY.

London, June 5 (A.P.).—Admiral Sir Cecil Burney, 71 years old, who topped a brilliant career in the British Navy in 1920 with his promotion to admiral of the fleet, died today. He retired in 1925.

Sir Cecil took part in the Egyptian war, 1882, and in activities in the Eastern Sudan in 1884.

He was aid-de-camp to King Edward VII in 1906-07 and became rear admiral of the Plymouth subdivision of the home fleet in 1909. In 1911 he was made rear admiral commanding the fifth cruiser squadron and in the same year was made vice admiral commanding the Atlantic fleet.

He was senior naval officer of the international fleet blockading the coasts of Montenegro and Albania April-May, 1913, and was president of the International Commission which administered the town of Scutari, Albania, May to November, 1913.

In December, 1914, he became second in command of the grand fleet and was present at the battle of Jutland, being mentioned in dispatches. From 1916 until 1917 he was second sea lord and then became commander-in-chief, coast of Scotland, 1917-1919.

POPE PIUS CRITICIZES SPEECHES OF MUSSOLINI ON LATERAN PACT

it was inadmissible that there could be absolute liberty of discussion because it might easily damage the faith of the slightly educated, "and might easily become a dissimulated form of propaganda dangerous both to the state and to religion."

Demands Full Charge of Education.

He reiterated his demand for "a full and perfect mandate for education for the church," and declared the state could not either hinder or change the exercise of that mandate.

Pope Pius said the state had nothing to fear from education under direction of the church, adding:

"It is this education which has produced the good and higher aspects of modern civilization. From the first days of Christianity up to the present fathers and mothers have sent or brought their millions of sons to educational institutions founded directly by the church."

The pontiff criticized the premier's statement that Italy was not "a Catholic state, but a Fascist state." He said:

"No one wishes to admit that the Fascist state is not in accord with Catholic doctrine and practice in regard to its order of ideas, as well as its order of practical action. Otherwise the state could not be Catholic."

Desires More Exact Expressions.

There was condemnation for certain expressions used by Mussolini with reference to the nomination of ecclesiastics and the "juridical personality of religious bodies." The Pope said the language of the concordat differed from that used by the premier and he declared that speech regarding such delicate matters should pay every attention to the accuracy of phraseology.

He endorsed enthusiastically the marriage provisions in the concordat, saying these secured to the Italian people a benefit that would be greater for the country than the church. He added: "So great is this benefit for the family that for it alone we would gladly have sacrificed life itself."

The letter praised the references which Mussolini made to the sacred character of Rome as the Episcopal city of the successor of St. Peter.

Toleration of Offenses Opposed.

"With so much more wonderment," the letter continued, "we saw advanced the idea that certain undeniable offenses to the sacred character of the city ought to be tolerated in the name of liberty of conscience and condoned by a compassion that would certainly be out of place. But of what liberty of conscience does one speak? Where would we arrive in such a manner?"

Responding to the question "Will peace last?" the pontiff wrote: "We can say with perfect faith that the peace will last for two motives. The first is that after all we hold to our faith in the fidelity and good will of men. The second is that we constantly increase our faith in the help of God, by us and for us continually invoked.

"Those who stand together, fall together. If by consequence the Vatican City falls with the state, for our part, with divine aid, we will build anew among the ruins.

Trusts in Providence.

"We speak thus not because we have abandoned or ever will abandon that right and reasonable optimism which is necessary for life, but to say that we are tranquilly resigned and ready for all that which divine providence wills or permits to us.

"It certainly is instructive to consider that after all that work, and after so short a time, we have to lament with the prophet 'even the best is changed,' an interruption, unwelcome and dolorous, undermines in Italy and in all the world the genuine joy of all good Catholics and all good citizens but not without satisfaction, it is easy to see, to others."

arisen in the course of our own diplomatic history, usually as the result of some unpleasantness or slight.

In that event the ruling becomes an issue strictly between the ambassador and the members of his own staff. His subordinates face the alternative of abiding by their chief's decision or requesting a transfer, or in the case in point of getting transferred or "going dry."

Elsewhere in the Diplomatic Corps the process of "drying up" the British Embassy is followed with hardly veiled suspicion.

Diplomats deny heatedly that the British Ambassador's "dry" view is theirs, in spite of his being dean of the corps. The French Ambassador recently authorized the statement that he "differs fundamentally with the view of the British Ambassador," and it is said that he has already heard from the Bordeaux wine merchants, who are alarmed at the prospect of losing the trade of Washington's Diplomatic Corps, which amounts on an average to $50,000 annually. Although other chiefs of missions have refrained from expressing their feelings publicly, they do not hesitate to emphasize in private that would be impossible for them to permit their immunity to be infringed on in this manner.

CONFEDERATES SEE HISTORY IN PAGEANT

Convening Southerners Witness Pictorial Review of Lost Cause.

TRUE HISTORY DEMANDED

Charlotte, N. C., June 5 (A.P.).—Four thousand Confederate veterans turned tonight from festivity, business routine and oratory to witness the history they made depicted in pageantry.

The pageant, in which some 1,500 people participated, was the only event on tonight's program of the thirty-ninth reunion of the United Confederate Veterans here. It sketched in picturesque outline the rise and fall of the Confederacy and dramatic events of the War Between the States.

Today the veterans, holding their opening business session, heard Gen. A. T. Goodwyn, commander in chief, arraign modern historians for their treatment of the Confederacy. He told them an American history that "would do justice to all concerned" would show that the Civil War was a "veiled economic war of industrial greed against the agricultural South."

Gen. Goodwyn called upon his command to perpetuate their war experiences in writing and thus help correct what he termed the errors and falsehood of current histories.

Today the Sons of Confederate Veterans held the opening session of their thirty-fourth annual reunion. Among the speakers were Mrs. W. C. N. Merchants, of Chatham, Va., president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, of Montezuma, Ga., first vice president general; Gen. Edwin Selvage, of New York, who represented the veterans, and Edmund R. Wiles, commander in chief of the S. C. V.

Mrs. Merchant told the organization that it must adopt a permanent program and set a definite objective if it is to survive. The speaking program was devoted largely to eulogies of the veterans.

The S. C. V. will attempt during the convention to raise funds for the preservation of Beauvoir, Jefferson Davis' homestead in Mississippi, and for the completion of the Confederate Memorial Park at Manassas Battlefield.

Sweet Briar Honors 34; Three From Washington

Three Washington girls were among the 34 on whom honors were conferred yesterday at commencement exercises at Sweet Briar College, Sweet Briar, Va. The class was the largest in the history of the school, numbering 86 graduates.

The Washington girls who received honors were Bessie Anita Peters, in physics; Adelaide Bealmear Wampler, junior honors, and Amalie Hortense Frank, freshman honors.

EVERYBODY SHIVERING.

The House has thoroughly enjoyed the shivers caused by the unexpected passage of two amendments to the census-apportionment bill, one of them excluding aliens from the census and the other reducing the apportionment of States in which voters above 21 are denied the right to vote. Mr. Hoch, of Kansas, offered the first amendment, which is aimed at reducing the political power in the House now wielded by large cities containing heavy alien populations. The second amendment, intended to put teeth in the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution, was offered by that old warhorse, Tinkham, of Massachusetts, who will never be satisfied until the prostrated fourteenth and fifteenth amendments are given equal vitality with the noble eighteenth.

It would be a parlous thing for the Republican party to go on record as denying to the Southern States part of their power in the House because of their denial of the suffrage to negroes. Mr. Hoover demonstrated that the South is breakable, and high hopes have been entertained that the Republican party would permanently hold some of those States. But if the Tinkham amendment is to be tacked to the apportionment bill it must be by Republican votes, and whenever that is done the Republican party may as well bid farewell to the South, for the South will bid farewell to it.

The sudden agreement of the conferees on the farm relief bill enabled the House board of strategy to adjourn yesterday without bringing the census bill to a vote. Now the way is open for recommitting the bill. If the Tinkham amendment and the Hoch amendment are not strangled in committee the right hand of the board of strategy will have lost its cunning, and there will be no balm in Gilead or anywhere else.

It is a splendid ideal that is cherished by Mr. Tinkham of Massachusetts—the ideal of equal and impartial enforcement of all constitutional amendments or their universal repeal. But the ideal suffers in brutal contact with the real. The South does not intend to place the balance of power in the hands of negro voters, and it has the means to make its will effective. So the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments must sleep if the country is to have peace and quiet. As for the eighteenth amendment—that is another story. The South here shares the hopes of idealists in other sections that this amendment may somehow be enforced. But Southern members of the House may conclude that the exclusion of aliens from census enumeration, as a means of retaining a disproportionate number of dry members in the House, is not worth the risk of incurring the curse of the Tinkham amendment.

With the Republicans fighting shy of going upon record as trying to enforce negro suffrage in the South, and with the Democrats willing to sacrifice anything rather than accept negro suffrage, it ought to be easy for the board of strategy to patch up the census-apportionment bill so that everybody, North and South, can vote for it with a hallalujah.

VESUVIUS BOILS OVER.

Science has accomplished great things for the protection of man from the calamities visited on the earth by nature, but the belching forth of lava by a volcano is quite beyond its power. The eruption of Mount Vesuvius in Italy is smothering two villages while the inhabitants look on, helpless to protect their property. Millions of tons of lava have been ejected from the historic crater, and the unfortunate villagers are fleeing just as their ancestors did centuries ago.

Science has been able sometimes, but not always, to predict the occurrence of eruptions. The present disturbance was foreseen. It is more violent than the observers anticipated, but the inhabitants of the engulfed villages had ample warning, and no loss of life has been reported.

Last fall when Mount Etna erupted several lives were lost, all as the result of carelessness. People refused to heed the warning until their property had been surrounded and there was no escape from the slowly moving stream. There is little danger of loss of life in such eruptions as that now taking place, if official warnings are heeded. Nevertheless the spectacle of the earth emitting molten material from its unknown interior continues to attract widespread attention. The element of superstition has largely disappeared, to be supplanted by fascinated curiosity and scientific study.

DR. WORK'S RETIREMENT.

The decision of Dr. Hubert Work to retire from the chairmanship of the Republican national committee has called forth various ingenious surmises, as might have been expected, but there is reason to presume that Dr. Work is retiring simply because he wishes to retire. If he were contemplating a season of rest after arduous and highly creditable labors he would choose the present interlude in which to make his announcement, so that the committee could arrange for his successor and lay plans for the next campaign. Dr. Work could hardly remain in command, making commitments extending into the next campaign, without embarrassment to himself and his successor.

The insinuation that President Hoover failed to appreciate Dr. Work's services as generalissimo of the Republican shock troops during 1928, and that disappointment in not receiving a handsome reward accounts for the retirement, is shown to be a mere invention by the letters exchanged by the President and his campaign manager. The amazing victory of 1928 brought glory enough for all Republicans, but after all of them have taken their share the chief credit belongs to the chairman of the national committee. If he had been a poor manager there might not have been any glory for anybody. The political annals of the United States will always mark the year 1928 in red letters. Of all men, President Hoover is the last to be unappreciative of the labors of his party's field marshal. The public shares with Mr. Hoover the wish that Dr. Work will see fit hereafter to reenter public life.

THE EPSOM DERBY.

What may well prove to be a most momentous event in the future history of Great Britain, namely, the change from a conservative to a socialist administration, was almost entirely overshadowed in the popular mind, at least temporarily, by the counter-attraction of the 150th running of the race for the Derby stakes. The Derby, decided always except during the war on the celebrated track at Epsom Downs, has come to be regarded as the greatest of all the five classic flat races of England, and the interest taken in its result is practically world-wide. When Hawley Smart wrote his novel, "Bound to Win," around the Derby, he but seized on and capitalized a universal sentiment, which was crystallized in his pages into a sort of patriotic glow, as his readers almost saw Sam Burton bring home Beggarman, the supposedly plebeian-bred progeny of the tramp mare, a gallant first past the winning post.

It was generally agreed that yesterday's race was of a more open character than is often the case, and this feeling was reflected in the betting, which took a wide range and was notable for the liberality of the odds laid even against the prime favorites. Lord Astor was widely thought to have an excellent chance of removing the jinx which has hitherto prevented him from winning a Derby, but keen observers, who noticed how his horse, Cragadour, had faltered both in the Craven Stakes and in the Two Thousand Guineas, and who subsequently learned that this faltering was diagnosed by a well-known veterinary surgeon as being due to indigestion, remained skeptical. Mr. Jinks and Hunter's Moon also disappointed their supporters, and whatever chance the heavily played Kopi possessed was, of course, at once extinguished when he fell during the running of the race.

The three placed horses were all outsiders. The winner, Trigo, an Irish-bred horse, started at 33 to 1 against; the second, Walter Gay, at 100 to 8 against, and the third, Brienz, at 50 to 1 against. Ere now the Derby has been sometimes won by horses starting at forlorn odds. The cases of Hermit (66 to 1), Sir Hugo (100 to 1), and Signorinetta (100 to 1) occur readily to the mind. It is, perhaps, worthy of note that, when Trigo won the $7,500 race at Phoenix Park, Dublin, last summer, a veteran sportsman and a keen judge of thoroughbreds exclaimed: "There's a race horse for you; be sure to back him for the Epsom Derby next June."

For the rest the Derby had its usual accompaniments. King George was necessarily absent through illness, but the Prince of Wales was there to keep the other 500,000 spectators company. The race was run in a slight rain, but that fact did not in any way damp the ardor of the crowd, or interfere with the joviality which, from time almost immemorial, has always characterized the proceedings of Derby day on the far-famed Epsom Downs.

SENATORS DISCUSS SPECULATION.

There has been a growing opinion that the credit situation, so far as the Federal Reserve Board is concerned, is on the mend. Brokers' loans have been decreasing, the general level of stock prices is decidedly lower and frenzied trading has been replaced with more orderly routine. But all hope that the stock market would be permitted to work out its own salvation was dashed as a result of the debate that took place in the Senate Tuesday. The Senate is determined to look into the stock market and credit situation; consequently, there is not the slightest reason to believe that the feeling of uncertainty that pervades the market will be quickly dissipated.

The immediate occasion for Tuesday's debate was the Smoot-Hawley bill to permit the issuance of short-time certificates and Treasury bills up to $10,000,000,000. The principal participants were Senators Glass, Couzens and Edge, each of whom had something to say on the Smoot-Hawley bill itself and a good deal to say on the market and credit situation in general. The three senators, however, did not always agree, and in their disagreement lies sufficient fuel to feed the flames of a long and bitter controversy.

In attacking the Smoot-Hawley bill, Senator Glass said: "It is a very well-known fact that in this frightful orgy of speculation which has almost paralyzed the legitimate commercial and industrial credits of the country, the speculators have been enabled to operate excessively and with facility because of the provision that permits direct borrowings by the banks under the fifteen-day clause (of the present law)." He scored the Federal Reserve Board for having failed to oust Charles E. Mitchell as a director of the New York Federal Reserve Bank after he had supported use of Federal reserve funds in the brokers' loan market, but he commended the board for having resisted the demand, that would have "penalized legitimate transactions," to raise the rediscount rate. He agreed with Senator Couzens, who said: "The Federal Reserve Board has been dumb in not dealing with a situation that should have been dealt with months ago. If it had acted months ago, there is no question that this great orgy of speculation would not have occurred." And, like Senator Couzens, Senator Glass "is very much in sympathy with the proposal to give the board sufficient authority to check this orgy of gambling." This show of sympathetic, fraternal agreement would be more significant if it were not for the fact that the two senators disagree on one fundamental point. Whereas Senator Glass praises the board for not having raised the rediscount rate, Senator Couzens advocates increasing the rate and says that if this had been done at the outset the situation would not have become "so serious."

Senator Edge, in the debate, espoused the cause of moderation. "I agree that there has been overspeculation," he said, "but I am not disposed to hold the Federal Reserve Board responsible. Maybe by legislation we can discourage what is known as gambling, but, after all is said and done, it is impossible for Congress to tell an individual how and where to spend his money." Senator Edge held that the "big menace" was the high rate charged for call money in New York, a practice which he characterized as indefensible. It fell to his lot to speak the most significant and important sentence of the day, to wit: "The credit situation is one of the most delicate bits of mechanism for a legislative body to confront."

Tuesday's debate unfortunately was lopsided. No senator arose to point out that industry and commerce, by every record that has been kept, private and official, is "doing nicely," and no one suggested that with the situation apparently on the mend it might be inferred that the Federal Reserve Board has all the power it needs to force action in emergencies.

A hotel manager, robbed of $115, describes the bandits as resembling college men. This leaves the police with practically nothing to work on.

THE MINING INDUSTRY

By DR. HENRY MACE PAYNE,
Consulting Engineer, American Mining Congress.

There is no field in which the genius of the inventor finds such wide play as in the beneficiation of mineral products or in the profitable recovery of low grade ores. Between 1850 and 1920 the population of the country increased 360 per cent, while the production of the mining industry increased 7,700 per cent. The mining industry is so vast in its extent, so complex in its ramifications, and so basic in its economic relation to human affairs, and to the advance of civilization itself, as to challenge the wisest thought, the greatest executive ability and the keenest insight into human relations.

The mining industry of the United States supplies 60 per cent of the mineral wealth of the world. More than 12,000,000 people of the United States are dependent upon mines and quarries. One company alone handles 79,500 cubic yards of low grade ore per day and extracts therefrom over a million pounds of copper per day.

Twenty-two per cent of the Federal income is derived from taxes on the mining industry, which pays 93¼ per cent of its net profits in State and Federal taxes, or more than double that paid by any other industry. Mines and quarries contribute more than 54 per cent of railroad freights, the revenue from which amounts to $1,332,679,892 per year.

In exploring for and operating mines, 10,000 mining engineers and geologists are actively employed in the United States or by American companies. Marvelous achievements are recorded in mining and metallurgy in the development of radium, aluminum, metals used in telephonic and radio instruments, and in platinum.

Operating mines in this country have an investment of $8,269,869,000 and 75 per cent of recent dividends earned by these companies has been reinvested in further mining developments. The 14,000 mines in the country have an annual production valued at $5,520,000,000.

We produce 43½ per cent of the coal production of the world; 64 per cent of the petroleum; 68 per cent of the zinc; 48 per cent of the lead; 59 per cent of the copper, and 52 per cent of the world's pig iron. While general commodity groups have had price index numbers of from 135 to 170 on a 1913 basis, metal products have ranged from 141 to 138 since 1923. In the last 20 years the number of workers in mining has increased but 6 per cent, while their output has increased 189 per cent, and the average output per worker has advanced 98 per cent. This efficiency has reacted in higher wages and has been brought about by inventive genius and mechanization, improved industrial relations and the development and application of power by which the burden is put upon the machine instead of on the backs of labor. The fear of an overpopulated world has been dispelled by machinery which has yielded a surplus of food. The availability of potash and phosphates through increased mining will multiply the productivity of the soil and supply food for other millions.

From the earliest metal implements of prehistoric man to the magnificent structures which testify to engineering genius, civilization has been measured by man's utilization of the products of the mine.

PRESS COMMENT.

How Come?

Atchison Globe: How comes that evangelists know more about sin than the rest of us do?

Maybe.

Toledo Blade: Looks as if President Hoover has selected a crime commission that will be strong enough to absorb punishment.

And There You Are.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Educator says that before long school children will be taught by movies, and reformers say that children are learning too many queer things from the movies now.

That's the Spirit.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Missouri will lose three Congressmen under reapportionment, more than any other State in the Union. It shows what sacrifices Missouri is willing to make to have the Constitution complied with.

Perish the Thought.

Troy Times: For appalling exemplification of too much of a good thing, imagine, or try to imagine, a radio set capable of simultaneously conveying to the human ear all of the sounds and noises in the world.

He'll Need 'Em.

New Orleans Times-Picayune: The "pocket veto" having been pronounced valid, we surmise that President Hoover will have all his future suits designed with ample document receptacles.

It'd "Clarify" It.

Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: Senator Fess says that one virtue of the Senate is its capacity to explain clearly the substance of all matters that come before it for discussion and by this to do much to clarify public knowledge. Couldn't they get the Einstein theory up some afternoon, just long enough to get people straight on it?

Go to Borneo.

Louisville Courier-Journal: All the way from Borneo comes a sojourner to use Chicago for contrast. Borneo is safer, declares a returned missionary; safer than any city perhaps for a pedestrian. The people don't hunt heads for parlor ornaments or eat missionaries. They are vegetarians. They have progressed far ahead of the proposed five-day week. They have reduced it to less than a half day for work. "The wild man of Borneo" is a myth. The credulous might believe that circuses had done much for the peace of the isle by exhausting the supply; but its defender insists there never was one. Why don't some enterprising successor to P. T. Barnum capture Al Capone and stake him out in front of a sideshow?

But They Came Back.

Baltimore Sun: There are more than a million golfers who would like to take a hand in punishing the villain who swiped Bobby Jones' bag of golf clubs. The bag contained the "only driver that Bobby can use"—though we incline to think this statement considerably exaggerated—and a putter internationally known as Calamity Jane. That euphonious appellation was due to some weird work once performed by Bobby on the putting greens, which, in the absence of other explanation, was finally blamed upon the innate perversity of this particular club.

The open championship is just ahead, and to steal the pet weapons of such a golfer as Bobby at such a time is about as bad, in a golfer's eyes, as it would be to puncture Lindy's gas tank. It is one of those crimes for which no reasonable penalty would be sufficient. It deserves special treatment—something like burning in oil. As evidence of the depth to which human depravity can sink, it is worth the attention of Mr. Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission.

Youth Doesn't Go to the Devil; It Is Sent.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIEVES are made and not born.

And disrespect for law is incubated by a process as natural and inevitable as the hatching of an egg.

The village in which I live is not typical of America, for it still clings to the belief that a black man should do the work while the white man sits in the shade; but it will serve to illustrate the dangers that attend keeping the hands soft.

The boys, for the most part, are given "an easier time than dad had." They finish the local school and go away to college before they settle down to work. And not one in a dozen learn a trade or has a regular job.

If they were rich men's sons, that wouldn't matter so much; but they have no money, and a boy without money endures many humiliations.

If a boy feels the need of money, and local custom forbids him to do common labor that will soil his hands, he will learn to barter and trade. He will scheme. And when he learns that some "big business men" are rogues and yet escape punishment, he may be tempted to steal.

Three boys who ranked high in this village of one thousand people—three who felt superior to common laborers—tried to keep their hands soft after leaving home and ended in the penitentiary. Another who had a white-collar job coveted more money than he could earn and shot himself to escape "disgrace."

Within the last decade, four lads in their teens have been caught stealing here at home. Not one of them had been taught to work.

Work keeps boys out of mischief, but that isn't its chief service. It provides spending money. And a boy who doesn't develop the habit of working for money will develop the habit of scheming to get it in some other way.

As to the present-day disrespect for law, that also is a product of loafing.

Kings and nobles, through all the pages of history, mock the laws of God and man because their easy living, obtained without the labor common to men, makes them feel superior to the rules that govern common clay.

Commoners, also, enabled to live in luxury without soiling their hands, feel superior to the law dreaded by the poor.

Modern youth scorns law because its pockets are full of easy, unearned money.

"By the sweat of your brow," says the law. And the man who is above that law will think himself above others as certainly as night follows day.

Fill a boy's pockets; free him of duties; give him infinite leisure; and within a year he will say: "Laws are made for the lower classes."

AUTOGRAPH COLLECTING.

The chief requisite for collecting autographed photographs of celebrities is the temerity to write and ask for them. It would appear from the success that has attended the efforts of 15-year-old David Bensman, of Two Rivers, Wis., says the Milwaukee Journal. David works in his father's shoe shining establishment and spends his nickels for stamps in mailing out requests for pictures. In the last year his enterprise has been rewarded to the extent of between 200 and 300 pictures of the world's great.

In the collection are photographs of President and Mrs. Coolidge, Charles G. Dawes, Stanley Baldwin, Premier of Great Britain; Herbert Hoover, Al Smith, Charles Curtis, Drs. Charles and William Mayo, William Wrigley, jr., Admiral W. A. Moffett, Galli Curci, Marian Talley, Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, M. Walker, Governor of the Canal Zone; Carlos Salorzano, former President of Nicaragua; Thomas Masaryk, President of Czechoslovakia; the Crown Prince and Princess of Japan and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

There are also photographs of Charles M. Schwab, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Nicholas Longworth, Max Mason, now director of the Rockefeller Research Bureau; Eddie Rickenbacker, Lieut. Albert Hegenberger, George H. Lorimer, publisher of the Saturday Evening Post; Frank O. Lowden, Andrew Mellon, Henry Ford, John Philip Sousa, Jane Addams and Elihu Root.

The list includes a dozen governors, as many United States senators and several famous authors. Among the latter are George Ade, Zona Gale, Zane Grey, Hamlin Garland, Zoe Beckley, Harold Bell Wright and Edgar Lee Masters.

The first photograph George Ade sent was crushed in the mails and David immediately wrote the author, explaining the picture's ill fate and received another. Henry Ford and Secretary Mellon sent photographs, but did not autograph them. David explained that not even the most widely known collectors in the country have been able to get autographed pictures of the two famous multimillionaires.

PITY THE FISH.

In Gloucester, where the fishing fleets of the Atlantic anchor when not spreading their nets, originates the idea of broadcasting the whereabouts of mackerel schools for the benefit of the boats, says the Dayton News. The fish will have hardly a sporting chance if the plan goes into effect. To the Gloucester fishermen, of course, angling is only a means of livelihood. The industry is a commercial proposition. It would suffer if the ethics of the amateur were followed.

Hitherto the mackerel, like the salmon, has enjoyed something of secrecy in its migrations. It couldn't be caught if the fishermen didn't know where to fish. Now even that protection bids fair to pass. When the radio passes along the discovery the fishing fleet will turn its bows as one toward the spot, and it will be worse for the mackerel. The Gloucester salts will haul in their catches, their chief and only concern.

The news will cause a little pang in the sporting element which fishes for thrill instead of money. It is natural for the amateur to regard the professional with disdain. He has been giving his fish an even break, pitted his skill against its natural strength and sagacity. Mr. Coolidge suffered sadly in his estimation for baiting trout with worms. And now the Gloucester fishermen plan to add radio to all their other advantages in the one-sided battle to snare the mackerel. It is enough to make honest old Izaak stir in his grave.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Accuses Legislative Bodies of Responsibility for Crime Wave.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Public contempt for the Declaration of Independence expressed through legislative bodies is responsible for these crime waves. I suggest that you print the initial platform of the Republican party, the platform of 1856 on which Fremont stood.

An Honest Deal for Prohibition Is Demanded by Rear Admiral Kimball.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: According to press reports, on this 3d day of June, Mr. Edison, Mr. Ford and 22 other adepts in the science of decreasing the low cost of production and increasing the high cost of selling, are trying to "sell" us, the people, an honest deal in prohibition.

We, the people, shy the buy a bit, since it is more than apparent that were prohibition given an honest deal there could be no attempt at all at prohibition.

We can not understand how there could be any honest dealing in an article which the logic of events has clearly proved to be inherently an unlawful, un-Christian, unconstitutional, un-American, drunkenness and degradation-making stupidity.

We know that to give prohibition an honest deal would be to give it a lawful deal, which we know to be impossible, because prohibition laws prevent the enforcement of prohibition laws, and therefore that any attempt at prohibition must be lawless.

We know that the only way possible though seemingly impracticable, way toward the attainment of prohibition, which a few of us want, is the dishonest, sneaking and lawless way which is now being so zealously pursued by our Government. W. W. KIMBALL.

Airplane Vibrations Destructive and May Not Be Remedied by Silencers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The criticism of my article on airplane noises by Mr. Naulty, being apparently based on intuition rather than reason, resulted, I believe, from the fact that the article as written was much too long for the space available for it, and in reducing it to proper length my main reasons vanished.

These reasons were based on the recent discoveries of Dr. R. W. Wood, professor of physics at Johns Hopkins, of the effect of super-sonic vibrations on living tissue. "Red blood corpuscles in a physiological salt solution" (which is the nearest approach to natural blood serum, and is used as a substitute for it) "are rapidly destroyed, the turbid liquid becoming as clear as a solution of red aniline dye," Dr. Wood relates. "Small living unicellular organisms are torn apart. Bacteria, being smaller, escape the destructive action of the waves, but small fish or frogs exposed to them in water are killed."

I believe ordinary reason would naturally connect these deaths from sound vibrations, though inaudible ones, with the deaths mentioned as occurring as many different airports of young chicks and even grown hens. Had the sound continued long enough the young foxes, and probably many other young things whose organism is yet unfixed and susceptible to change, would have died.

As to silencing the motors, it would evidently depend on how this is done, whether matters would be improved or not. If done by raising the vibrations above the capacity of the ear to register, we have only produced the deadly vibrations at their worst, it would seem—and with no way to know what is the matter with us!

Let us pray that the airport be placed far from the city, and planes forbidden to fly over it.

VIRGINIA MAY BROUN.

Padlock Cases Show That Prohibition Law Has Teeth in It Despite Popular Criticism.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Several weeks ago the papers were filled with stories of the failure of the Government to obtain convictions in the so-called New York City padlock cases. Far and wide the cry went out: "The Government has found it impossible to obtain convictions," "Juries refuse to convict," "Night club hostess goes free," &c. The other day the Department of Justice published a resume of these cases. Look what the official record says:

"From the southern district of New York comes a resume of the results obtained in the so-called night club cases recently tried in New York City. The record discloses that there were 22 separate cases as a result of which 98 defendants were sentenced. Of these 18 defendants stood trial, in eight separate cases, with the result that 15 were convicted and 3 acquitted. The total fines imposed aggregated $18,660; the total actual jail time in sentences aggregated 125 months and 10 days; the total jail time suspended was 138 months; the total time on probation was 59½ years, and the total amount of bond forfeitures was $4,000. In addition to the criminal cases the total padlock time was 18 years and the property connected with four bars in such clubs was destroyed by burning pursuant to court orders."

So "juries won't convict," won't they, and "the Government found it impossible to obtain convictions," did it? It's about time the newspapers published the truth about matters of this sort and stopped trying to fool the people into a belief that the blessing of prohibition is not generally recognized. E PLURIBUS UNUM.

Sounds Plausible.

Milwaukee Journal: An interesting old-timers' program was given the other day at the Oshkosh Public Museum under the auspices of the Winnebago County Archeological and Historical Society. George W. Johnson told how Oshkosh became the county seat. He said that the political bosses got the men drunk and had them vote over and over again to make the appearance of a large population. As a result of this repeating Oshkosh won by 3 votes.

Woman's Club Aids Harmony Of Democrats

Mrs. Borden Harriman, Head of Group, Leads Fete to Leader.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE women of the Democratic party are promotors of harmony—if the men are not. The spectre of party disunion may have reared its head in connection with the dinner next Monday evening for Mr. Jouett M. Shouse, in charge of the new headquarters of Democracy in Washington, which is being given under auspices of the local Jefferson Democratic Association. Senators from Dixie may be suddenly discovering "previous engagements" for that evening. But all was merry as a marriage bell last night when a dinner was given for Mr. and Mrs. Shouse at the Woman's National Democratic Club, with its president, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, as hostess. And there were few "regrets" from those privileged to attend.

Among the "deserving" Democrats in the company were Senator Millard F. Tydings, Senator Robert F. Wagner, Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, Representative Mary T. Norton, Representative and Mrs. Cordell Hull, Judge John Barton Payne and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Riggs.

Indeed, even Southern Democrats are not hostile to Mr. Shouse, new chairman of the executive committee, but rather to Mr. John J. Raskob, who managed Gov. Smith's now historic campaign and who is advertised as a speaker at the banquet. Mr. Shouse himself is popular in the party and has many warm friends in Washington from his long service in Congress. Mrs. Shouse came to Washington with him and they are established at the Mayflower for the present.

Those who have visited the new offices of the Democratic committee in the National Press Building realize that there must be some truth to the contention that the party has "gone prosperous." A decorating firm has been commissioned to renovate the large and commodious suite, which is being "done" to the queen's taste—heavy carpets, curtains, rich overdrapes and Old English period furniture. The private office of the director and the conference room particularly represent the last word in captain-of-industry offices.

The debt of $1,000,000 or so, incurred during the last disastrous campaign, is reported to have been scaled down until a mere $300,000 appears in red ink.

The Woman's Democratic Club has always done much to promote party solidarity and since the campaign its whole effort has been directed toward holding Democrats together and inspiring them to work for the future.

Marchioness Belmonte Will Visit Ambassador.

The Spanish Ambassador and Senora de Padilla will have as their guests for the week-end the Marchioness Belmonte, her son, the Marques Jose Belmonte, and her daughter, Miss Matilde Belmonte, who will arrive from New York tomorrow.

The German Ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz und Gaffron entertained at luncheon yesterday in honor of Fraulein Clarenore Stinnes, who is making a round-the-world tour by motor. Fraulein Stinnes is the daughter of the late Herr Hugo Stinnes, of Germany.

The Ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz will entertain again at luncheon today informally.

The Minister of Roumania, Mr. George Cretziano, returned yesterday from New York, where he passed several days. The Minister and Mme. Jeanne Cretziano will pass most of the summer in Washington, taking motor trips to Canada and nearby resorts.

The Bishop of Washington, the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, will leave Saturday for Chapel Hill, N. C., where he will preach the baccalaureate sermon at the University of North Carolina. On Sunday Bishop Freeman will be the guest at breakfast of Josephus Daniels at the latter's residence near Chapel Hill. He will return to the Capital Monday morning.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann is the guest in whose honor Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett and Mrs. Charles Matthews entertained a company of 35 at luncheon yesterday.

Mrs. Blodgett and Mrs. Matthews will sail June 15 on the Conti Biancomano for Italy, where they will pass some time with their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. Harold E. Trower, British Consul in Capri, and Mrs. Trower. Mrs. Blodgett will return to this country in July and will go to her summer home in Michigan, but Mrs. Matthews will remain abroad through the summer.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Henry A. Wiley are passing a few days in New York at the Barclay.

The Secretary of the Roumanian Legation and Mme. Andrei Popovici sailed yesterday from Europe, where they have been for several months, and are expected to arrive in New York the middle of next week.

Governor General Davis To Leave Capital Saturday.

The newly appointed Governor General of the Philippines, Mr. Dwight F. Davis, and his daughter, Miss Alice Davis, will leave Washington Saturday and will stop a few days in St. Louis en route for Seattle, whence they will sail June 15 for Manila on the President Taft, arriving in time for the forthcoming session of the Philippine Legislature.

Last evening Representative and Mrs. Robert Low Bacon entertained at dinner for Mr. Davis and his daughter. Tonight the Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi will be hosts at dinner for the Governor General, while the First Secretary of the Danish Legation, Mr. P. O. de Treschow, will entertain for Miss Davis. Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wilkins will entertain at dinner in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Marye will start today for California and will reopen their home in Burlingame for the summer. They will be accompanied by Mrs. Marye's sister, Miss Flora Doyle, and by Miss Isabel O'Connor, who has been visiting them here and who is returning to her home in San Francisco.

Miss Rahel Davies entertained at dinner last evening for Miss Nancy Beale and her fiance, Mr. William Mann, when the other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Snow, jr., Miss Betty Beale, Miss Marion Jardine, Mrs. Churchill Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lockwood, Mr. Emmons Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper DuBose, Mr. John Sweeney, Mr. Eugene Roberts, Mr. William Beale, jr., Mr. Robert Stead and Miss Betty Brownlow.

Mr. Gutzon Borglum To Entertain Commission.

Mr. Gutzon Borglum will entertain at dinner this evening at the Willard for the members of the Rushmore Memorial Commission, who are to meet with President Hoover tomorrow afternoon to discuss plans for the great historical monument to be carved in the granite of the Black Hills of South Dakota. Mr. Borglum is to be the sculptor for this monumental work.

Mr. J. Butler Wright, United States Minister to Hungary, and Mrs. Wright are expected in Washington tomorrow. They have been at the Ambassador Hotel in New York since their arrival from Europe early this week.

Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock and her niece, Miss Dorothy Sollers, have returned to Washington from New York, where they went to attend the wedding of Miss Evelyn Fahnestock and Mr. George S. Steele.

Former Representative and Mrs. John B. Sosnowski have come, from their home in Detroit and are at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Barth to Entertain For Miss Martha Gardener.

Mrs. Charles H. Barth will entertain at luncheon tomorrow at the Chevy Chase Club for Miss Martha Gardener, whose marriage to Capt. Floyd Emerson Galloway, of the Air Corps, U. S. A., will be an event of Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Barth's guests will be 12 friends of the bride, those from out of town being Mrs. Maurice Clark, of Paris, Ky., sister of the bridegroom; Miss Jane Patton Ristine, daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Ristine; Miss Julia Robbins and Miss Anna Marcella Robbins, daughters of Col. Charles Burton Robbins, one-time Secretary of War.

Col. Robbins is to be best man for Capt. Galloway, and his daughters, who made a double debut in Washington last winter, are coming from their home at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to attend the wedding. Miss Gardener's sister, Miss Barendena Gardener, will be her only attendant.

Miss Ruth Dickinson entertained at luncheon yesterday for Miss Marion Carmichael, whose marriage to Miss Dickinson's brother, Mr. Call Dickinson, will take place Saturday. The other guests were Miss Blanche Wingo, Miss Olive McClintock, Miss Dorothy Kurtz, Miss Maitland Thompson, Miss Mildred Curran and Miss Louise Simpson.

Mrs. Robert H. C. Kelton and Mrs. George Wills left Washington Tuesday for New England, where they will remain until October.

Cosmos Club Is Rendezvous For Officials

Periodical Calls Attention to Administration's Scientific Trend.

The Cosmos Club is coming back into its own as an administration rendezvous. Attention is called to this fact, which may have escaped notice, in an article in the current Washingtonian, that "magazine of the National Capital" which is edited and published by Marian Banister (Mrs. Blair Banister), sister of Senator Carter Glass.

It goes on to tell how, since March 4, an official peregrination has set in toward the old Dolly Madison mansion in Lafayette Square, haunt of artists, scientists and savants, to which officialdom fought for admission a hundred years ago.

During the Wilson regime the Cosmos Club was practically administration headquarters, many of its leaders being men who had years before done things to make them eligible for the exclusive circle of a club which decrees that membership must be based upon achievement in arts, the sciences or letters. "Franklin K. Lane, Herbert Hoover, if you please, David F. Houston, Newton D. Baker, Charles R. Crane"—to quote the Washingtonian—"economists, college professors, sociologists—these types were common in the Wilson administration, and the Cosmos Club was their natural habitat."

When the Republicans came in, "the watchword of the administration being banking and business," the Metropolitan Club naturally succeeded the Cosmos Club as a meeting place of the administration group. It was natural to discuss prosperity, taxation, protective tariff and related subjects in a club which has been famous since its foundation for the wealth of its membership.

"Now," the article continues, "officialdom is veering back to the Cosmos Club, of which Mr. Hoover himself has long been a member. The Ray Lyman Wilbur type, the technically efficient engineering type, the Julius Klein political economist type—such men may be found in groups about the parlors or at roundtables in the dining room, at noon, still referring to the President affectionately and enthusiastically as 'chief,' just as they did before he was elevated to the White House. More than one important administration project is conceived or planned at these little gatherings, and, when no task is immediately at hand, an agreeable hour is pent in talk about the 'Chief' and what he is doing."

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hamilton McCormick-Goodhart, whose marriage took place Monday, sailed yesterday on the Berengaria for Europe. Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart was Miss Anstiss de Veau.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. W. W. Kimball will leave today to spend the summer at their home at Paris, Me. The quaint old brick house, rare in a Maine village, which looks off toward the White Mountains, was inherited by Admiral Kimball from his grandfather.

Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman entertained at dinner last evening at the Chevy Chase Club in compliment to Mrs. Harris Crist, of Brooklyn, who is visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lispenard Nicholson. Others in the company were Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Karl Klemm, Mr. William A. Scully and Mrs. John Pitcher and Mr. Herzog and Mr. Mohler, of Annapolis.

Miss Frances Virginia Waggaman will leave Washington Sunday with Commander and Mrs. Willliam McElduff, who are going to China. She will be absent until the middle of November. Commander McElduff has been on duty in Annapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gassaway Davis have leased a house at Port Washington, Long Island, where they are now established for the summer.

Mrs. Armstead Davis, who recently returned from New York, will be with her daughter, Mrs. Morton C. Hutchinson, until sailing for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Van Vechten Fay, of Chevy Chase, and their daughter, Miss Daphne Fay, will leave Sunday for Chatham, Cape Cod, to be gone until October.

Mrs. William P. Wooten, wife of Col. Wooten, entertained at luncheon yesterday for Mrs. Mark Brooke. The guests were Mrs. Edwin S. Broussard and her guest, Mrs. Wattel; Mrs. S. Wallace Dempsey, Mrs. Maurice Thatcher, Mrs. Colden L'H. Ruggles, Mrs. Guy Henry, Mrs. J. D. Miley, Mrs. John G. South, Mrs. Smith Bowman, Mrs. George Akerson, Mrs. Edwin Morrow, Mrs. Goodloe Falconer, Mrs. Winter, Mrs. Edgar Jadwin, Mrs. Charles Craig, Mrs. Kirby Smith, Mrs. Paul Gillespie, Mrs. Aristedes Moreno; Mrs. Stanley Scott, Miss Loughridge, of Kentucky; Mrs. Frank Anderson, Mrs. Thomas Slavens and Miss Hallie Brooke.

Mrs. Blaine Lipscomb will be joined at the Wardman Park Hotel the latter part of this month by her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Dresser White. Mrs. White sailed from Shanghai on Saturday and expects to arrive in Seattle about June 18. She plans to pass several months with her mother.

Lieut. White, who is now on duty in the north of China, later will go to Manila for six weeks of flying.

Mr. David Hunt Blair and Mr. David Hunt Blair, jr., will go tomorrow to High Point, N. C. They will return in ten days to the Wardman Park Hotel.

MISS ELIZABETH ARMENTROUT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Armentrout, whose marriage to Dr. Richard Wallace Wilkinson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Wilkinson, will take place on June 20.

Mrs. Mitchell Is Hostess To Mrs. Hoover

Cabinet Members' Wives Are Also Guests at Luncheon.

Mrs. Hoover was a luncheon guest yesterday of Mrs. William DeWitt Mitchell, who entertained at her home in Kalorama circle for a small group of guests asked to meet the First Lady. They were limited to such wives of Cabinet members as are in town, including Mrs. James W. Good, Mrs. Walter F. Brown, Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont and Mrs. James J. Davis. Mrs. Henry L. Stimson is in New York after a short stay in Washington and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde is at her home in Missouri.

Mrs. Hoover's uncle, Mr. Will Henry, has left the White House after a visit with the President and Mrs. Hoover.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Carpenter have returned to Carlisle, Pa., after a visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Early, at Brandywine, Md. Mrs. Carpenter is the former Miss Georgia Early. Several entertainments were given for Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter in the course of their visit.

Mrs. Russell Snow Hitchcock and her small daughters, Anne and Constance, are spending the week with her mother, Mrs. Albert Morgan Gilbert.

Mr. William Lloyd Petrikin, of Denver, Colo., is staying at the Mayflower

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Armat, who have been living at Stoneleigh Court, have taken possession of Graystone, their country place on the edge of Rock Creek Park, to remain until they go North for the summer.

Mr. Porter Adams, chairman of the executive committee of the National Aeronautic Association, who has been ill at his apartment in the Hay-Adams House for several weeks, has left Washington for his summer home at Thetford, Vt. He will remain there for the summer, but will attend the association's annual convention, which will be held at Cleveland in connection with the 1929 national air races. He will return to Washington in the fall.

Col. Samuel G. Jones will arrive tomorrow and will be the guest of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Powell Clayton, at 1906 R street northwest.

Mrs. Henry Carrier is spending a few days in New York, at the Montclair.

Mrs. Edward Everett Robbins is in New York at the Ambassador Hotel.

Confederate Veterans of Camp No. 171 are attending the Confederate reunion in Charlotte, N. C. Miss Laura Embrey has been appointed matron of honor. The other representatives are Miss Ethel Berry, official chaperon, and Miss Frances Virginia Phillips, sponsor. The maids of honor are Miss Virginia Grayson and Miss Luelle Locker.

Librarian to Address Arts Club Tomorrow.

Miss Helen Wright will be the hostess at the Arts Club dinner tomorrow evening. The speaker will be Mr. Herman H. B. Meyer, director of the legislative reference department of the Library of Congress. Mr. Meyer will tell the club members and their guests "How Members of Congress Get Their Information."

Mrs. William Marion Jardine, chairman of the hostess committee for the luncheon to be held today under auspices of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, has serving with her on the committee Mrs. Guy D. Goff, Mrs. Brewster Marwick, Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, Mrs. Wallace Radcliffe, Mrs. Merritt O. Chance, Mrs. Whitman Cross, all of Washington, and Mrs. Malvern C. Patterson and Mrs. G. H. Dorst, of Virginia.

The luncheon, which is to be held at the headquarters of the American Association of University Women at 1 o'clock, is for the purpose of organizing a Washington-Virginia branch of the association.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. White have come from their home in Grantwood, N. J., to spend some time at the Grace Dodge Hotel.

The junior class of George Washington University School of Nursing entertained the graduating class at a banquet last evening. The party was held in the Spanish garden of the Madrillon Green and white, the senior colors, predominated in the decorations.

Mrs. H. C. Robertson, of Drexel Hill, Philadelphia, has motored to Washington and is at the Grace Dodge Hotel. With her are Miss Grace W. Robertson and Miss Ida M. Robertson, also of Drexel Hill.

The weekly dinners of the Art Promoters will be resumed during June, beginning tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock, in the Playhouse Inn, 1814 N street, to be followed by the usual round-table conference. Miss Gertrude Richardson Brigham will be hostess. The subject will be "Modern Verse and Short Story Writing."

Mr. Allen C. Clark, Miss Elizabeth Clark and Mrs. William H. Winchcole will sail on Saturday on the Cameronia to spend the summer in Europe.

Mrs. Fenton Bradford has with her at the Wardman Park Hotel Mrs. Thomas Lee Woolwine, of Los Angeles.

Lady Mary Mander, of England, is at the Carlton for several days, accompanied by her daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Collins, of Quincy, Ill., are at the Powhatan.

Miss V. Louise Everhart, graduate nurse of Emergency Hospital, and Mr. Louis M. Young, ministerial student, who graduated from American University College of Liberal Arts Monday, were married last night at Union Methodist Episcopal Church.

It was a "rainbow wedding," with the five bridesmaids gowned in rainbow colors. The bride wore a costume of white satin and chiffon. The matron of honor was the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Virginia N. Colin, and the bridesmaids were Miss Katherine Garrard, Mrs. Pearl E. Sheldon, Miss Stella Everhart, Miss Margaret Johnson and Miss Elizabeth Dunn.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Stanley Everhart, of Bethesda. The best man was Mr. Roland McLaren Rice, of Glen Burnie, Md., a classmate of the groom at American University. The ushers were Mr. Clyde Williams, Mr. Gilbert McVaughn, Mr. Alden Hoage, Mr. Robert D. Sheldon and Mr. Lawrence Wright. Mr. and Mrs. Young will go to Evanston, Ill., where he will enter Garrett Biblical Institute. He also will hold the pastorate of a church.

Mrs. John D. McGee and her sister, Mrs. Mary B. Pollard, have returned to the Wardman Park Hotel from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gilmore, of Oakland, Calif., are at the Annapolis. They left Oakland May 26 on a tour and expect to conclude their trip by August 1.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, June 5.—Sailing with a number of notables as fellow passengers, Mrs. Etta Fouss and Mrs. Milton Haniine, of Washington, left for Europe late tonight in the S. S. Berengaria, bound for Cherbourg and Southampton. Before embarking, the Washington travelers said they planned to make an extended tour of the Continent, visiting the principal cities of seven countries.

EUROPE MINORITIES' RIGHTS IN BALANCE

LONG, KNOTTY QUESTION

Madrid, June 5 (A.P.).—Some fifty millions, constituting so-called minority peoples in Europe, are thinking tonight in terms of Madrid. Tomorrow the Council of the League of Nations will take up the big problem of the ways and means to assure minority populations that whenever they feel the country in which they dwell is not according them proper liberty as to race, religion and education, their complaints will receive prompt examination at the hands of the Legaue of Nations.

A special committee of the council, which exhaustively studied reform proposals submitted by Germany and Canada at the last session in Geneva, has been unable to approve a majority of them. Dr. Gustav Stresemann, the German foreign minister, consequently is expected to defend his suggestions warmly in the hope that the council will modify the committee's report radically. The belief prevailed that the committee would be ready to make concessions on some points, but will strive for acceptance of its main conclusions.

The committee rejected the German proposal that the countries directly interested in minority problems should be allowed membership on the council's committee of three which handled all minority petitions, even ruling that it should not sit in a consultative capacity.

Canadian Proposal Rejected.

The committee also disapproved of the Canadian idea to enlarge this body to fourteen, and decided that the council could not accept the responsibility of permanent surveillance of the interests of minorities, but only act when infractions of treaties were called to its attention.

Finally, it rejected the idea of having the minority committee meetings public, but, as a step toward publicity, decided that the council members should be kept in touch with results and that the league should issue reports on the number of petitions received.

The great war, which divided up Europe on new lines and especially split up the major part of the old Austro-Hungarian empire, produced political conditions whereby millions of people now are living under what is to them a foreign flag. They are entitled to the political rights of their new land, but they are also entitled to keep their old cultural and linguistic privielges.

Inquiries Called Too Slow.

Minority grievances have in the past been referred by the league council to a committee of three of the council, composed of representatives of states which have no interests whatsoever in the question at issue. This committee makes its report to the council after investigation.

But the minorities maintain that these investigations are too slow, often inadequate and give no proper place to the persons best qualified to offer their opinions on the question at issue.

The whole problem of minorities was considered at London in May by a special committee of three members of the council. They were Sir Austen Chamberlain, Senor Quinones de Leon, of Spain, and Dr. M. Adatchi, of Japan. It is the report of this committee which will be considered beginning tomorrow. The little entente countries which have minority populations are opposed to any drastic modifications in the present procedure.

Calles, Saenz Arrive In Monterey on Vacation

Washingtonian Is Elected To Exalted Shrine Office

L. P. Steuart, of Almas, Named Second Master of Imperial Council.

LEONARD P. STEUART.

Leonard P. Steuart, of Almas Temple, has been elected unanimously as imperial second ceremonial master by the Imperial Council, governing body of the Ancient, Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at Los Angeles, friends here were notified yesterday.

By stages in the last few years, Mr. Steuart, who is an outstanding business man as well as an active member of the Shrine in Washington, has been advanced from imperial outer guard to his present post, and, in all probability, will be elected imperial potentate, highest honor a member of the Shrine may win, in 1936.

Mr. Steuart served as Potentate of Almas Temple in June of 1923, when the Shrine held its national convention here with an attendance of about 100,000. He was credited with being largely responsible for obtaining the mammoth meeting for the National Capital.

Mr. Steuart's Masonic connections here include membership in the Washington Centennial Lodge, F. A. A. M., of which he is a former master; Adoniram Council, Royal and Select Masters; Orient Commandery, Knights Templar; Albert Pike Consistory, the Kallipolis Grotto, and the Layfayette Chapter, Royal Arch Masons.

Man Dies of Shot Fired by Stepson

Marylander Is Attacked as He Attempts to Reconcile Estranged Wife.

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Foyal, Va., June 5.—Dan Jenkins, Hagerstown, Md., died at the Winchester, Va., Memorial Hospital this morning from wounds received when he was shot here yesterday by his stepson, William Kidwell, an enlisted man at the Front Royal Remount Depot.

The shooting, at Kidwell's home, is said to have occurred as a culmination to Jenkins' repeated efforts to induce his wife, Kidwell's mother, to return with him to Hagerstown. They had been separated for some time and Kidwell is said to have warned Jenkins to stay away from his home.

Kidwell was arrested following the shooting and placed in jail here. He will be given a hearing tomorrow before Justice of the Peace P. V. Leach.

Guaranty Trust Co. Directors Cut Big Melon

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Directors of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York today proposed an offer of 200,000 additional shares of stock to stockholders at $500 a share, which, on the basis of present market quotations, is equivalent to cutting a melon of nearly $90,000,000.

11 Killed, 13 Are Hurt As War Stocks Explode

Udine, Italy, June 5 (A.P.).—Eleven workmen were killed and thirteen injured in an explosion today at a warehouse filled with war stocks in the village of Tauriano, near Spilimbergo. Of the thirteen injured six were in a serious condition. The cause of the explosion was not known.

Violent Quake Again Shakes Philipopolis

Sofia, Bulgaria, June 5 (A.P.).—A violent earthquake occurred today in Philipopolis. The population was panic-stricken, fearing a recurrence of the disaster in the summer of 1928, which claimed a heavy toll of lives.

No word has been received as to whether there was loss of life or material damage from today's visitation.

Boy Slayer Faces Delinquency Count

Law Forbids Criminal Action Against 9-Year- Old Jimmy Harrison.

Springfield, Ill., June 5 (U.P.).—While 9-year-old Jimmy Harrison, accused of slaying two children, went back to his toys and comic papers at a detention home, a petition asking that he be declared a delinquent was filed in Sangamon County juvenile court today.

No criminal action can be taken against Jimmy, who yesterday testified at a coroner's inquest that "the gun just went off" in telling of the scuffle in an alley in which Norman Reese Conwill, 16-year-old high school student, was killed.

Five years ago the little boy set fire to the clothing of Robert Endres, 21-month-old baby. The infant died from the burns.

County Judge O. B. Irwin, who presided over the juvenile court, set the hearing on the petition for Friday.

Detroit Will Ban Play Written by Mae West

Detroit, June 5 (A.P.).—After receiving a police report which condemned as "silly and stupid" the play "Diamond Lil," now being shown at the Shubert-Detroit Theater, starring the author, Mae West, city authorities today gave the management until Sunday to close the Detroit showing of the production.

This decision was reached after a conference between Mayor John C. Lodge, Nathaniel H. Goldstick, corporation counsel, and James Sprott, superintendent of police.

WEST VIRGINIAN WINS HIGH POST IN SHRINE

Imperial Council, at Los Angeles, Elects W. S. Sudgen Outer Guard.

CONVENTION ENDS TODAY

Los Angeles, Calif., June 5 (A.P.).—After electing Walter S. Sudgen, Osiris Temple, Wheeling, W. Va., to the post of outer guard, the Imperial Council of the Ancient Arabic Order, the main body of Shriners, in convention here, went on a sightseeing tour of southern California. The election was the principal business of today's session.

The successful candidate a past potentate of his temple and prominent in Shrine affairs for a score of years, defeated three other leading nominees—A. D. Rahn, of Zuhrah Temple, Minneapolis; Ernest C. Hueter, Islam Temple, San Francisco, and J. T. Fields, El Hasa Temple Ashland, Ky.

The council, which is composed of thirteen officers, makes a contest only of its lowest post, the outer guard. The remaining offices, with the exception of the imperial treasurer and imperial reporter, progress to the next office above each year with the retirement of the imperial potentate.

Leo V. Youngworth, deputy imperial potentate, Al Malaikah Temple, Los Angeles, succeeds Imperial Potentate Frank C. Jones, of Arabia Temple, Houston, Tex.

Individual donations of $165,000 toward the Shrine hospitals for crippled children were announced by the board of trustees. A recommendation to the Imperial Council that $600,000 additional appropriations for the extension of hospital facilities be added to the $1,250,000 annual appropriation was made by the trustees.

They pointed out that the hospital program was at its peak and emphasized the need for further appropriation.

The council adjourned after the elections to join the main body of Shriners in a sightseeing tour of southern California, while another large group attended the "Circus Maximu" at the Coliseum.

The last mass parade was the feature tonight, and tomorrow, at the closing meeting of the council, the 1930 convention city will be selected from a list including Toronto, Canada; Minneapolis and Atlantic City.

Forest Fire Trails Fleeing Canadians

Men, Women and Children Seek to Escape Flames in Lakes.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, June 5 (U.P.).—With only dry brush and forest in their path, flames today swept across the northern sections of Manitoba destroying homes and driving men, women and children into the waters of nearby streams to escape.

At Cranberry Portage, a settlement which has yet to celebrate its first birthday, more than 1,000 persons were driven from their homes into Lake Athapapuskow, where hastily constructed rafts were used to get away from the flames.

No fatalities have been reported. Thousands have been made homeless and supplies in the frontier settlements have been destroyed, making it necessary to rush food and clothing to the destitute settlers by airplane.

Mile 83, another settlement, was next to be wiped out. By a strange paradox this town, however, escaped the forest fires, but fell prey to a fire which started in a private residence.

A dry spring followed by a period of rainless weather dried out the forests, making ready fuel for the flames.

Swiss Chamber Approves Kellogg Pact.

Berne, Switzerland, June 5 (A.P.).—The second Chamber of the National Council today voted approval of Switzerland's adherence to the Kellogg renunciation of war pact. There were only two adverse votes.

A Draught of the Gods

WHAT potent magic is present in health-giving waters such as those of Virginia Hot Springs? What causes them to renew energy and vitality, like an elixir of the gods?

Science can analyze the spa waters but not the mystery of their curative powers. So thousands of men and women, worn out by the strain of business and social life, attest that "the cure" at The Homestead fills them with new vigor. Physicians from all over the United States send patients here in ever increasing numbers—especially those inclined toward rheumatism or gout.

Partly, the phenomenon is understood. The heavy mineral salts in the springs causes the blood to flow more forcefully to the heart, relieving its work and speeding up the circulation. The waters must be used immediately as they leave the earth—warmly spouting from showers, splashing over tubs—before long contact with the air lessens their power. Skilled physicians at The Homestead prescribe special hydro-therapeutic and other treatments for those who desire them.

And for the guests who come here for a thoroughly wonderful time, there is almost every kind of outdoor sport. Three golf courses—nine marvelous tennis courts—two hundred saddle horses—await their pleasure. Sunny porches and secluded walks beckon to those who prefer quiet relaxation. Evening, the Crystal Room is gay with the lovers of superb dance music. All these help to make this hotel one of the foremost in the country.

A stay at The Homestead! Indeed a draught of the gods—a physical and mental elixir. An interesting booklet upon request.

Atlantic City Program on Air Tonight

Noted Concert Artists Will Be Heard — Murder Mystery on WMAL; Children's Hour on WJSV at 7:30 P. M.

Talks and entertainment at a public policy committee session, to be held by the National Electric Light Association in Atlantic City as part of its fifty-second convention in progress there, will be broadcast direct from the new Municipal Auditorium over WRC and a national network of stations.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be the principal speaker. An elaborate entertainment by noted concert artists will include solos by Frieda Hempel, soprano; Albert Spalding, American violinist, and modern compositions by B. A. Rolfe and his symphonic jazz orchestra.

The program is scheduled to last from 9:30 to 11 oclock, Eastern standard time.

Solvejg's song from Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite" will be sung by Jessica Dragonette, soprano, as a solo feature of the broadcast by the Hoover Sentinels at 7:30 o'clock.

Characteristic numbers by the male quartet and the concert orchestra, under the direction of Louis Katzmann, will also be heard in the following program:

"Vagabond Lover," orchestra; "Peace of Mind," orchestra; "I've a Feeling I'm Falling," Sentinels; "Old Fashioned Yesterdays," orchestra; "Bird Songs at Eventide," Jessica Dragonette; "In the Gloaming," Jessica Dragonette and Sentinels, and "Why Can't You?" orchestra.

Featuring the program by the Selberling Singers at 8 o'clock will be a new arrangement of Romberg's "Lover, Come Back to Me," transcribed by Frank Black for the singing violins. James Melton, tenor, will sing Tosti's "Goodby."

The comments of the "Old Counsellor" during the Halsey-Stuart period will be heard with musical interludes by an orchestra presenting the following program:

"Morena y Sevillana," Maduro; "Roses of Picardy," "Moon Maid," "Jealousy Tango" and Friml's "Chansonette."

The United States Navy Band, conducted by Lieut. Charles Benter, will be heard in an hour's concert at 3 o'clock this afternoon, from WRC.

"What a Spot for a Murder" is the subject of the True Detective Mysteries at 8 o'clock from WMAL. This story concerns the case of the heiress of California's olive king, Charles P. Grogan, of Los Angeles. The murder was both horrible and ingenious, and it was Eddie King, special investigator for the District Attorney's office, who was finally able to solve this difficult case.

Duane Sawyer's Saxophone Concert Band will be featured from WMAL at 9:30 o'clock, followed by two dance orchestras.

"The Coming Vesper Flag Service in Washington" will be the subject of a ten-minute talk by Floyd Williamson, of the United States Flag Association, at 7:05 o'clock.

Toscha Seidel, violinist, will be the guest artist in a new series of programs to be known as "Around the World With Libby" from WJZ and WBAL at 10 o'clock tonight. Claude MacArthur will be the conductor of a 27-piece orchestra to be heard during this hour.

A short program by the National Theater Players will be presented from WOL at 6:30 o'clock. Florence Jane Adams, impersonator, and "Amos 'n' Andy" will be heard also.

The station will broadcast a Variety Hour at 9 o'clock this morning, followed by a household chat by Peggy Clarke, a health talk by Florence Johnson and the helpful hints to parents broadcast.

Walter Holt will be heard in a short recital from WJSV at 9 o'clock, followed by Howard Jones. Both are new to the station's audience.

The Children's Hour is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock tonight.

© VOGUE

WHETHER you spend your holidays in the cool fastnesses of the mountains or in the brilliant whirl of the seashore, you will find yourself suitably and comfortably clad in the costume illustrated here. It expresses the very spirit of summer through its cool fabric and nonchalant air. The one-piece frock is of tussur. It is sleeveless, its skirt is pleated, and, if the occasion should arise, it would serve well on the tennis court. The little jacket that accompanies it uses silk crepe printed in brown-and-white checks for its very smart fabric, and its extreme simplicity of line is a valuable point. The hat that complements the costume so perfectly is of medium size—just as it should be. Natural bangkok and a brown grosgrain ribbon give it further charm. Certainly, the young lady on the hilltop looks chic, cool and comfortable! (Vogue Design Ensemble No. 9747.)

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

NO BATHTUBS FOR BABIES.

RECENTLY S. L. R. wrote asking if there was no bathtub made especially for babies. She was a tired, overworked mother. She wanted to bathe her baby daily, but she did not want to drown him. When her baby had finished his matutinal ablution and she her daily job, she was hot and worn out and her back ached.

In reply to this mother's request a multitude of replies came in, but none from manufacturers or dealers in bathtubs. All related to technique and none to tubs.

Let us begin with a contribution from a mere male. A bachelor writes: "A meshed cord netting fastened to the side of a baby bathtub might serve to lay the baby on." Will some other bachelor agree to sew the buttons on the tub?

H. A. S. writes us that her baby is a wriggler and can't be held. She puts "a bath towel in the bottom of my large bathtub and covers it with a diaper." The drain from the tub is left open. A spray is turned on the baby. The water is never more than an inch deep in the tub. She kneels on the floor. The water does not enter the baby's ears. "He likes it, it takes no time, and neither of us is the least bit hot or bothered."

Mrs. R. Z. rolls two large bath towels and uses them as a pillow in the tub. She wraps the baby in another towel before putting him in the tub. This keeps him from slipping. The pillow keeps the water out of his ears. Well Wisher uses a large, white, oval shaped enameled dish pan. This is set on a firm, square stool, the height of a chair.

L. S. V. S. folds a bath towel and places it in the bottom of the tub. She supports the baby's head and back with her left arm. Mrs. O. B. K. places the tub on the kitchen table and sits on a kitchen stool. She uses towels as a pillow and as a tub lining, just as Mrs. R. Z. does. Mrs. A. W. K. likewise follows the method of placing a towel on the bottom of the tub and using rolled towels as a pillow.

Mrs. R. B. R.'s method is as follows: The water in the tub is only one to three inches deep. The baby is laid flat on his back in the water. "There are no bad effects on the ears. Both my babies learned to splash and play in perfect freedom in the tub. They loved their bath."

HOW TO STOP BUNIONS.

M. B. H. writes: What would you suggest to stop young bunions from growing larger?

REPLY.

N.B.C. to Get Amos, Andy Report Says

Comedian Team Purchased for $100,000 From WMAQ, It Is Said; Radio Program Conducted by Steel Framework.

The National Broadcasting Co. is reported to have paid Station WMAQ, Chicago, $100,000 for the release of "Amos 'n' Andy," Charles J. Correll and Freeman F. Gosden, the radio comedy team, according to Variety. This feature is now being heard locally via phonograph records from Station WOL.

This is said to be the highest price paid by one organization to another for the release of a single act. The National Broadcasting Co. signed the team to a contract two months or so ago, to begin upon expiration of their agreement with Station WMAQ, but in the meantime the deal for their immediate release is said to have been consummated.

Correll and Gosden had their first radio tryout at WEBH, Chicago, in a "song and chatter" act, and were given a job singing one night a week, without salary. During the latter part of 1925 they were offered a staff position on WGN. It was here they developed "Sam 'n' Henry," known as the radio comic strip.

They stayed with WGN for two years and then thought out the "chainless chain" idea. This means that they prepared their material five or six weeks in advance, recorded it electrically, then syndicated the records to independent stations throughout the country. Station WMAQ was willing to take the boys, along with their idea, so upon expiration of their contract with WGN they signed with WMAQ as "Amos 'n' Andy," the former station having owned the "Sam 'n' Henry" title.

Their broadcasts are in story form and they often derive two or three months' material from one incident, notably the purchase of an imaginary taxicab. Also "Amos 'n' Andy" act all the various characters which they present. It is said that there has never been a third voice in the act.

While the National Broadcasting Co. has not yet announced its plans for the team, it is probable they will be heard here from station WRC.

A new system of conducting radio programs from a receiving center to the rooms of hotels or other large buildings through the steel framework of the building instead of by special wire networks was demonstrated in a New York Hotel recently by Dr. F. L. R. Satterlee.

The system operated successfully when a small receiving set, containing two radio tubes, a coil or two of wire and a loud-speaker, was placed aboard a steel elevator in the hotel and was carried several times from the top to the bottom of the building. The operator of the device plugged into a lamp socket in the elevator for his power and successively tuned in five New York stations, whose impulses were circulating in the steel girders.

The centralized receiving point in the hotel, located on the twenty-eighth floor, consists of six receivers intercepting six programs through the same antenna wire. The energy then passes to a series of radio oscillators, which are in turn connected with the steel framework of the building. The receiver boxes in the rooms, when plugged into the lighting system of the hotel, will bring in any one of the six programs inductively through the operation of a dial. The sets are to be made available for renting at the hotel desk or for delivery to rooms like any other commodity desired by hotel patrons.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

June 6.

ONE of the best-known American authors of the Nineteenth Century, Catherine Anne Warfield, was born this day, 1816, in Natchez, Miss. In 1834, with her sister, Eleanor Percy Ware Lee, she published "The Wife of Leon, and Other Poems by Two Sisters of the West." Encouraged by the success of the work, they put forth "The Indian Chambers."

Names of her novels which will be familiar to many readers of that era include "The Cardinal's Daughter," "Ferne Fleming," "Sea and Shore," "Lady Ernestine," "Hester Harvard's Temptation," "A Double Wedding," "William Montfort," "Romance of the Green Seal," "Beauseincart," and "The Household of Bouverie."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

BROTHERING WITH JONAH.

Jonah was swallowed by a whale,
So runs the ancient Bible tale
And later cast upon the shore
To face the tasks of life once more.

How many, many times I've smiled
To hear this story as a child,
This ancient epic of the sea
And wondered could it really be.

Yet I, like Jonah, have been swayed
From duty's pathway, much afraid
And swallowed by strange notions, too,
Seeking an easier task to do.

I've been gulped whole by fancies weird!
I have been lost and reappeared
Once more to find my duty plain;
To laugh with men and work again.

Perhaps false teachings swallow men
Later to cast them out again,
At least that's how I read the tale
Concerning Jonah and the whale.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

"Majestic," a stately evening coat of black satin, with huge sleeves of pink velvet, with silver embroidery and white fur. Just almost too lovely to be real. (Courtesy of Jean Magnin, Paris.)

THE outfit we are going to tell you about today emphasises two interesting notes in the mode. One is the cowl-like fashion of draping a bodice, so that it falls into a series of graceful folds below the circular neckline, something like sonny boy's bib when it is tied on rather loosely. The other is the gradual but inevitable return of the three-piece outfit with its washable blouse.

This latter item should be highly pleasing to the girl who works, for none of our one-piece frocks have equalled in practicality the blouse and skirt. Some Paris houses achieve the higher waist line by using the tucking blouse, but that which we are going to describe for you today is not of that genre.

It is of white crepe de chine and black satin. The upper part of the jumper is of white and the dividing line between it and the black runs across the blouse diagonally, so that the lower part of one sleeve and a diagonal part of the jumper on that side are of black, as is the skirt. Paralleling this dividing line are placed a dozen or fifteen lines of green stitching on the white material. The jumper is faced in the same green and the cowl-like draping permits this to show at the neck line.

The sleeves are very long and very tight to the wrist, where they flare discreetly. The hemline of the skirt is rather uneven, with a diagonal panel somewhat longer.

Tiny tots are types, too, depending upon the color of the eyes and hair. And upon these colors should depend the colors you select for them to wear, the while you are teaching them these things.

We have prepared a leaflet telling you all the types of youngsters there are, and just what colors belong to each as well as what colors you should put on them. Better send your stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet—it is sure to be helpful some day if not now!

Also you will be well repaid if you look for the weekly fashion letter in The Sunday Post.

Myths of Olden Times.

V. PANDORA CUTS UP.

YESTERDAY we had the Greek story of the making of the first man, and of how Prometheus rose to Heaven to obtain fire for mankind.

While Prometheus was chained to the rock, his brother, Epimetheus, received a visit from a very interesting person—the first woman.

Pandora Grew Curious.

The first woman, the Greeks said, was made in Heaven and bore the name of Pandora. That name meant "all gifted." When she was made, each god gave her a different gift. Aphrodite gave her beauty, Apollo gave her musical talent, and others gave her further gifts.

As to what happened to Pandora after she reached the earth, the Greeks did not agree. Some of them declared that she brought with her a box containing presents from the gods. She was not supposed to open it, but she did so—and away flew the blessings, all except Hope, which remained for her to use as a comfort to man.

Other Greeks said that she opened a container of some sort, but that it was the property of Epimetheus. Into it he had placed all sorts of evil things—sickness, envy, spite, revenge.

Pandora was warned not to touch the container, but she grew curious; and curiosity got the better of her. She wanted to see what was inside, and lifted the lid. Out flew the evil things, the troubles which have ever since caused hardship to men.

You may take your choice of those stories. Neither of them is true; and neither is a very good story. It is a mistake to blame women for losing the blessings or for setting loose the troubles of the world.

Both men and women have had a share in making the troubles of the earth. They have also shared in building the great things which the human race has won.

Sometimes curiosity is bad, but it may also be good. James Watt was curious to find out what steam could do in a different kind of machine than the steam pump which was shown to him. His "curiosity" helped the world.

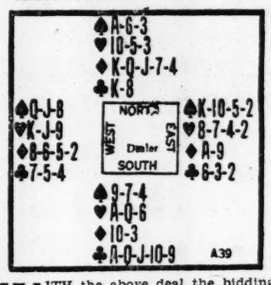
WORK'S BRIDGE

MISPLAYED HANDS I HAVE MET.



WITH the above deal the bidding at Auction Bridge would be: South one Club, West pass, North one No Trump which would obtain the contract.

At Contract Bridge South would bid one Club, West would pass, and North would have a reasonably close choice between bidding two No Trumps and two Diamonds (in either case he would bid two to show strength and to urge South to continue the bidding). North's King of Clubs assure him that South has side strength for his Club bid, North has two other suits stopped and a count of 13; so two No Trumps would be thoroughly justified and more apt to lead to game. North's choice is immaterial, however, because if he bid two No Trump, South will bid three; if he bid two Diamonds, South will bid three Clubs, and North then would bid three No Trumps.

With North, No Trump Declarer, East led a Spade. North held up his Ace until the third round to keep East from making his thirteenth Spade if East did not hold the Ace of Diamonds. North led the King of Clubs to trick 4 and followed with the Eight, cashing all dummy's Club tricks. This gave him a total of six tricks and he next led the Ten of Diamonds from dummy, which won. East, who has discarded two small Hearts on the last two Clubs, held up the Ace of Diamonds until the second round. East then cashed his good Spade, giving the adversaries four tricks, and next led a Heart. As South had no Diamond to lead, he finessed. Of course West won the trick and that being their fifth, the adversaries saved the game.

How should the hand have been played?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Declarer was perfectly right in holding up the Spade until the third round, but after that should have established his Diamonds before running Clubs. In this way, keeping the King of Clubs in the dummy as an entry for the Diamonds, he must win a minimum of nine tricks. All that the adversaries can take is three Spades and one Diamond. With the Diamonds and Clubs both established, Declarer would not finesse a Heart.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

Marie Prevost, who has been off the screen for some months—now don't tell me you haven't missed her—returns in support of William Boyd in "The Flying Fool," and takes full advantage of the opportunity to be heard.

Cast as a cabaret entertainer, she will be heard singing "If I Had My Way" and "I'm That Way About Baby," both lilting lullabies written especially for the picture.

Miss Prevost has come up through the movies from the old Mack Sennett bathing beauty days to the present eloquent era of the garrulous gelatines, and has, in the large view, clicked at every step along the way.

In private life—the last I heard—she is Mrs. Kenneth Harlan.

Speaking of such, the Gilbert-Claire and the Talmadge-Netcher weddings, coming almost on top of each other in Hollywood recently, gave Kid Cupid all the best of it. There wasn't any divorce in the movie colony either day of sufficient importance to steal the show away from the wedding!

An unprecedented condition prevails in the local motion-picture houses. Contrary to the custom of all previous summer seasons, with the possible single exception of last, there has been no abatement in the high quality of dialogue and sound pictures to be found in the representative first-run, downtown houses and patronage has clung to the high mark of the mid-winter season.

The "Fox Movietone Follies" passed the $30,000 mark on the week, and other similar attractions are in sight to maintain the extraordinary level.

Foremost among these will be "On With the Show," the Warner Brothers' latest achievement—a complete musical extravaganza executed not only in sound, dialogue, song and dance, but throughout its length in natural colors as well. This amazing production has been no less than a sensation since its opening performance on Broadway, in New York, and its premiere in Los Angeles.

It will occupy the screen at the Metropolitan Theater following the engagement of "The Gamblers," a camera adaptation of the stage success by the late Charles Klein, in which the principal roles will be played by H. B. Warner, Lois Wilson and Johnny Arthur. "The Gamblers," as I understand it, is booked in to follow the current presentation of "Noah's Ark," which makes "On With the Show" the feature-afternext at Tenth and F.

This brings to mind the prevalence of an erroneous impression on the part of the public with regard to another Stanley-Crandall house. It seems to be the notion of a considerable number of usually informed fans that the midnight premieres that have been celebrated at the Earle throughout the winter will be abandoned with the coming of hot weather.

This, I am told, is not the case. It is the view of Supervisor Payette and his associates that the Friday midnight performances will increase in popularity as the functioning of the refrigerating plant has an opportunity to assert its true value with the arrival of high temperatures outdoors.

At any rate, the midnight premieres will not be discontinued.

Beginning Saturday the Strand Theater will offer a new type of bill for a motion picture theater. Combined with a lecture by Prof. A. H. Gallacher, of Glasgow, on "Love Life," illustrated by medical charts and living models, will be "The River Woman," a screen play co-starring Lionel Barrymore and Jacqueline Logan. Segregated audiences will be the rule, according to the preliminary announcements that come to my desk.

Next week's attractions, unless last-minute substitutions are made—as is not infrequently the case—will be more or less like this: Earle, Billie Dove in "Careers," her first dialogue picture; Palace, William Haines and Josephine Dunn in "A Man's Man;" Fox, May McAvoy in "Stolen Kisses," a Vitaphone talker; Rialto, Norton Downey in "Mother's Boy," with Beryl Mercer cast in the role of the mother; Metropolitan, a continuation of the run of the stupendous spectacle of "Noah's Ark," with Dolores Costello, George O'Brien, Noah Beery and Guinn Williams; Columbia, Eddie Dowling and Marian Nixon in "The Rainbow Man;" Little, a second week of the picturized version of the Hauptmann play, "The Weavers," with Paul Wegener, and at the Strand the odd combination bill already mentioned.

A postcard mailed en route advises me that Fred Starke, formerly associate musical conductor at the Metropolitan, Earle and Fox Theaters in this city, accompanied by Mrs. Starke, is on his way to California.

Would anyone care to join me on a jaunt to Hains Point?

What Today Means to You

June 6.

"GEMINI."

IF JUNE 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 8:40 p. m. to 9:30 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to 12 midnight; the danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., and from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.

The state of mind on June 6 will be erratic and very discontented, due to the instability of the astrological forces influencing your life. It will be your attitude toward people, conditions and things that will be wrong, and not these factors themselves.

Children born on this day will desire to have their own way, and will have to learn through training to bow gracefully to the wishes of others, and to outgrow their selfishness. They will be nervous and restless, and will need proper diet, rest and exercise in order to maintain their health.

Your adaptability is one of your outstanding characteristics, and it is to this particular trait, more than to any special talent, that you owe your success or happiness. It is easy for you to get along with other people, because you accommodate yourself to the other person's point of view. Your community and cooperative spirit is well developed. You are able to believe in the good work of the folk you necessarily do not like. You always give praise where it is warranted and you are chary with your adverse criticisms.

Women born on June 6 will be the inspiration and guiding star to the companion who is fortunate enough to hitch his wagon thereto. They will love their men whether they are beaten to the dust or scaling Olympus in search of fame. Men born on this date will be old-fashioned family men, with a deep reverence for the sanctity of a home, and they will work hard to keep their home fires burning brightly. You are not a talkative being, but a sympathetic listener, and an understanding person. You know far more than you pretend to know. You are a wise onlooker, and a cautious talker and actor.

In your quiet way you absorb considerable knowledge, which you do not use in vain display, but in your everyday work.

Successful people born June 6: Nathan Hale, revolutionary soldier; John Trumbull, soldier; Samuel P. Newman, clergyman; Catherine A. Warfield, poet and author; Henry Mosler, artist; Bruno Oscar Klein, composer.

Pierce Mansion May Be Shrine.

Hillsborough, N. H., June 6 (U.P.).—Plans are being made for the establishment of the Pierce mansion here as an historical shrine. The birthplace of Franklin Pierce, only resident of New Hampshire ever elected President of the United States, was built in 1804. One room, known as the council chamber, remains today just as it was more than 100 years ago.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE DEBT SETTLEMENT.

Thirty-seven more annual payments and Germany owns the war. The debt pact parley appears to be near an end for this season at least, and the Germans will pay $9,000,000,000 on the Owen Young deferred payment plan.

• • • •

It took a lot of argument, Germany contending right along that the war she got was a bigger size than the one she ordered and that she just couldn't be expected to settle for it in accordance with the price quoted on the tag. The Allies, on the contrary, insisted that the war was made to Germany's measure and that it was a perfect fit.

• • • •

To understand just what has been going on, the reader must have the history of the offers and counteroffers. First the allies asked a complete settlement for the war. Germany countered with a proposal that she would pay for the first two years of the war. This part of the war was the only part she found satisfactory. The third year wasn't much good, and the fourth year was so bad she wouldn't have taken it even to please a friend.

• • • •

"We'll each pay for the half we like," said Schacht.

This proposition rejected, the Germans offered to settle on the following basis:

$1,000,000,000 in cigarette and cigar coupons.

$2,750,000,000 in old newspapers, bottles, shoes and abandoned Ford bodies

$3,000,000 in Rhine wine and seltzer

• • • •

The Allies agreed to accept the Rhine wine but made the following demand:

$4,000,000,000 reparations for the losses sustained by Allied troops at "craps" and "red dog."

$2,678,000,000 to reimburse the Allies for money expended for taxicabs, dinners, music and flowers.

• • • •

Mr. Schacht, jumping onto a table and crying "All right, sue me!" then countered with a proposal that both sides forgive and forget, on an agreement by Germany to keep all pictures of the former kaiser at Doorn out of the rotogravure sections for the next 50 years.

This one clause with regard to the former kaiser made a big hit with the allies, and for a time they were for accepting. After an all-night session, however, Mr. Young, speaking for the allies, said they had definitely settled on $18,000,000,000 and would prefer to take it in Pilsener beer.

With their beer reserves threatened, Germany came around pretty fast.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug-store.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

NATIONAL.

Not since the original company played "The Girl of the Golden West" in Washington way back in 1907, have theatergoers of this city had an opportunity to witness the greatest play that ever came from the pen of David Belasco. It will be reproduced by the National Theater Players for the week beginning Monday, June 10, with all the glamour of the old West, when the gold rush was on in California, in the days of '49. It was this background that David Belasco used in a play that has been called "the idealization of California."

A Californian by birth, Belasco in his romantic past had seen enacted in everyday life some of the startlingly melodramatic aspects contained in "The Girl of the Golden West." One of these, hailed by critics as an outlandish piece of imagination, but nevertheless "straight theater," was taken from real life—that is, the scene where the sheriff, having tracked a road agent, or "stick-up man" to the Polka Saloon, discovers the presence of the man hidden in a loft by a tell-tale drop of blood that falls on a gauntlet. Critics have placed their wreaths upon the brow of "The Girl of the Golden West." It has been labeled by historians of the theater as one of the finest pieces of melodrama ever produced on the American stage. Its title will be indelibly associated with memories of three great stage stars, Blanche Bates as "the girl," Frank Keenan as the sheriff and Robert Hillyard as the road agent. Other names now famous in the theater were on the original play bill.

The National Theater Players, in reviving this Belasco masterpiece, have the approval of the author himself and, under the direction of Addison Pitt, hope to capture the spirit of the play as originally produced. There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

MARSHALL HALL.

To those who want to spend the Sunday away from home Marshall Hall offers the only river resort from Washington within an hour's boat ride. Situated about 17 miles down the historic Potomac, and just opposite Mount Vernon, this popular playground, with its many sand piles, slides, seesaws and other devices to amuse the kiddies, is catering to more and more Washingtonians every season. The steamer Charles Macalester leaves the Seventh Street wharf every week-day at 10 a. m., 2:30 and 6:45 p. m., and on Sunday the morning trip is delayed a half-hour.

GLEN ECHO PARK.

As rare as that poetic day in June is the day that does not see a goodly crowd at Glen Echo Park sampling the fun and frolic devices, of which there are more than 50 at the popular Maryland resort. The big Coaster Dip is the grand mogul of amusements, and is playing to "capacity audiences;" the Derby Racer, as well as the Airplane Swing are the next two amusements giving the most thrills, while pure unadulterated fun may be had in dozens of different places, such as the Old Mill, the Carrousel, the Midway, the Scooters, Caterpillar, &c. The grounds are all beautified, benches have been installed at convenient points, and the entire place made inviting. Because of the many convenient refreshment stands throughout the park, where everything is sold at city prices, many find it unnecessary to be burdened with lunch paraphernalia.

Now more than a MILLION FRIGIDAIRES have been built

With every department of the Frigidaire factories running at maximum capacity, with orders greater than at any time in the history of the business, on Thursday, May 16, the Millionth Frigidaire was built

In both the Household and Commercial fields Frigidaire leads in sales to customers

There are definite reasons why more Frigidaires are in use than all other makes of electric refrigerators combined; why it is the choice of home owners, of builders, of apartment owners, of architects and engineers, the choice of factories, railroads and steamship lines, the choice of hospitals, restaurants, hotels and florists, the choice of ice cream companies and soda fountain manufacturers.

Frigidaire is dependable. Everybody knows that. Years of use in hundreds of thousands of homes and stores have proved it.

Beauty, power and convenience

Frigidaire has surplus power that meets every emergency in the hottest weather, and yet operates economically always.

All Frigidaire household cabinets are beautiful in design. They are finished in gleaming porcelain enamel, or white Duco...clean and easy to keep clean. The mechanical part is completely enclosed and so quiet that you don't hear it start, stop, or run. Food shelves are elevated so that stooping is unnecessary.

Equipped with the famous "Cold Control"

And in addition to the standard temperature regulator which automatically maintains an ideal temperature in the food compartment, Frigidaire is equipped with the famous "Cold Control" that speeds the freezing of ice cubes and makes possible dozens of new and delicious desserts and salads.

It is these definite advantages, these Frigidaire features, that have made Frigidaire the choice of buyers throughout the world.

It is these features that you will want when you buy an automatic refrigerator.

Low Prices

Because Frigidaire has achieved the million mark . . . because it is the overwhelming choice of the majority . . . the economies of quantity production have made prices so low that every model is an outstanding value and represents a tremendous saving to the buyer.

only $195

complete, delivered and operating in your home

A cabinet which adds beauty to any kitchen . . . all machinery completely enclosed . . . a permanent Duco finish . . . and with the added value of a seamless porcelain enamel lining, as easy to clean as chinaware . . . 4 cubic feet food compartment; 8 square feet of shelf space . . . equipped with the famous "Cold Control."

STOCK PRICES REACT AFTER SHORT RALLY

FEW GROUPS HOLD GAINS

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Prices again faltered on the stock market today, after having rallied for several days from the low levels reached last week. The technical position of the market appeared to have been weakened by completion of short covering, and operators for the advance hastened to take profits. Operations were again almost entirely professional, with total sales of but 3,343,860 shares, slightly less than yesterday's turnover.

Call money held at 7 per cent all day, but time money was slightly easier, with some 30-day money loaning at 8¼ per cent. This was interpreted as indicating that bankers are looking for more comfortable credit conditions, with reduced stock market requirements, despite the heavy requirement for new financing and tax payments.

Renewed attacks upon the stock market in Congress, however, were somewhat unsettling, and a meeting of the Federal Reserve Board with Governor Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank; Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank, and other New York Reserve directors, caused renewed uncertainty. The more bullish element, however, was inclined to regard the meeting as indicating a change of Reserve policy, conceivably in the direction of lightening its pressure upon the banks, in view of the recent improvement in money conditions.

Boston Bank Rate Stands.

The Boston Federal Reserve Bank made no change in its rediscount rate, and Wall street does not feel the misgivings over a possible change in the New York rate tomorrow that it has felt in previous weeks. With a renewed flow of gold from London, it is thought that is higher discount rate at the Bank of England would precede a higher rate at New York, and no action at London is regarded as likely before the new government comes into power.

Outside of the new downturn in wheat there was little in the day's news to influence the market. The weekly steel trade reviews stressed the maintenance of ingot production near capacity, American Metal Market stating "the steel industry remains under pressure to make deliveries and is producing substantially as much steel as possible." Private estimates of United States Steel's unfilled tonnage, as of May 31, to be announced next week, however, indicated a possible drop of 150,000 tons. The Guaranty Trust Co. cut a $90,000,000 melon through the offer of rights.

Copper, food, motor and some of the utility shares sold substantially higher during the major part of the session. Auburn jumped 8 points to a new peak, only to fall back about 6 from the top. Coca Cola, Fleischmann, Royal Baking and National Biscuit made fair gains. The last jumping about 7 points.

Merchandising List Irregular.

Merchandising shares were irregular, Safeway Stores making an extreme gain of about 7 points while Woolworth and Montgomery Ward dropped 3 and 4 points. Case Threshing mounted 10 points, then lost its gain. Motor Products sold up 9½ points, regaining yesterday's loss, and General Cable A rose more than 8 points. Otis Elevator jumped 7 points to a new top, reflecting the upturn in building contracts last week.

Oils were generally inclined to heaviness, although Transcontinental was well bought on reports of refinancing and the entrance of new interests into the company.

Some of the utilities encountered profit-taking, but Commonwealth Power jumped about 13 points to another new high, in sympathy with heavy buying of Commonwealth and Southern, and Public Service of New Jersey mounted 3 points. The Associated Press index of twenty utilities was again carried to a new peak.

Important Issues Fall Back.

American Can, Atchison, Bendix Aviation, Burroughs Adding, Chesapeake & Ohio, Curtiss Aero, Wright, United Aircraft, General Electric, Houston Oil, International Harvester, Radio and Westinghouse were among important issues falling back 2 to 5 points.

Commodity markets were generally heavy. Wheat fell back about 2 cents a bushel in profit taking inspired by the failure of the Liverpool market to follow up the recent advances, and corn likewise sagged. Sugar was again depressed, raw sugar again dropping 1-32 of a cent to the lowest price since 1822. In the futures market July made another new low.

Foreign exchanges were dull and irregular, with sterling ending the day slightly higher. The rally in Japanese yen yesterday failed to hold and it fell back 1-3 of a cent to near the year's low.

Trigo, at 33-1, Wins Derby In Upset

British Fans Estimated at Million Watch Favorites Trail.

Irish Owned and Bred Colt Triumphs in Downhill Drive.

By P. I. LIPSEY
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 5 (A.P.).—Fortune turned her back on the experts today and sent Trigo, an unchallenged Irish colt, out to win the derby, the world's greatest horse race, before vast multitudes on Epsom Downs.

Scantily backed at 33 to 1, this courageous colt, owned by an Irish merchant from Ulster, William Barnett, triumphed over a field of 26 of Britain's choicest 3-year-olds. The three joint favorites—Cragadour, Hunter's Moon and Mr. Jinks—and many other more fancied horses failed in the exhausting test for premier turf honors over the famous mile and a half irregular course.

A length and a half behind Trigo came Walter Gay, Lord Woolavington's colt, which almost until the hour of the race was counted a doubtful starter and was quoted at odds of 100 to 8. Two more lengths behind came Brienz, another comparative unknown, which dashed home to take down third money. Brienz, Somerville Tattersalls' candidate, went to the post at long odds of 50 to 1.

Wales Among Million to See Favorites Trail.

The Prince of Wales, with his sister and brother-in-law, was among the host of spectators—some said a million but really nobody counted them—who saw the favorites finish behind Trigo's flying feet. Hunter's Moon, Lord Derby's colt, made the best showing of the highly touted candidates, but after leading the field past the 6-furlong pole, he fell back as the downhill drive began and finished fourth.

Hunter's Moon, which had been suffering from sore fore shins, evidently felt the pain as he shifted his weight from his hind quarters to his front legs on the downhill spring of one-half mile. His two rivals in popular and expert esteem—Lord Astor's Cragadour and Maj. McCalmon's Mr. Jinks—ran without their reputed dash and stamina and finished back in the crowd.

Other great disappointments to the thousands, who lined the rails and packed the grandstands, were Gay Day, the clever speedster ridden by Steve Donoghue, and Kopi, which wore the colors of Sol Joel. Donoghue, still hailed and backed by cockney race lovers for his former Derby glories could not get his temperamental mount out of the mass, although the colt wore blinkers to help him keep his mind on his business.

Kopi, Away Badly, Falls; Finishes Riderless.

Kopi, which rated perhaps the finest stamina of the field, got away badly at the rise of the barrier and then fell just before taking "Tattenham's Corner." Jockey F. Winter was unhurt and Kopi finished the race alone.

Americans at the celebrated British event were hoping that Posterity, beautiful colt owned by Mrs. Corlette Giorne, of the United States, would realize on his excellent breeding, but Posterity could do no better than sixth in the race, which was won in the nonrecord time of 2:36 2-5.

A light rain before and during the race was not sufficient to soften up the over hard, sunbaked track, which was not suited to either Cragadour or Hunter's Moon. The slight cold drizzle made little impression on the thick sodded course, on which little rain had fallen since Christmas.

Favorites Set Pace in Early Running.

There was little difficulty in getting the 26 thoroughbreds away from the post, and Hunter's Moon soon edged ahead of the struggling field, as they dashed up the arduous uphill third of the course. Cragadour, Mr. Jinks and Gay Day were still close contenders as

Tip on Derby Winner Quickly Stirs Belfast

Belfast, Ireland, June 5 (A.P.)—"Trigo will do the trick" was the cryptic telegram received at Belfast today from Epsom.

The tip on the Derby spread like wildfire and the horse was heavily backed, women and newsboys sharing in the good fortune.

"Trigo" was marked in chalk by newsies all over the sidewalks of Royal avenue, Belfast's principal thoroughfare.

The Aga Khan offered Mr. Barnett, Trigo's owner, 20,000 guineas, or approximately $100,000, before the 2,000 guineas stakes, but he refused to sell.

sold half his holdings before the race for a nominal sum and then watched his horse win him $250,000.

One hundred clerks in the office of Ladbrokes, London Turf Commission agents, are better off by $1,000 each because they clubbed together and bought a batch of tickets in the Baltic sweep, one of them bearing the now golden name of Trigo.

Jimmie Greb, 7, who broke onto front pages of newspapers all over the world when he drew the favorite, Cargadour, in the Stock Exchange sweep, is still pretty well off despite his horse's fizzle as his father had sold three-fourths of his holdings in advance of the race for $60,000 which has been set aside for the boy when he grows up. Jimmie went to school today instead of to the races and apparently managed to keep his mind on his lessons in spite of what he had at stake at Epsom Downs.

There is, however, another side to this sunny picture, although the millions all over the world who took part in the various sweepstakes kept any of the personal losses from being great. James Sutters, an enterprising Londoner, formed a pool in advance of the Derby which spent $250,000 buying up promising tickets from those who originally had drawn them. Every cent of this money was wasted, although, ironically enough, futters, only this morning purchased a ticket in the Calcutta on Le Voleur, Trigo's stable companion. His pool also held an interest in Hunter's Moon in the same sweepstakes, but lost again because the Calcutta does not pay a fourth prize.

St. Louis Falls, 5 to 2, As A's Resume Winning

Philadelphia, Pa., June 5 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics took the first game of the series from the Browns today, well distributed hits being responsible for a 5-to-2 victory.

Rube Walberg again displayed his mastery over the St. Louisians, this time holding them to four hits. Two of these were successive home runs from the bats of Melillo and Kress. Miller and Cochrane hit for the circuit for the Athletics.

General Crowder was hit sharply for six innings and retired for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

Iowa Not Alone Guilty in Big Ten, Accuser Says He'll Show.

school in the conference before it subsides.

An investigation into the record of twelve athletes named as under suspicion as being paid to attend Iowa will be made at once, E. H. Lauer, director of athletics at the Hawkeye institution, said today.

Specific charges were not made against the athletes, Lauer said, but Iowa will seek to find out if they are being used on Iowa athletic teams against the rules of the conference.

Iowa will continue its efforts to gain reinstatement into the Big Ten, Lauer said, adding that nothing new was learned regarding the charges against the school at the Chicago meeting yesterday.

While Iowa knew and admitted to the Big Ten that an athletic fund had been in operation in years previous, it had no evidence that such a fund was in operation within the last year or two until after the university was ousted, the director said.

Lauer explained that Iowa allows any student, athletic or nonathletic, to sign a note for his tuition. Both he and coaches at the university declared, however, that athletes who have been unable to make such notes good have been asked to cancel their enrollment as readily as have other students.

Possibility of court action growing out of the Big Ten squabble centering about Iowa was seen in reports today that George T. Bresnahan, head track coach, recently appointed director of intercollegiate athletics, has engaged an attorney to fix the responsibility for a letter published and attributed to him. The letter, he said, "implies bribery, which is absolutely untrue," in connection with the enrollment of L. D. Weldon, a javelin thrower, at Iowa.

"In no way did I attempt to hire Weldon," Bresnahan was quoted as saying.

Giants Dislodge Cards From Top, Winning, 6-4

St. Louis, June 5 (A.P.).—The Giants dropped the Cardinals from first place today by defeating the National League champions, 6 to 4, while the Pirates were idle in the rain. Carl Mays and Bill Walker divided the Giant pitching, credit for the victory going to Walker, while the veteran Clarence Mitchell went the route for the home team.

Chick Hafey's thirteenth home run with one on base helped the champions to score three runs in the second, but Melvin Ott's twelfth circuit blow, with two on in the fifth, gave the Giants a lead which they never relinquished. Walker went to the mound in the fourth and held the home team scoreless except in the seventh when two hits and two sacrifices pushed one run home.

Reds Score 21 Runs In Romp Over Phils

Cincinnati, June 5 (A.P.).—The Reds enjoyed their greatest run-making spree of the season at the expense of the Phillies here today and assaulted four Philadeuphia hurlers for a 21-to-4 score.

Cincinnati failed to score in only one inning and more than batted around in the sixth when nine runs were hammered over the plate. Kelly and Walker, first two up in this inning, each singled and on their second appearance at bat in that inning smashed out consecutive triples.

Cubs' Garrison Finish Beats Brooklyn, 4 to 3

Chicago, Ill., June 5 (A.P.).—Gabby Hartnett, pinch single, with the bases filled in the ninth, drove in two runs, giving the Cubs a 4-to-3 decision in the first game of the Brooklyn series. Hartnett's blow capped a rally which saw the Bruins tag Doug Mcweeny for four runs after being held scoreless for eight rounds. Three singles, a base on balls and Bancroft's error set the stage for Hartnett.

Berlyn Horne, recruit from the farm at Reading, started the game, but departed in the sixth in favor of Mike Cvengros after a spell of wildness. Cvengros, in turn, stepped aside for a pinch batsman, and Hal Carlson entered the game in time to get credit for winning it.

Bancroft led the Brooklyn attack with three hits. He drove in two of the Robins' three runs. Johnny Frederick failed to hit after driving out safe hits in seventeen successive games.

Davidson Tops Golfers In Chevy Chase Event

Richard P. Davidson, with a card of 78, yesterday secured a three-stroke lead in the 72-hole medal play club championship competition at the Chevy Chase Club. His card for three rounds already played, 82—79—78, gives him a total of 239 strokes as against 80—76—86—242 for C. Ashmead Fuller.

John Britton has cards of 80—79—91—91—250, while Worthington Frailey's total is 270. The final round of 18 holes will be played today.

Hurry On, High Priced Colt, Badly Injured

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—Hurry On, the 3-year-old colt for which W. R. Coe paid $70,000 as a yearling, has been seriously injured in training. The colt, which never has been raced, stepped on a stone several days ago and seems to have broken down. Ben Creech, trainer of the Coe Stables, doubts if a cure can be effected.

YANKS' RALLY IN TWELFTH WINS, 6-5

Lazzeri's Fly Sends Big Marker Over; Miljus Victim.

NEW YORK, June 5 (A.P.).—The Yankees opened their series against Cleveland by pulling out a 6-to-5 victory in the twelfth. It was the first New York victory over the Indians this year, and gave the champions a record of five straight against the West in the current stand at the Stadium.

Waite Hoyt opposed Joe Shaute at the start, but both of these luminaries gave way to less prominent boxmen, Fred Heimach for New York and John Miljus for Cleveland, who fought the game out to its finish.

Miljus relieved Shaute with nobody out, two on base and the score tied in the seventh, and after walking Robertson to make a play at every base, retired the side without further scoring. He got into trouble in the twelfth, however, when the bases were filled with none out on scratch singles by Robertson and Durst and a pass to Gehrig. Lazzeri, who had made three hits, then won the game with a sacrifice fly to Morgan.

Blackburne Toes Slab In 17-2 Rout of Chisox

Boston, June 5 (A.P.).—Even Manager Lena Blackburne took the rubber today as the Red Sox hammered the White Sox pitchers for a 17-to-2 victory.

Each of the Red Sox hit safely and drove in at least one run. They made 23 hits for a total of 39 bases. The leaders in the onslaught were Berry, with a homer, a double and two singles; Todt, with two singles, a double and a triple, and Bill Barrett, formerly of the White Sox, with a homer and two doubles.

With two out in the eighth, the Bostonians made nine consecutive safe hits and scored eight runs. Eight of the hits were off Dugan. Blackburne entered the box and was greeted by Rothrock with a single which scored two runs. Rothrock was thrown out trying to stretch the hit to a double.

SILVERDALE WINS 6TH STRAIGHT RACE AT LATONIA

Winner Beats Illegitimate In Drive

McLean Star Scores Under Clever Ride by Pascuma.

Verbena Wins Coaching Club Oaks by Head at Belmont.

LATONIA RACE TRACK, Ky., June 5.—E. B. McLean's 3-year-old Silverdale, with the splendid ride given him by A. Pascuma, made his record six straight wins when he defeated his field in the Turkey Foot Road Purse, the feature event of an ordinary card here this afternoon. Illegitimate was next best and Retort took third place. Silverdale, away well, was outrun to the turn, where he began moving up when Pascuma shook him up, and getting even with Illegitimate a sixteenth from the end, outlasted the latter in a hard drive.

Illegitimate, away fast, took the lead and continued strong but could not withstand Silverdale's fine rush at the end and finished second with two lengths to spare. Retort ran a steady race but was unable to improve position and landed in the third place six lengths in front of the field. Silverdale won by a neck.

The victory enriched the McLean Stable $3,000 and Silverdale paid his backers $5.66 for a $2 ticket.

Maiben Pilots Sweet Verbena to Victory at Belmont.

Belmont Park Race Track, N. Y., June 5 (A.P.).—The Lone Star Stable's Sweet Verbena, ridden by the veteran jockey, Johnny Maiben, sprang a surprise when she led home a good field in the Coaching Club American Oaks here today. Her victory was a clean cut one and it marked her first score in two years of racing. Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Aquastella was second and W. L. Hermstadt's Golden Anger third. Earl Sande's Safety Pin was fourth. The race carried a net value of $16,825, which included a $200 cup.

The mile and three furlongs were run in 2:18. Aquastella, carrying 118 pounds, went right to the front and attempted to gallop her opponents into the ground. She succeeded admirably and as they swung into the stretch she appeared to have them all beaten, but stopped herself in the last sixteenth.

Sweet Verbena closed gamely under urging, slowly forged to the front and gained a head victory over Aquastella, which in turn beat Golden Anger a length and a half for the place. The winner paid 6 to 1.

Blackwood Takes Feature At Washington Park.

Washington Park Race Track, Ill., June 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. E. Denmark's 4-year-old Blackwood captured the Homewood purse, the feature event here this afternoon. Crofton was second and Longridge third. The race was run on a fast track over the mile distance out of the chute, and was for 3-year-olds and up.

Blackwood, away fast, was rated close up during the first four furlongs, when he was shaken up and sent after the leaders. At the seven-furlong pole he took command, and drew out to win by a length and a half. Crofton was rushed into the lead at the start and made the pace under restraint, but tired slightly in the final drive to land second money by three lengths. Longridge ran a good race and finished third. The winner paid $6.16 for a $2 mutuel.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—COLONEL GILMORE, $56.70, $11.20, $8.08; SOUTHLAND BOY, $2.52, $2.28; A. B. BENSINGER, $3.08.

COLONEL GILMORE began fast, raced into a comfortable lead on the turn and, continuing gamely, won as rider pleased. SOUTHLAND BOY, outrun first half mile, but saving all possible ground, came with a belated rush last eighth to outgame A. B. BENSINGER. Latter forced the pace for entire trip, but bore out slightly through stretch when tiring. EFELDEE had no excuses. SOIREE could never reach a contending position.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200. For 2-year-old maidens, colts and geldings. Start good for all but Eilweir. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 2:34. Off at 2:38. Winner, T. P. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WINGO, $11.34, $4.66, $2.88; BUSY, $4.30, $3.10; JACK SPRATT, $4.66.

WINGO, hard hustled from the start, was sent into a long lead first quarter and, saving much ground, was never in danger. BUSY, always in nearest pursuit of the winner, closed resolutely, but could never threaten leader. JACK SPRATT raced in close quarters first half, closed strongly when clear. COBY had no mishaps and was tiring final quarter. CHARIOT, weakly ridden, was always far back. EILWEIR was eased up after breaking slowly.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:06. Off at 3:10. Winner, G. V. Barnes' b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WHISKARM, $15.78, $6.18, $5.44; ROYAL SON, $3.42, $2.82; HEDEMORA, $18.36.

WHISKARM, prominent from start and lucky to escape early interference, bore out through stretch, but continuing gamely when straightened, gradually wore ROYAL SON down. Latter, reserved behind pace in stretch turn and taking command, only lasted in last few strides. HEDEMORA displayed usual early speed, but had nothing left when put to a drive. GEORGE McCRANN suffered much early interference and was forced wide most of the trip. MOP UP pulled up slightly lame.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:32. Off at 3:33. Winner, Miss Blanche Watson's b. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—EDNA GLENN, $11.12, $4.68, $2.86; LE FLORE, $3.30, $2.40; THE BAT, $2.40.

EDNA GLENN raced improved, took command after start, held sway under steadying restraint and, responding well when threatened, was drawing clear near end. LE FLORE was sent into contention immediately after start, made a determined bid midway of the stretch, but could not stay enough. THE BAT, sluggish in early stages and forced wide on both turns, closed resolutely through stretch when straightened out. PADONA had no excuses and began tiring at head of stretch.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. The Turkey Foot Road. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:05. Off at 4:08. Winner, E. B. McLean's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SILVERDALE, $5.66, $2.64, $2.46; ILLEGITIMATE, $2.36, $2.22; RETORT, $3.62.

SILVERDALE, outpaced to the turn, began moving up when hard urged and, getting on even terms with ILLEGITIMATE a sixteenth out, outlasted latter in a hard drive. ILLEGITIMATE displayed fine speed throughout, but could not withstand the winner's challenge near end. RETORT, forward from start and saving much ground into stretch, could never threaten leaders. LORD BRAEDALBANE closed a gap.

SIXTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200. The Ludlow. For 2-year-old maidens, colts and geldings. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:35. Off at 4:36. Winner, D. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SYDNEY, $2.64, $2.70, $2.24; WHISP, $6.22, $3.86; ASPIRIN, $2.82.

SYDNEY was kept well up from start, responded gamely when ready midway of the stretch and, taking the lead, drew out decisively. WHISP was hustled into a good lead first three-eighths, continued well through stretch, but could not withstand winner. ASPIRIN suffered from racing room first part of it and was tiring last sixteenth. KING'S CRIER went wrong. ESCONDIDA used up in early stages, began tiring badly in the stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start bad. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:16. Off at 5:26. Winner, H. P. Headley's b. c. (3), by Archaic—Balmacara. Trained by W. W. Taylor. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:12 2-5, 1:39, 1:43 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—AMSTERDAM, $6.00, $4.26, $2.92; ALLEGIANCE, $4.66, $3.76; EVER BLUE, $15.06.

AMSTERDAM, benefited by start and escaping interference, raced into a long lead on first turn and easily held his opposition safe throughout. ALLEGIANCE, never far back, but forced wide on first turn, closed resolutely to outstay EVER BLUE. Latter suffered some early interference and was going strongly at end. MAYOR WALKER also suffered from crowding on first turn and could never reach a contending position. BILLIE LEONARD and LATCH KEY tired.

SEEDED PLAYERS WIN IN D. C. JUNIOR TITLE NET EVENT

Frank Shore, Champion, Scores

Lynham, Boys' Title-Holder, Seeks 1929 Junior Crown.

Jock McLean Winner; Brother Ned Is Eliminated.

WITH 22 entered in the junior class and 17 entered in the boys' division, the juniors and boys' District championship tennis tournament got a way to a flying start yesterday afternon on the Reservoir courts. Play, which was begun shortly after 3:30 o'clock, had reached the third round by darkness with the quarter finals scheduled to be played some time this afternoon.

The seeded players were Frank Shore, Bernard Welsh, Maurice Goubeau and Jack Lynham, and all won their matches.

Shore, winner of the junior championship last year, defeated Charles Myer in the first round, 6—2, 6—3, while Jack Lynham, boys' champ this year, entered in this year's junior division, defeated a youngster by the name of Trenis, 6—3, 4—6 and 6—1, in an interesting match.

The McLean boys h[ad] only a fair day o[n] it, Jock being the only winner. He won over William Boyle in straight sets, 6—0, 6—1, but Otto McLean dropped a 6—2, 6—2 match to Yoemans in a second round boys' match, while Ned, brother of Jack, lost to Berry, 7—5 and 6—1, also in the second round.

Entries Close, Pairings Made, Just Before Play Is Started.

The tournament began in a novel way, Chairman Bob Newby, assisted by Paul Harding, taking the entries as fast as they came in, closing them at exactly 3 o'clock and jotting the pairings some ten minutes later on the bulletin board. Play, which looked yesterday as the fastest conducted in a tournament of this kind in several years will be over by Saturday morning, according to Messrs. Newby and Harding

The results:

JUNIORS.

First round—Schloss defeated Legum, 6—3, 6—4; Bould defeated Miller, 6—4, 6—1; Goubeau defeated Buchanan, 6—1, 6—1; Shore defeated Myer, 6—2, 6—3; O'Hanlon defeated Pierce, 6—7, 6—4, 6—4; Latona defeated Considine, 8—6, 6—1.

Second round—Welsh defeated Smith, 6—4, 2—7, Neale defeated McChung, 6—3, 6—1; Schloss defeated Herbert, 6—1, 6—1; Goubeau defeated Boulc, 6—3, 6—3; Shore defeated O'Hanlon, 6—1, 6—2; Latona defeated Wilton, 6—2, 6—3; Willis defeated Woods, 9—7, 6—2; Lynham defeated Trenis, 6—3, 4—6, 6—1.

BOYS.

First round—Hunt defeated R. Boyle, 6—0, 6—0.

Second round—Yoemans defeated Otto McLean, 6—2, 6—2; Rosenberg defeated Al Ritzenberg, 6—2, 6—2; Lavin defeated Nee, 8—11, 8—6, 6—3; Hunt defeated Glassie, 6—2, 6—2; Jock McLean defeated William Boyle, 6—0, 6—1; Dial defeated Murphy, 6—1; Berry defeated Ned McLean, jr., 7—5, 6—1; Garges defeate Nate Ritzenberger, 6—1, 6—3.

PAIRINGS FOR TODAY.

Juniors (third round)—Welsh vs. Neale, Schloss vs. Goubeau, Shore vs. Latona, Willis vs. Lynham. (All matches at 3 o'clock.)

Boys (third round)—Yoemans vs. Rosenberg, Levin vs. Hunt, Jock McLean vs. Dial, Berry vs. Garges. (All games at 3 o'clock.)

The Events Leading Up to the Tragedy ---By H. W. Webster

Conductor, at Bat, Felled In Terminal Ball Game

John T. Bowers, 25-year-old conductor, of 1008 I street southeast, was knocked unconscious and suffered a slight concussion of the brain yesterday when he was hit by a pitched ball while playing in a baseball game between the Capital Traction and Union Carmen teams of the Terminal Y Morning League at Union Station Plaza.

Bowers, who is a member of the former team, was struck by the first ball pitched in the ninth inning of the game. He was carried to the office of Dr. J. Breckenridge Bayne, terminal physician, and after being revived was taken to his home. His injury is not believed to be serious.

SPRINGERS VS. PRINTERS.

In what should be one of the best games on the sandlot card Sunday, the Silver Spring Giants entertain the strong Union Printers on the new Silver Spring diamond at 3 o'clock.

The Springers, who have been going at a great clip of late, hope to continue their winning ways with McCarthy or Francis on the mound.

IRISH COLT TRIUMPHS OVER DERBY CHOICES

As the leaders turned the famed "Tattenham Corner" into the gently sloping homeward run, Hunter's Moon found his leadership challenged. Watchers through glasses filled the air with astonished cries of "Trigo, Trigo."

Steadily the Irish-bred racer crept ahead, and during the final quarter continued to gain with powerful strides Hunter's Moon, wearying rapidly, slipped back just in front of the other favorites.

Walter Gay and Brienz, both of which were never far behind, passed Lord Derby's colt to finish with a roar of hoofs behind the never-slackening Trigo.

The blushing, bashful owner was mobbed by silk-hatted admirers as he led his graceful winner to the royal box. The Prince of Wales in the ceremony customarily performed by the king smiled upon and congratulated the new wearer of Derby honors. By this time the drizzle had changed to a brisk shower, cutting short the post-race festivities.

Archie Hahn Succeeds "Pop" Lannigan at Va. U.

Charlottesville, Va., June 5.—Upon the heels of news of the retirement of Harry H. (Pop) Lannigan, coach of track and basket ball at the University of Virginia for the past 25 years, comes the announcement by James G. Driver, director of athletics, of the election of Archie Hahn, former Princeton star, as Lannigan's successor.

Hahn, who for the past six years has been head athletic trainer and assistant track coach at Princeton University, will become track coach and trainer for all athletics at the University of Virginia. He will have entire control of the track and field squad, including cross-country in the fall, indoor track in winter and outdoor track in the spring. He will also aid in the building of a program of intermural athletics.

Hahn, who represented the United States in two Olympic games and still holds Olympic records for the 60 and 200 meter dashes, will join the Virginia athletic staff next fall and will be in complete charge of the training of the Cavalier gridiron squad.

25 District Golfers Will Seek M. A. Crown

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 5.—Late added entries swelled the Washington contingent which will play in the Middle Atlantic Golf Association championship tournament starting tomorrow to about 25. George P. James, of the Columbia Country Club, is the first Capital linksman scheduled to get underway in the qualifying round over the Baltimore Country Club course.

Match play will open on Friday. Local rules of the host-club will govern play, with loss of distance and one-stroke penalty applying in case of lost balls, balls out of bounds and unplayable lies

TRACTION NINE WINS.

The Capital Traction Co. Nine defeated the Union Carmen yesterday in the Terminal Y Morning League, 24 to 14. Free hitting and base running featured the contest, which was marred in the ninth inning when John Bowers, of the winning team, was struck in the head by the first ball pitched and thought seriously injured.

JOHNSON PINS FAITH TODAY ON HADLEY

Nats to Face Whitehill in Second Battle With Tigers.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

IRVING HADLEY, who is hanging on to his two infecetd teeth as though they were family heirlooms, is due to face the Tigers in the second game of this series this afternoon, while Southpaw Earl Whitehill, always a hard nut for the Nats to crack, likely will be his opponent on the hill.

Bucky Harris, who led the Jungle Cats into town yesterday, held a regular reception before yesterday's game. "It's certainly good to be here again," Harris remarked, adding, "but I do not feel at home in this visitors' locker room." The fans also gave Bucky a big hand when he appeared at the plate to give Umpire Campbell his starting lineup. Harris has not played with the Tigers this season, but the Detroit scribes declare he is doing much practicing around third and likely will start there ere long.

Balk, Not Bluege's Steal, Decided Tuesday's Game.

The talk about town yesterday seemed to center around the Nats' ninth-inning six-run rally which beat the Browns in Tuesday's game. Although the official score shows that Ossie Bluege stole nome with the winning run, it is now learned that Umpire Bill McGowan called a catcher's balk and interference when Bluege was only halfway home and that his run would have counted even though he had been tagged out a mile.

Catcher Schang, it seems, stepped around Stuffy Stewart, the batter, and was at least two feet in front of the plate, so that had Stewart swung he likely would have hit Schang in the back of the head. "Umpire McGowan yelled that the run counted long before Bluege was in," Stewart said in discussing the play.

This "catcher's balk" is seen very seldom, and is the only play in the rule book in which a player is penalized twice by the umpire. If a catcher in any manner interferes with a batter trying to hit a legal delivery while a runner is trying to steal home, the runner is allowed to score on a "catcher's balk" and the batter is allowed to take first because he was interfered with. The double penalty was not inflicted simply because the game ended then and there, but, had Bluege's score not won the game, Stewart would have been allowed to take first.

Final Pitch of the Game Held Key to Victory.

There was another angle to the play as staged yesterday which, probably, was overlooked by the fans. Two strikes were called on Stewart at the time and, had there been no interference on Schang's part and had Pitcher Kimsey's throw been a strike, the strikeout would have been effective even though Bluege actually crossed the plate before the ball reached it. The rules on this subject say that, once a pitcher starts his wind-up, the decision on the resulting pitch takes precedence over any other one which might come up.

WANT SUNDAY GAME.

Having use of a diamond, the Washington Railway & Electric Nine wants to book an opponent for Sunday. Arrangements may be made by phoning Lincoln 6845.

Hartford A. C. Combines With Georgetown Nine

The Georgetown A. C. is once more The team which has been playing with the Seat Pleasants most of the season has broken away now and combined itself with the Hartford A. C., and will play from this time on under the lone colors of the Georgetown A. C.

The new combination has rented the Friendship Field for the remainder of the season and expects to play the leading unlimited teams in the city and vicinity. The St. Mary's Celtics have been booked for a three-game series starting July 14.

The old Georgetown A. C. players with the team now are Dutch Smithson, Marcus Chaconas and Henry Phipps, while the Hartford players rounding out the line-up include Colliere, Tripp Buckley, Harding, Buscher, Ball, Stahl, Slater and James.

Bill Flester is manager, having transferred his relations as has his Hartford players.

The Takoma Tigers will be played Sunday at 3 o'clock on the Friendship Field.

Western High Awards 17 Athletes Letters

Seventeen Western High School athletes were awarded letters yesterday at an assembly at the school. Five were given tennis insignias and twelve baseball "W's."

One captain was elected; Bob Freeman, first baseman, being chosen to lead the 1930 baseball team. There was no captain named for tennis.

The five netmen receiving honors were Goubeau, Latona, Lynham, Boulc and Manager Lamasure. The twelve getting the baseball awards were Owens, Capt. Fletcher, Albert, Freeman, Herbie Thompson, Hunt, Eby, Jimmie Thompson, Park, Worthington, Wyatt and Manager Schmucker.

Expressions of appreciation were given both teams on their showings this year, Coach Ahearn being especially enthusiastic over the manner in which the baseball team conducted itself, even though it lost many a game it should have won in the high school series.

Another presentation will take place today at Eastern High School, where Maj. Kilpatrick will give the Princeton cup to the baseball and track teams.

THE MATTER OF MARSHAL MUNDY.

Harry on Deadman's Island.

When the gang rode away from Dr Doniphan's house Harry was in despair Unquestionably he had saved the landlord's life, but he could not forgive himself for having leaned against the shutter, which was the cause of his present misfortune.

As the gang reached the edge of the village the leader removed the mask from his face and ordered the rest to do the same. He was not a bad-looking fellow, and Harry judged him to be a man who had dissipated heavily in his day.

"Now, then, Brady, we can talk better. I am known to these men as Chris Butts, but that's not my real name," said the giant. "Now I want you to tell me what you know."

"That might occupy a lot of time," laughed Harry. "What, in particular, do you want to know?"

"All right; what do you know about old Ransom's secret? Out with it."

Young King Brady's mind was made up. The Bradys have one general rule for such cases, and that is always pretend to stand in with the enemy when to do so works no harm.

"Well, I have heard the doctor's story and I don't doubt it is the same yarn you got out of Marshal Mundy. I don't know why I should pull back."

"There is every reason why you should pull with us. Does Doniphan know where the treasure is hidden?"

"If he does he kept it to himself—except that it was on Deadman's Island."

Butts' face fell. "Are you giving it to me straight?" he asked. "Wasn't there any paper or map?"

"I will tell you all he told us if you like," answered Harry. "The doctor alluded to some sort of a map or diagram."

"Why did he hold this diagram back from you?"

"He didn't seem to think it of much importance."

"It is most important," the big fellow assured him. "Do you suppose he and Mr. Brady will go to Deadman's Island?"

"I doubt it—they'll probably take themselves out of the way."

"Leaving you a prisoner in my hands?"

"What else could they do? Old King Brady is no fool to buck up against such a gang as you had with you."

For some little time they rode on in silence. At last Chris Butts spoke out again: "Brady, here's your chance. You stand in with me, and give me the benefit of your experience, and if we succeed in unearthing the treasure I'll see that you'll get your share of it. I don't want to hurt you, and I give you my solemn promise that no harm shall come to you if you will do this."

"Well, I don't care," said Harry carelessly. "Might just as well, I suppose. Of course, I'm out for the stuff like everybody else. I'll do as you say."

"Settled," said Butts. "As soon as we strike the island we'll give you plenty to do."

This was the last Harry heard from Butts during the rest of the run. The gang made no halt and they struck the dry barranca shortly after daylight. No time was wasted in crossing to the island. Leading his gang directly to the point where Old King Brady discovered the trail later, the outlay whistled shrilly.

"Hello, boys!" shouted Chris. "How's things here?"

"Everything is all serene, cap," replied one of the men. "How'd you make out at Spanish Licks?"

"Well, I got young Brady—but missed the old one."

"That's bad. Jim Mundy will be disappointed—he sets a heap by that old man."

"Can't be helped. Run the bridge over, boys, we want to come right across."

They proceeded to carry three big cottonwood logs, one at a time, which they threw over the break. Over this rude bridge the outlaws rode. Passing on through the grove they came to a hollow in which were a number of log huts. Out of one of these huts an old colored woman peered

"Ho, Julie!" she cried. "Here's Chris back again!" As she stepped in through the door a young white woman came out. She was blonde, pretty and about 25 years of age. Her dress of expensive material and cut, was now ragged and worn. Her face bore a discontented sullen expression.

"Hello, Julie, how are you, old girl?" cried Chris, dropping from the saddle and attempting to kiss her.

"There, don't make a show of me before all these boys," she objected. "Who have you got here? Where is the old man you were going after?"

"This is Young King Brady, the detective. Brady, allow me to introduce you to my wife."

"I'm pleased to meet any gentleman in this dull hole."

"Well, don't go to getting too pleased."

Just then Harry's attention was drawn to a man walking slowly up to them, with his eyes fixed on the ground, until he was within a few feet of them. Then he looked and said in the quietest of tones, "Well, Chris, I guess I've located the treasure, all right, old man!"

"What!" cried Butts. "You don't mean that?"

"Why, I'm not dead sure, but I've struck a real dead man on Deadman's Island, and from what I heard from Ransom the treasure can't be far away."

Finding of the Treasure.

"Oh, is that all," Chris said. "Why, there may be a dozen dead men buried on the island, for all a fellow can tell."

"I don't think that," replied the marshal. "You remember Ransom said the captain of the massacred company died the night before the Indians came, and they buried the treasure a short distance from the grave into which they put the captain. Well, we've found the grave—that is, Dick Halstead did. But say, who've you got here, Chris?"

"Young King Brady, Jim. Let me introduce him. He's one of us now."

"The deuce he is."

"Oh, that's all right. He'll do for rifle work."

The members of the gang had scattered upon their arrival at the huts They busied themselves and appeared to pay no attention to Chris Butts and his affairs.

Marshal Mundy now led the way back among the cottonwoods and as they walked along Harry could distinguish marks which seemed to indicate they were following a regular road

"Is this the old Sante Fe trail?" he asked, pointing to almost obliterated wagon tracks.

"That's what it is," replied Chris. "Many a load of gold dust was wheeled over this ground in the old California days."

As they advanced Harry spied Dick Halstead. The young man was leaning on his spade, looking intently down into a hole.

"That's your dead man, Chris," said the marshal, pointing to the hole in which a skeleton lay partially uncovered.

"So, there you are," said Butts. Poor old duffer, he's been in the happy hunting grounds these many years. Well, if he had lived another day he would have been scalped by the Indians, so was saved that fate. Now, then, Brady, jump in and find the treasure for us, if you can."

"That is putting a rather tough proposition up to me," said Harry, "but I'll try."

The fact is Harry had a clue. He kneeled down beside the grave and remained silent a moment. He noted that the right hand of the skeleton was raised above the head. The thumb and all the fingers except the forefinger were doubled in. This left the forefinger pointing to the southwest

Young King Brady reasoned that the finger was pointing to the spot where the gold was concealed. He also figured that the doubled-up thumb and fingers might mean something. "Perhaps as many feet as there are fingers," he reflected. "No, that would make the distance too short. Probably ten feet making the directions: 40 feet in the direction of the pointing finger."

He arose and paced off in that direction. He came to a large cottonwood. He now examined the tree itself with great care. He was beginning to despair when he noted down at the base of the tree a bit of bark had been shaved off. In the wood was a small arrow with the point toward the left and some marks beneath. He produced a powerful lens and examined the marks He then paced off twelve feet to the left.

"Dig here," he said. "If you don't find the treasure I give it up."

Butts went back to camp and returned with another spade. Harry and Dick began to dig. Just under the surface a small canvas bag came to light. Harry gave the thing a toss and it landed at Butts' feet.

"Eureka! The boy has won out!" cried Butts.

The boys continued digging with a will and a few moments more Young King Brady's triumph was complete for they now laid bare a pile of similar bags.

But what was to come of it all?

Another chapter of this enthralling serial is in tomorrow's paper—don't miss it.

Weak After Operation

"About five months ago, following an operation for appendicitis I did not gain strength enough to be up and about. My mother and sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken five bottles and it has helped me to get strong so I can do my own housework now. I have recommended it to several friends who have been weak and rundown."—Mrs. Oscar Ottum, Box 474, Thief River Falls, Minn.

ELLA CINDERS—From an Expert — By Bill Conselman and Charlie Plumb

I READ YOUR ARTICLES IN THE PAPER EVERY DAY ABOUT HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH MARRIED, AND I'VE COME OUT OF TOWN TO SEE YOU! AS THE COUNTRY'S GREATEST AUTHORITY ON HAPPY MARRIAGES, WOULD YOU ADVISE ME TO GIVE UP MY STAGE CAREER FOR THE MAN I LOVE, DR. CAWLINS?
BY ALL MEANS! A WOMAN'S PLACE IS IN THE HOME. MARRIAGE IS THE MOST SUBLIME GIFT THAT CAN BE GRANTED TO MEMBERS OF THE HUMAN RACE!
JASPER CAWLINS, YOU LAZY HOUND! HOP OUTSIDE AND GIVE THE LAWN A BATH BEFORE I GIVE YOU A LOVE-TAP ON THE CHIN WITH A FLAT-IRON!
STRIKE OUT THE LAST PARAGRAPH—IT'S NOT FOR PUBLICATION—OTHERWISE PEOPLE WOULDN'T BELIEVE ANYTHING THEY READ ABOUT LOVE EXCEPT THE DIVORCE NEWS!

GASOLINE ALLEY — Couldn't Think of It

OH WALT! I'VE GOT ANOTHER NOTICE FROM THAT BIRD CORPUS DEMANDING PAYMENT OF $87 DAMAGES TO HIS CAR IN OUR LITTLE MOTOR ACCIDENT- ONLY I DON'T CALL IT AN ACCIDENT.
YES?
IT WAS MORE OF A COINCIDENCE— OUR BOTH BEING ON THE SAME SPOT AT THE SAME TIME. YOU KNOW HIM, WALT. COULDN'T YOU GET HIM TO LAY OFF ME?
AVERY I'D DO ANYTHING IN THE WORLD FOR YOU.
BUT I WOULDN'T BE UNDER OBLIGATIONS TO THIS FELLOW CORPUS FOR ANYTHING. I HOPE YOU UNDERSTAND.
YOU WOULDN'T HAVE TO DO MUCH- JUST CASUALLY MENTION IT.
I WANT YOU TO GET ME RIGHT, AVERY. I'D RATHER PAY THE WHOLE $87 MYSELF THAN ASK ANY FAVOR OF THAT BIRD.
OH, I WOULDN'T WANT YOU TO DO THAT, WALT! ONLY OF COURSE IT WOULD SAVE YOU THAT MUCH EMBARRASSMENT.

SLUGGISHNESS AGAIN RULES BOND MARKET

Foreign Loans React as Flurry Over Reparations Agreement Subsides.

CARRIER LIST IRREGULAR

New York, June 5 (A.P.).—The flurry of excitement which the reparations settlement brought into the foreign section of the bond list had subsided today and the market, lacking the stimulus of the brisk demand for German and other European obligations which sold up sharply on Monday and Tuesday, resumed its sluggishness.

Gains and losses were distributed impartially and most of them were nominal. All but a handful of issues suffered from neglect, although the most active bonds managed to work up. Time money was easier at 8¼ to 8½, but concern over the future of credit made itself apparent in the light inquiry. United States Government securities closed at small fractional gains on moderate turnovers.

Profit-taking and a belief that the good news of the agreement between Germany and her creditors had been discounted for the present caused declines in several of the European issues, which lost most of their recent popularity. German Central Agricultural Bank bonds held firm, together with the Republic 7s and some of the utilities and industrials, while the Belgian and French Government listings were irregularly lower. British United Kingdom 4s dipped ⅜ and the 5½s closed at the new low figure of 102⅞, off ⅛. Italian bonds were mostly weaker.

Rails were irregular. The largest gains in this group were made by Atchison Adjustment 4s, Louisville & Nashville 5½s. Canadian National 4½s, Morris & Essex 3½s, Missouri, Kansas & Texas Prior Lien 4s, Kansas City Southern Refunding 5s, and Atlantic Coast Line 4½s. New York Traction bonds improved.

Utilities were credited with the best showing of the day in the averages. California Gas & Electric 5s, Kansas Gas Electric 6s, Laclede Gas Light 5½s and New York Gas Electric Light, Heat & Power 5s showed maximum advances of large fractions to more than a point.

Features in the list of industrials and specialties included Anglo-Chilean Nitrate 7s, off 2; Goodyear Tire & Rubber 5s, up ½; National Dairy Products 5¼s, up ¾, and Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s, up ¼. The last named, heavily sold yesterday for a decline of about 4 points on reported dissolution of the supporting syndicate, were traded in large volume, but resisted further pressure throughout the day.

The convertibles, which made some improvement in the early trading, closed irregular. American Telephone 4½s suffered a small fractional decline on sales of nearly $1,100,000, par value, and Atchison 4½s were off 1¼. Southern Pacific 4½s with warrants clung close to yesterday's final quotation, while Public Service of New Jersey 4½s advanced 4 points on the strength of the shares.

INCREASE REPORTED IN BUSINESS VOLUME

STOCK TRADING EXPANDS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Volume of business transacted in the Fifth or local Federal Reserve District in April and early May was in most instances above that in the corresponding period a year ago, William W. Hoxton, chairman and Federal Reserve agent, Richmond, Va., reported yesterday.

Member banks increased their loans to agricultural and commercial borrowers, as is usual at this season, and also increased their borrowings at the Reserve Bank. Loans by reporting member banks on stocks and bonds declined during the month, making additional funds available for agricultural, commercial and industrial uses.

Debits to individual accounts figures in the five weeks ended May 15 this year were seasonally lower than those in the preceding five weeks this year, ended April 10, and were also slightly less than in the five weeks ended May 16, 1928, but the decrease from last year was very slight and the totals for the 1928 period were exceptionally large.

Business failures in the Fifth District last month showed a seasonal decrease under March failures, but exceeded those of April 1928, Coal production declined seasonally in April in comparison with March, but exceeded the April, 1928, production.

Textile mills consumed 18 per cent more cotton in April, 1929, than in April, 1928, nearly all mills operating full time last month. Building permits issued in leading cities of the district were greater in total valuation than in April, 1928, and a large volume of construction work in rural sections and small towns was indicated in contract award figures for April.

This large amount of construction work insures reasonably good employment conditions for the summer months. Tobacco manufacturing in the Fifth district continues to increase steadily, and April production exceeded that of April, 1928, by a considerable margin.

With the exception of cotton in certain sections of the district, crops are earlier this year than last, in spite of wet weather and cold, and all grain crops are in fine condition.

Retail trade in April in department stores was in larger volume than in April last year, in spite of the occurrence of Easter in March this year, and for the first time in many months most of the reporting wholesale firms showed larger sales in April than in the corresponding month of the preceding year.

F. J. Kane Elected Trustee.

At the annual meetmg of shareholders of the East Washington Savings Bank held yesterday, Francis J. Kane was elected a trustee, succeeding the late Francis R. Weller. The following trustees were reelected:

John C. W. Beall, James A. Donohoe, Gratz E. Dunkum, Lewis Flemer, John Ford, W. P. C. Hazen, Michael A. Lynch, Charles A. McCarthy, Henry H. McKee, Morris E. Marlow, William N. Payne, jr., Samuel H. Walker, John C. Weeden, John C. Yost. The meeting of organization will be held June 11.

Loading of Revenue Freight.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended May 25 totaled 1,061,416 cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday.

This was an increase of 15,237 cars over the preceding week this year, grain and grain products, coal, coke, ore and miscellaneous freight showing increases, but live stock, forest products and merchandise less-than-carload freight showing small reductions.

Compared with the corresponding week of last year, loading of revenue freight for the week was an increase of 40,013 cars and an increase of 34,627 cars above the corresponding week in 1927.

All districts except the Southern reported increases in the total loading of all commodities, compared with the same week in 1928, while all, except the Pocahontas and Southern districts, reported increases, compared with the same week in 1927.

Loading of revenue freight in 1929, compared with the two previous years, follows:

Four weeks in January	3,570,978	3,448,895	3,756,660
Four weeks in February	3,767,758	3,590,742	3,801,918
Five weeks in March	4,807,944	4,752,559	4,982,547
Four weeks in April	3,983,978	3,740,307	3,875,589
Four weeks in May	4,205,709	4,005,155	4,108,472
Total	20,336,367	19,537,658	20,525,186

New Building and Loan Association.

Luther C. Steward, president of the Federation of Federal Employes, announced yesterday the organization of a new building and loan association, of which he will be the head and which is incorporated under the name of the Prudential Building Association, with offices at 1331 G street northwest.

It is capitalized for 200,000 shares of $50 par value, full participating, and is under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency of the Treasury Department. Frank A. Birgfeld, chief clerk of the United States Treasury, is its vice president.

Directors include John B. Colpoys, labor leader; Hugh Reid, director of the Peoples Bank of Cherrydale; Thomas Grant, former secretary of the Washington Chamber of Commerce; T. Howard Duckett, chairman of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission; Curtis Walker, treasurer, North Washington Realty Co.; Daniel S. Ring, attorney; Luther C. Steward and Frank A. Birgfeld.

Bituminous Coal Production.

From car-loading reports so far received, the National Coal Association estimates the production of bituminous coal for the week ended June 1, 1929, at 8,300,000 net tons. The considerable decline from the output of the week before was due to the occurrence of a holiday on May 30.

The last report of the United States Bureau of Mines shows total production of bituminous coal for the week ended May 18 as 8,930,000 net tons, and for the week ended May 25 as 9,152,000 net tons.

Securities Trading Improves.

A marked improvement in stock and bond trading was observed in yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange, total bond transactions of $12,500 being a $5,500 advance over Tuesday's, and that day's stock selling was bettered to the extent of 134 shares by yesterday's aggregate of 320.

The session was featured by a 7½-point rise in Washington Gas Light stock in a 6-share turnover at 121½. Heaviest selling was in Potomac Electric 5½s preferred, 40 shares of which changed hands at fractional declines from 105⅛, and 41 at fractional advances. Largest bond sales were of Washington Railway & Electric 4s issue, $2,000 of these going at 85¾, fractional gain, and $500 at 85½, last sale price.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 5.—Railroads are making active inquiries for rails, and have placed some orders in the last few days. Southern Pacific is said to be about to place orders for 50,000 tons. Others in the market include Hocking Valley and St. Louis Southwestern.

Continental Can Co.'s new plant at Los Angeles has started operations and will soon employ between 500 and 600 workers. The unit, costing about $1,250,000, has a capacity of 25,000,000 cans a month, and will supply Pacific Co

PROPERTY ZONING CHANGES REFUSED IN FOUR INSTANCES

District Commission Approves Three Proposals and Postpones Two Others.

ACTION ALSO DEFERRED ON NEW AMENDMENT

Attempt to Open Residential Neighborhoods Meets With Opposition.

The District Zoning Commission yesterday refused four of the proposed nine changes in existing zoning of properties, approved three changes, and postponed decision on two others.

The commission also postponed decision on the proposed amendment to the zoning regulations under which it would be possible to construct fire engine houses, police stations, pumping stations, public playgrounds, public recreation centers and public swimming pools in residential neighborhoods.

This proposed amendment met with considerable opposition at the public hearing in the board room of the District Building, with Henry I. Quinn vice chairman of the zoning committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations, leading the attack with a virulent speech against the District Commissioners. Edgar C. Snyder, United States marshal, also opposed the amendment, as did Rufus Lusk, of the Operative Builders Association, except for fire and police stations.

Amendment to Be Studied Further.

At the executive session held following the hearing the commission instructed Maj. D. A. Davison, executive officer, to study further the amendment to see whether certain parts of it should be adopted. One plan considered by the commission was to couple the amendment with a proviso requiring written consents of adjoining property owners. The whole question may be postponed and considered at a later public hearing.

But this will not be until fall, for the commission decided to hold no hearings during the summer.

Washington residents, it was said, will not mix in a fight during the hot summer months and the result has been in the past that no important changes have been proposed during the summer. The commission felt that such changes as were so unimportant as not to merit attention from residents could wait and it fixed the date of its next public hearing for 10 o'clock in the morning of Wednesday, September 18.

Changes Are Approved.

The changes approved by the commission yesterday were as follows: From residential, 90 foot, C area, to first commercial, 90 foot, C area, the lot known as 502 Nineteenth street northwest; from residential, 60 foot, C area, to first commercial, 60 foot, C area, three lots, designated as 3647, 3649 and 3651 New Hampshire avenue northwest; from residential, 40 foot, C area, to residential, 60 foot, C area, rear of lot 802, square 1929, on the northwest corner of Garfield street and Wisconsin avenue northwest.

Two proposed changes will be considered at an executive session to be held next week. Decision was withheld on the proposal to change the square between B, C, Nineteenth and Twentieth streets northwest from first commercial, 90 foot, C area, to first commercial, 40 foot, C area, to permit the Y. W. C. A. time to file a brief in opposition.

The other proposal upon which decision was withheld was to change from residential, 40 foot, A area, to first commercial, 40 foot, C area, four lots on the southeast corner of Minnesota avenue and E street southeast. The other proposed changes were disapproved.

Seven Capital Engineers To Make Trip to Tokyo

Seven Washington engineers are among the seventeen delegates to represent the United States at the World Engineering Congress to be held in October at Tokyo, Japan, according to an announcement by the State Department yesterday stating that President Hoover has approved the appointments.

The Washington delegates are John Hays Hammond, Gen. Edgar Jadwin, George Otis Smith, George K. Burgess, O. C. Merrill, Elwood Mead and Scott Turner. Other members of the delegation are Elmer Sperry, Frank B. Jewett, John W. Lieb, Maurice Holland, Daniel L. Turner, Byron Eldred, J. V. W. Reynders and Mark Requa, all of New York City; John R. Freeman, of Providence, R. I., and Dugald C. Jackson, of Boston, Mass.

Georgetown Law Paper Staff to Give Banquet

Members of the Georgetown Law Journal staff, most of whom are to graduate next week, will hold their farewell annual banquet at 7 o'clock tonight in the Hamilton Hotel.

Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, of the District Supreme Court, will be the guest of honor. J. Herbert Walsh, editor in chief, will act as toastmaster. The Journal staff consists of 31 students selected for high scholastic standing and includes Carberry F. O'Shea, associate editor, and Donald L. Stumpf, book review editor. Prof. Arthur A. Alexander is adviser.

Five Injured as Auto Quits Maryland Road

Five were injured when an automobile, operated by George F. Stearling, 20 years old, of 1315 Green street northeast, ran into a ditch at Aspin Hill, Md., early yesterday morning, according to Maryland police.

Those injured, besides Stearling, are Lloyd Bankard, 23 years old, of 1355 Irving street northwest; Betty Gregory, 23, 3656 Warder street northwest, and Dolly Phillips, 22, 3656 Warder street northwest. They were all taken to Walter Reed Hospital, where they were reported to be suffering from cuts and bruises.

Jahncke to Begin Air Tour of Bases Today

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke will leave this morning for an air tour of the naval stations on the West Coast.

He will go from here to New Orleans, his home town, for a brief stop-over. Then he will proceed to San Diego, San Pedro, San Francisco, Mare Island, Bremmerton and Seattle. On his return East he will stop at Salt Lake City and Chicago. He is due back in Washington on July 6. Lieut. W. C. Tomlinson, recent winner of the Curtiss Marine trophy race, will pilot him on the trip.

COLLATERAL SYSTEM EXTENSION IS URGED

COLLECT $11,582 IN MAY

Extension of the police station collateral forfeiture system now in effect for minor traffic violations was proposed by Inspector E. W. Brown, in charge of the Traffic Bureau, in a report made yesterday to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police.

The question of extending the forfeiture system to include minor violations in United States parks also is being considered, Brown said, stating that Assistant United States Attorney Joseph Bruce would confer with District Attorney Leo A. Rover on the question.

The extension suggested would not cover the more serious traffic offenses, such as speeding, reckless driving, drunken driving, but would have to do more with second offenders against minor provisions, such as overtime parking. No fixed system of collateral for this would be laid down, precinct commanders being given discretionary powers. Persons who felt they were asked to post too high a collateral would be free to fight the case in court.

During the month of May, the first in which the system has been in effect, there were 4,266 cases in which arrested persons elected to forfeit collateral rather than appear in court. The total collateral forfeited in these cases was $11,582. Only nine persons said they would forfeit and then changed their minds and appeared in court.

The system, Maj. Pratt said, seemed to be working well and had resulted in a speeding up of the Police Court machinery and giving traffice policemen more time to spend on their patrols.

School Association Elects H. S. Wood

Officers and Committees' Chairmen Named at the Annual Meeting.

Herbert S. Wood last night was elected president of the Public School Association at the annual meeting held in the board room of the District Building.

Other officers elected are: First vice president, James G. Yaden; second vice president, Mrs. Daniel Murray; third vice president, Mrs. N. E. McIndoo; fourth vice president, Mrs. W. T. Bannerman; recording secretary, Arthur H. Redfield; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Grace McGrath; treasurer, William J. Tucker.

The following chairmen of committees were named: Community center, Mrs. James W. Byler; membership, Mrs. E. C. Rittue; school expansion, George M. Moore; school personnel, George A. Warren; recreation, Mrs. Carl Smith; schoolhouse planning, F. C. Stelzer; legislation, Herbert S. Bryant; health and sanitation, Mrs. G. F. Rafter; educational methods and progress, Mrs. Fred T. Dubois. Members of the executive committee at large include Miss Marain P. Shadd, J. W. Baddy, Mrs. Mae J. Richardson, the Rev. George A. Parker, Mrs. Annie Smith and Elzie Hoffman.

William Carl, dean of the educational school at George Washington University, was the principal speaker.

Attorney Is Dismissed From Case on Absence

Judge John P. McMahon dismissed Attorney Bertrand Emerson, jr., counsel for two defendants in Police Court yesterday, and assigned another attorney, David Smith, to the case.

When the case against the two men, Louis Stevenson and William Archie, both colored, on Jones liquor law charges was called, Emerson was absent from the room. Attorney Michael J. Lane informed the judge that Emerson was engaged in trying a case in an adjoining courtroom. Remarking that Emerson on a number of occasions had failed to appear when his cases were called, Judge McMahon told the men who had engaged him as counsel to have him return their fees and assigned Smith to the case. The men were held for the grand jury.

Music Contest Winner Stages Violin Concert

Oscar Levine, winner of the five-State contest of the National Federation of Music Clubs gave a violin concert last night at the Jewish Community Center. A large audience attended the concert, the purpose of which was to enable Mr. Levine to compete in the final contest to be held in Boston on Saturday.

Additional selections were played by Betty Baum and Mary Templin, who were both winners in their class at the music contest in Washington.

Army Group to Celebrate.

Officers of the Quartermaster Corps of the Army here will celebrate the 154th anniversary of the corps with a dinner Saturday night, June 15, at 6:30 o'clock at the National Press Club.

Leah Moriarty was announced as the winner of the four-year scholarship in the high school department.

The remainder of the program consisted of a playlet, by the class; recitation, by Verda Mae McCollagh; the class will, by Ada Hardy; recitation, by Evelyn Hurrell; class prophecy, by Ross Donovan; song, by Elizabeth Mulvany, poem by Bessie Carroll; essay by Helen McKee; recitation by Frances Smith, and class song, by the class.

CAPITAL NOT TO GET DRY AGENTS, IS HINT

URGE SALARIED INFORMER

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, apparently is to be disappointed in his plan to have Federal prohibition authorities supply Federal agents to track down bootlegging in the National Capital.

Pratt sent Harry M. Luckett, chief and property clerk of the Police Department, and formerly District prohibition chief, to see Prohibition Commissioner Doran with a request for the assignment of Federal agents here, but the prohibition chief was out of the city and Luckett is to see him today.

Other prohibition officials, however, held out little hope, saying that there were only a few agents for the entire country and they did not believe it would be possible to assign many men to Washington, which would have to worry along as best it could without Federal aid.

Pratt's action was taken following receipt of a memorandum from United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover, which practically eliminated the use of paid informers as police agents in making purchases of liquor from suspected or known bootleggers or in speakeasies.

One remedy which was suggested by the prohibition officials was the employment of informers by the District police on a per diem basis. This would eliminate the objection of the grand jury to the present fee system, under which the informer gets paid only when he makes a purchase of liquor.

Auto Driver's Permit Ruling to Be Appealed

The ruling of the District Court of Appeals permitting Virginia automobile drivers to operate in the District, though barred by the local traffic director, has met with disapproval of District authorities.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward W. Thomas yesterday asked the appellate court to recall its mandate to permit the local authorities to carry the case to the United Sates Supreme Court. Opposition to the move is expected from Attorney S. McComas Hawken, who opposed the District's counsel in the case in the appellate court. The ruling was made in the case of Charles H. Fred, convicted last December by Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court on a charge of driving an automobile while his permit was revoked.

GRAND JURY IGNORES 23 CRIMINAL COUNTS

HOMICIDE CHARGE FAILS

By ignoring 23 criminal charges, the District grand jury yesterday established a new record and reported only 9 indictments to Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy at the District Supreme Court.

The accusations ignored included one of homicide, five of gambling, five of receiving stolen property and one of violation of the smoke screen law; while the nine indictments were based on charges of second-degree murder, forgery and thefts.

A second indictment, charging William C. Fleet, colored, with second-degree murder of James F. Smith, also colored, was reported. The reindictment was caused by erroneous spelling of Smith's name in the first charge. Fleet was accused of hitting Smith on the head with a half of a brick last July 25. Smith died three days later.

Bribery of Policeman Charged.

An indictment charging bribery of a policeman was reported against Roseveit Herbert, colored, who was alleged to have given Policeman George Nicholson $25 to drop a dry law charge against him. The policeman arrested the negro on March 24 on a charge of possessing liquor. While they were standing at a patrol box Herbert was charged with giving the $25 as a bribe.

Clinton D. Blakey and James W. Jefferies were indicted on charges of joy riding and grand larceny and an additional charge of housebreaking and larceny was made against Blakey. Last April 8, Blakey was charged with breaking into an Atlantic & Pacific store at 1504 East Capitol street and stealing a quantity of cigarettes. The next day he and Jefferies were charged with taking an automobile belonging to DeWitt Thompson, of 1800 C street northwest, and abandoning it at Twelfth and B streets southwest. A short time later the two are alleged to have taken an automobile containing a suitcase filled with clothing, which belonged to George W. Brown.

Third Dry Law Offense.

William Handy was indicted on a charge of third offense of the national prohibition law. Others indicted were James H. Collins, robbery, and John R. Lewis, two charges of forgery and uttering.

Estelle Warren, colored, was exonerated of a homicide charge by the jurors in connection with the death of John T. Brown, colored, last October.

The other charges ignored included Alfred Crawley, Ophelia F. Campbell, John Collins and Joseph Fletcher, receiving stolen property; Louise S. Jackson and Louis Miller, accessory after the fact; Benjamin Woods, criminal assault; William C. Smith, false pretenses; Stowell Brown, carnal knowledge; Israel Hunter, assault with a dangerous weapon; William J. Skinner, grand larceny; D. E. Davis, housebreaking and larceny; Lloyd R. Brown and Charles W. Newman, joy riding; Katherine B. H. LaBorde, bigamy; Leon Schancks, violation of the smoke screen law; Joseph McCaffery, James J. Noonan, Benjamin Kines, William Jones and Milton T. Arrington, gambling.

Man Injured When Auto Strikes Tree.

Anthony Parrella, 55 years old, of 58 M street northwest, received injuries yesterday when an automobile he was driving struck a tree at Eleventh and T streets northwest. Parrella told police that he lost control of his car. He was taken to Garfield Hospital where he was reported to be suffering from cuts on the face and right leg and bruises. His condition was reported to be undetermined.

Scientific Crime Detection Predicted in Early Future

Bureau of Standards Official Tells Weights and Measures Conference Old-time Police Methods Will Pass as Better Ones Become Perfected.

The detectives of today who attempt to solve murders and other baffling mysteries with their own cleverness, plus the aid of information furnished by "stool pigeons," will pass in favor of the Sherlock Holmes of tomorrow, who will be scientific persons relying upon standardization methods of precise identification.

The prediction was made yesterday by Wilmer Souder, of the Buraeu of Standards, in an address before the nearly 400 delegates attending the twenty-second annual conference of weights and measures, who told of the bureau's work with the problems of identification.

Scientific precision in the detection of crime has been practiced for a long time by the famous sleuths of London, Paris and Berlin, according to Mr. Souder, who told the delegates the Bureau of Standards is setting up a national standard of identification through study of written and typewritten documents, signatures, guns and bullets for application by the detectives of this country.

"Evidence from the measurements of guns, bullets and shells have at the present time relatively little weight in courts of law except in their general confusion of the juries and the development of a reasonable doubt," Souder said.

"This is in a measure due to the amateurish and incomplete methods pursued by many so-called experts. Properly prepared, however, data on guns and bullets are often unique in the conclusiveness of identifications and often possess definite superiority over what is classed as direct visual evidence."

Markings on bullets and the like are definite and can not make false or perjured statements, Souder said. He predicted that it would be only a short time before the Bureau of Standards perfects methods which would prove of inestimable benefit in the detection of crime.

HARVEY SMITH, 39, SUCCEEDS MILLER AS HEAD OF SCHOOL

NELSON AND STRAYER SELECTED FOR POSTS

Dr. E. G. Kimball Is Retired. Contract Awarded for Giant Stadium.

Harvey Arthur Smith, a 39-year-old student in the Teachers College at Columbia University, yesterday was named by the Board of Education as the new principal of Central High School. Mr. Smith, who is one of the youngest persons to be named as the principal of a local high school, will succeed the late Alvin W. Miller, who died recently from the bite of a pet cat.

At the same time the Board of Education announced the appointment of Norman J. Nelson as assistant principal at Western High School and George Drayton Strayer, jr., as the statistician for the public school system.

Dr. Kimball Is Retired.

By a vote of 4 to 3, the board, at its meeting in the Franklin Building, retired Dr. E. G. Kimball, supervisory principal of the third division, despite a petition by Dr. Kimball and the requests of hundreds of individuals and organizations that he be allowed to continue his service with the school system. Dr. Kimball, who is 70 years old, reached the age of retirement last year.

Henry Gilligan and Mrs. Henry Gratton Doyle made strong pleas for the retention of Dr. Kimball, pointing out that he is fit both physically and mentally to continue in service and that his loss would be a terrible blow both to the school service and the morale of the teachers, but their efforts proved unavailing despite the fact that the board legally could continue the services of Dr. Kimball.

Gilligan, in urging the retention of Dr. Kimball, said:

"It has often been said that the members of the board act as 'rubber stamps' for Dr. Ballou. Here is our chance to follow the dictates of our conscience and retain the services of Dr. Kimball, who is mentally and physically able to continue to give the school the splendid service he has in the past."

Balloting Is Close.

Mrs. Mary McNeill voted with Gilligan and Mrs. Doyle, but the other members, excepting Isaac Gans, who withheld his vote, voted for the retirement.

Mr. Smith will assume his new duties as soon as he completes his course in the Teachers College, where he is studying for a doctor's degree. He is well qualified for his work, having had extensive experience as teacher and school administrator. He was a teacher at the Franklin and Marshall Academy at Lancaster, Pa.; at the Chester High School, Chester, Pa.; taught in the Lancaster (Pa.) High School and the Millville (N. J.) High School and was named superintendent of schools in Millville in 1925.

During the last year he has taken intensive postgraduate work in further preparation for administrative and supervisory positions at Teachers College. He is an author of school works and has won academic honors of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Delta Kappa fraternities.

He is married and is a native of Lancaster, Pa. He is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College and the University of Pennsylvania.

Nelson Well Known Here.

Mr. Nelson is well known in Washington, having served as assistant principal at Central High School in 1925. Previously he had taught business subjects at Central. He resigned in 1928 in order to go to Harvard University to pursue graduate study. He is a graduate of the George Washington University.

Mr. Strayer also is a student in the Teachers College at Columbia University. He is a candidate for a degree of doctor of philosophy. At the present time he occupies the position of assistant to the superintendent of Schools in charge of research, at Great Neck, Long Island. He will be in charge of the gathering of statistics for the school system.

Stadium Contract Let.

Announcement of the letting of a contract for the construction of a giant stadium and athletic field for the joint use of students of the McKinley High School and Langley Junior High School was made to the Board of Education yesterday by the District Commissioners.

The A. L. Smith Co. has been authorized to start work immediately on the project, which is to be completed at a cost of $198,700. When completed the stadium and athletic field will be the largest and best equipped of any in the District of Columbia.

The following schools were named as summer schools by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools:

Central High School, the Gordon, Macfarland and Stuart Junior High Schools and the Adams, Brown, Buchanan, Burroughs, Curtis, Eaton, Emery, Fairbrother, Henry, Industrial Home School, Johnson, Ketcham, Ludlow, Parkview, Petworth, Pierce, Wallach and West Elementary Schools. The Webster School was named as the summer center for Americanization students.

Mistrial Results In Brown Hearing

Jury in Statutory Offense Case Reports 9-to-3 Deadlock.

A mistrial was declared in the case of Charles A. Brown, 41 years old, accused of a statutory offense, late yesterday in Police Court, when a jury, after a two-hour deliberation, reported a hopeless deadlock of 9 to 3 for acquittal to Judge Isaac H. Hitt. Brown was shot and wounded by his wife, Mrs. May C. Brown, in a corridor of the court last February when trial of the same case was continued.

Mrs. Brown, who is at liberty in $5,000 bail on a charge of assault with itnent to kill as a result of the courthouse shooting, was the principal witness against her husband. The charge grew out of a raid at 23 H street northwest in October, 1927, where Brown and Miss Lillian Johnson were arrested. Prosecution of the case was conducted by Assistant District Attorney Irvin Goldstein, while Bertrand Emerson, jr., and Harold Stephenson appeared as defense counsel.

When the case was called for trial last February 13, a continuance was granted because of illness of Attorney Emerson. Enraged at the delay of the trial, Mrs. Brown confronted her husband and Miss Johnson as they emerged from the courtroom and fired five shots, wounding Brown.

NEW SCHOOL OFFICIALS NAMED

Howard U. Makes Faculty Changes

Dr. Nelson Is Assistant to President; Houston Gets Law Post.

Appointment of William Stuart Nelson, of the faculty of the school of religion of Howard University, as administrative assistant to Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, university president, was announced yesterday. Dr. Charles H. Houston was made resident vice dean of the school of law, in charge of full time day school and library. Albert I. Cassell was made head of the department of maintenance of buildings and grounds.

Dr. Nelson, a Howard alumnus, is a graduate student of the University of Paris, and a bachelor of divinity from Yale. He has studied in Berlin and has completed residence requirements for his doctorate at the University of Marburg, Germany. Dr. Houston is a graduate of Dunbar High School and Amherst College and has received the degree of doctor of juridical science from Harvard. He conducted legal research for Howard University under the Sheldon traveling fellowship in 1924.

Cassell, who has served as university architect during the recent building program, as well as Dr. Houston and Dr. Nelson, served as a commissioned officer in the World War.

Body of Drowned Boy Recovered by Police

The body of Franklin Greatorex, 15 years old, who was drowned Sunday in Georgetown channel when a canoe in which he was riding capsized, was recovered yesterday by Harbor Policemen W. J. Nealon and C. E. Adams.

No inquest in the boy's death will be held, it was announced by Coroner Ramsay Nevitt. The boy is survived by his mother, Mrs. Marie M. Greatorex, of 15 Evarts street northeast.

FEW GENIUSES IN BIG CLASS, LEADER SAYS

300, Graduating From Bliss Electrical School, Hear Y. M. C. A. Official.

DIPLOMAS ARE AWARDED

The conjecture that out of the graduating class of nearly 300 electricians, there might be six geniuses was made by William Knowles Cooper, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of Washington, at the commencement exercises of the Bliss Electrical School last night in Memorial Continental Hall.

Pointing out that the world is made up for the large part of average men, Mr. Cooper said that the aim of every man should be to develop his character and make himself as efficient as possible in his particular interests. He told the members of the class that most of them probably would turn out to be average men, adding that six of them, at the most, might be geniuses.

The speaker drew attention to the fact that electrical and other inventions have made the world a smaller place, and that consequently the work of rising above one's fellow men is more difficult. Mr. Cooper termed graduation as an independence day for the prospective electricians, because, in leaving the institution at which they have been trained, they are declaring their independence.

Mr. Cooper was introduced by Louis Denton Bliss, president of the school, who also made the farewell address to the class. Dr. Bliss presented the diplomas. The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. Paul R. Schearrer, pastor of the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church.

The names of the members of the graduating class will appear in the Sunday edition of The Washington Post.

Rhode Island Citizens See School Programs

Three schools provided entertainment for members of the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association at a community meeting last night in the auditorium of John Burroughs School. Thomas J. Llewellyn, president of the association, presided and delivered the only speech on the program.

The Woodridge, Langdon and John Burroughs schools were on the program. Others who aided in the evening's enjoyment included an orchestra directed by John P. Robb and solos and readings by Mrs. Carrie Bruce Wagner, H. Paul Firestone, Mrs. Eva P. Rothrock, Mrs. Emil Smith, Merlin Rader, Delmar Boch, Mrs. Paul Haas, David Martin, Mrs. Daniel H. Pratt, Miss Rita Harbers, and Mrs. Charles R. Speaker.

Seniors to Be Guests Of Y. M. C. A. Alumni

Members of the Alumni Association of the District of Columbia College of the Y. M. C. A. will tender a complimentary dinner to seniors of the School of Accountancy and School of Law of the college at 6.30 o'clock this evening in the assembly hall at 1736 G street.

Huston Thompson, former Federal Trade Commissioner and president of the Washington Y. M. C. A., will address the prospective alumni. Dr. James A. Bell, head of the college, and William Knowles Cooper, retiring general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., also will speak.

Man Arrested for Maryland Authorities.

Frank Dewey Fenney, 29 years old, of the Cavalier Apartments, also known as "Cap" Fenney, said to be wanted by Maryland authorities on a charge of hijacking, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Policeman Bert Shelton, of the First Precinct and held for investigation. Fenney, according to police, struck Shelton on the jaw when the latter arrested him at Thirteenth and F streets northwest.

COMMUNITY CHEST STARTS NEXT DRIVE HERE NOVEMBER 29

$923,737 IS REPORTED COLLECTED UP TO DATE

Hereafter Request for Extra Fund Will Be Passed On by Subcommittee.

November 29 to December 9, inclusive, were officially selected as opening and closing dates for the 1930 campaign for the Community Chest, at a meeting of the board of trustees of the Chest in the United States Chamber of Commerce building yesterday. The dates were recommended by President Frederic A. Delano at the instance of the executive committee.

The report of the treasurer, the Federal American National Bank, showed total pledges to date of $1,481,743.01, this amount allowing for duplication and cancellation of pledges. Of this amount, the report showed $923,737.87 collected to date, or 61.9 per cent of the total. The budget of the Chest showed a total expenditure of $63,847.41 to date, or about 4 per cent of the total. Prospects were that the Chest would stay within the specified limit of 6 per cent for expenses for the year.

Additional Appropriations.

Additional appropriations, totalling $83,000, to meet adjustments of budgets and emergencies that have arisen among nineteen organizations affiliated with the Chest, were approved by the trustees. These changes had been submited to the budget committee and approved. In anticipation of just such emergencies, the Chest allowed in its 1929 budget for a contingent sum of $100,000.

Clarence A. Aspinwall, chairman of the committee on office management, explained that his committee had investigated the work, equipment, salaries and personnel of the Chest organization and had found it satisfactory and operating on an economical basis.

Subcommittee to Act First.

The trustees approved the recommendations of the executive committee that hereafter requests for additional funds will be referred first to the subcommittee of the budget committee which considers the original budget. Its recommendations will then go to the budget committee.

Hereafter the trustees will not approve an expenditure not included in the budget of a member agency, unless such expenditure is authorized by the budget committee before such expense is incurred, except that, in a case which he deems an emergency, the director of the chest may take the responsibility to authorize the expenditure of an amount necessary to be spent before the next meeting of the budget committee.

Requests for transfer of funds involving no additional appropriations from the chest but merely an adjustment within the agency may be approved by the director subject to the approval of the budget subcommittee concerned.

Two Prizes Are Given To Typewriter Champion

Boyd Crawford, 23 years old, of 1110 Park road northwest, last night was given a gold medal and a portable typewriter in recognition of his proficiency in establishing the highest typewriting speed record made on a Royal typewriter in the District of Columbia during 1928. Crawford is a student at the Mount Pleasant School for Secretaries, the Tivoli Building, Fourteenth street and Park road northwest, where the presentation was made.

The young man's record was 89 words net per minute for 15 consecutive minutes, and 68 words a minute for 15 minutes of perfect copy, made in competitive contests in this city, Hallett Hill, director of the school, announced. It is expected that Crawford this year will enter the national typewriting speed contests.

Man's Divorce Invalid, Wife Gets Annulment

Mrs. Capitola Williams was granted an interlocutory decree annuling her marriage to John R. Williams, of 1816 S street northwest, yesterday by Justice Jennings Bailey in the District Supreme Court. The marriage took place at Rockville, Md., January 14, 1923.

Mrs. Williams declared she was persuaded to marry under representation that Williams had obtained a divorce at Wyandotte, Kans., on September 7, 1922, from his first wife, Mrs. Frances E. Williams. Shortly after the second marriage, on January 27, 1923, it was stated, the divorce decree was vacated on the petition of the first wife that it had been obtained through fraud. The first wife, later in the same year, obtained an absolute divorce from Williams in Michigan. Mrs. Williams, represented by Attorneys Raymond Neudecker and William C. Ashford, was awarded the custody of their minor son and maintenance.
